Independent Expert Will Study Loss Of Uranium

Committee Engaging Scientist to Check on AEC Report; Attack On Lilienthal Grows

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

The Joint Atomic Energy Committee is engaging an independent scientific expert to check the Atomic Energy Commission's report that part of the U-235 missing from the Argonne laboratory is being recovered from analysis of uranium waste at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Committee Chairman Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) emphasized that a brown laboratory bottle in which the U-235 was originally contained is still missing. The investigation, he said, of the manner in which the contents of the bottle could have found their way into a different uranium recovery can "must be intensively pursued."

Meanwhile demands for the resignation of David E. Lilienthal as chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission steadily mounted during the day. Two former supporters, Senators Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R., Iowa) and Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) reversed their previous approval of the AEC chairman.

Earlier in the day McMahon announced that the Joint Committee will consider ouster proposals against Lilienthal after it completes its inquiry into the loss of the U-235.

Excitement mounted to a high pitch in both houses yesterday over various aspects of the handling of the atomic energy program.

1. The mysterious "Scientist X," who was accused last year of giving atomic secrets to a Communist organizer, was reported yesterday to be a supervisor of students holding Atomic Energy study fellowships. "Scientist X" and several other supervisors will be called before a House subcommittee soon.

2. Dr. Isadore S. Edelman, who holds a $3750-a-year Atomic Energy Commission fellowship at Harvard University Medical School, told the Joint Committee yesterday he may have applied for membership in the Communist Party in 1943 but never did become an active member. He could not remember whether he ever did sign an application card but in any event, he declared, he attended only a couple of meetings and decided he could never adhere to Communist Party doctrines.

3. Hans Freistadt, admitted Communist and holder of an AEC fellowship, said yesterday he would take a loyalty oath but would not renounce his allegiance to the Communist Party—even if the fellowship is withdrawn. His statement was in answer to the AEC action Saturday in ordering non-Communist oaths for those holdings its fellowships.

Vote on Pay Bill For Military Hope Of House Today

The House temporarily laid aside the military pay bill yesterday but will resume consideration of the measure today.

Leaders hope to reach a final vote before adjourning for the day, but several controversial amendments must be acted upon first. One would kill the heart of the measure and another trim the boosts of higher ranking officers by 15 per cent.

The opposition is led by economy-minded Congressmen who want to cut the cost of the 406-million-dollar-a-year measure

Suicide Was Calculated Risk, Forrestal's Doctor Reports

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

The treatment of former Defense Secretary James Forrestal for a psychoneurosis involved "a calculated risk" of suicide, his physician said last night.

Capt. George N. Raines, chief of neuropsychiatry at Bethesda Naval Hospital, in a formal statement following the suicide early Sunday of his distinguished patient assumed full responsibility for the course of treatment followed. He categorically denied that Forrestal had attempted suicide previously during his stay at the hospital.

He did say, however, that "there was a history of an alleged suicide attempt" the night of last March 31 at Hobe Sound, Fla. Forrestal had gone there for a rest after resigning March 28 as Defense Secretary.

Dr. Raines' statement was issued just after arrangements were announced for an official funeral with full military honors at Arlington Cemetery at 11 a. m. Wednesday. Services will be in the Amphitheater and will be restricted to members of his own and the official family. President Truman said yesterday he would attend.

A special Navy board of inquiry, meanwhile, began an investigation into circumstances of Forrestal's death. The board yesterday visited the sixteenth-floor room at Bethesda Naval Hospital from which he plunged to his death, and the third-floor roof upon which he fell. It will begin hearing witnesses today.

Members of the board of inquiry are Capt. A. A. Marsteller, a leading service psychiatrist; Capt. Vincent Hernandez, Capt. Harold J. Cokely, Comdr. William W. Ayres and Lieut. Comdr James D. Wharton, all members of the Naval Medical Corps.

The first witnesses, scheduled to be heard today, will be Comdr. R. R. Deen and Medical Corpsman R. W. Harrison, jr., who were on duty near the former Secretary's room when he walked across the corridor to a diet kitchen and

Montgomery Budget May Be $6,000,000

County Manager's Estimate Due Today; Tax Hike Indicated

A recommended 1949-50 operating budget of more than six million dollars for Montgomery County is expected to be released today by County Manager I. G. McNayr.

Recent statements by the county council have also indicated a real estate tax rate increase is in store.

Several weeks ago, the council announced that if new classrooms and roads are to be financed, a tax rate increase will be unavoidable. Last week, the council released a financial survey of the county which declared a tax rate increase is "mandatory" if money for capital improvements is provided.

School authorities have requested that $5,406,500 be made available for classroom projects in 1949-50. They have also asked for $3,746,707 beginning July 1 to operate schools.

Numerous county groups have indorsed a tax rate increase of 10 cents for each $100 in property if needed to help finance a school building program. The present rate is $1.88 per assessed $100 valuation.

Montgomery is eligible for an outright State grant of $1,260,000 for new classrooms if it spends $3,780,000 of its own money for the same purpose. County groups and the School Board have urged the county council to take advantage of this program.

In addition to the operating budget, McNayr is expected to deliver to the council today his capital budget which will include his recommendations on the school and road building programs.

Final action on the two budgets must be taken some time in June.

Top Red Says Slump in 1929 Converted Him

Medina Refuses To Throw Out Government Case

New York, May 23 (AP).—Conversion of an American boy into a dyed-in-the-wool Red leader was outlined today by the convert—the first defendant to testify in the Communist conspiracy trial.

The story came from John Gates, who grew up to become editor of the Communist paper, the Daily Worker. He now is one of 11 top Communist leaders charged with conspiring to overthrow the United States Government.

As Gates told it, his was a story of depression and poverty, of a sensitive mind persuaded by Marxist doctrines until he became a Communist crusader.

FBI Testimony Retained

Gates was called to the stand after Federal Judge Harold R. Medina refused to throw out the prosecution case, built up during 123 days of testimony. The Government rested last Thursday.

Judge Medina denied defense motions for a mistrial, an acquittal, a dismissal of the charge and a motion to strike out testimony of FBI agents planted in Communist ranks.

This is Gates' story, as he told it from the stand:

He was born 35 years ago as Saul Regenstreif, son of parents who came to New York in 1908 from Poland and were naturalized citizens.

As a schoolboy, Gates led "in pledging allegiance to the United States at assembly periods." Once he won a gold medal for high marks.

He was graduated from high school in 1930 with a $400 State scholarship and entered the City College of New York.

Leaves College for Job

In 1929, his father lost his candy store and his savings in the crash.

This led young Gates to wonder "why there should be such a collapse in the richest country in the world, why there should be poverty in the midst of plenty."

He sought his answer in Communist books and campus debates where Reds took a vigorous role.

Looks at 3 French Creations

Rita Hayworth Makes Study Of Negligee for Her Wedding

Cannes, France, May 23 (U.P.).—Plans for the Rita Hayworth-Aly Khan marriage ran into more tangles today. The bride-to-be happily studied three enchanting negligees, trying to decide which to wear on her wedding night.

The negligees were all designed by Jacques Fath, master of what the French call "decolletage."

Between now and Friday night she must choose among "Jonquille," a white jersey and very clinging; "Life," an enthralling white satin number, and "Narcisse," also white with transparent panels.

While Aly's private plane was flying here from London and Paris with his own specially made wedding clothes, word leaked out from his million-dollar Chateau de l'Horizon that the Mohammedan part of the wedding ceremony has been postponed.

The bald little Communist Mayor of Vallauris, locally called "the sweetest smelling village this side of Heaven" because it manufactures perfume essence, announced he did not know whether he would perform a civil ceremony at the chateau as both Rita and Aly wish.

Disregarding the precedent of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, who were married in a chateau in France 12 years ago, Mayor Paul Andre Derigon said that under French law the civil marriage had to take place at his office.

The beautiful Begum Khan, "Miss France of 1932," who is the wife of Aly's father, the Aga Khan, will not attend. She injured her back while nursing her ailing husband and will have to go to Switzerland for treatment.

Sales-Tax Bill Approved by Conference

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A joint House-Senate conference yesterday approved a District 2-per-cent sales tax bill compromise. Final congressional approval may be given today.

District officials pointed out that the revenue bill must become law by next Tuesday, May 31, or the expected revenue yield will be cut by more than $1,250,000. That amount is the approximate monthly yield of the sales tax, and under the bill the sales tax cannot take effect until the first of the month following by 60 days the signing of the act.

August 1 Effective Date Sought

If signed in May, the sales tax would take effect August 1. If signed in June, it would take effect September 1.

On four main disputed points the conference group agreed to the following recommendations, which must clear both Houses before the 18-million-dollar city revenue bill goes to the White House:

1. Liquor taxes: The conferees recommended a 50-per-cent increase in liquor gallonage taxes, compared with a 100-per-cent boost fixed by the Senate, and no increase voted by the House.

In addition, both Houses have agreed to a 50-per-cent boost in liquor license fees, and to applying the 2-per-cent sales-tax features of the revenue bill to all retail liquor sales.

Beer Tax Boosted 50c

Included in the compromise is a boost in the tax on beer from 50 cents to $1 a barrel. The Senate has voted for this; the House made no special boost in the beer tax.

2. Restaurant meals: Meals costing $1.25 or less are to be exempt from the 2 per cent sales tax. Those costing more are to be entirely subject to the sales levy. The House had voted to tax all restaurant meals. The Senate approved a $1.50 meal exemption. Both Houses had previously agreed to exempt food for home consumption from the sales tax.

3. Cigarettes: The conference group approved the Senate decision to apply a tax of 1 cent per pack of cigarettes, and not to subject them to the general retail sales tax. The House had applied the sales tax to cigarettes. The conference decision means a 10-cent tax per carton; the House version meant 3 cents per carton.

All Medicines Excepted

4. Drugs and medicines: The Senate decision to exempt all drugs and medicines from the 2 per cent sales tax was accepted by the conference committee. The House had voted to exempt only those drugs and medicines sold on prescription.

Besides the liquor and sales tax provisions, the revenue bill includes a (1) a 15-cent increase in the $2-per-$100 real-estate tax for the year starting July 1; (2) a cut in the unincorporated business income tax exemption from $10,000 to $5000, and (3) an increase in the personal District income taxpayer's exemption from $1000 to $4000, applying to income received after December 31, 1949.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) who led the Senate fight against the sales tax, and who was a member of the conference group, said he would not sign the conference report. He said he had not decided whether to oppose the plan further on the floor.

Appeals Court Rules for D. C. On Domicile for Tax Purposes

Government employes with no "fixed and definite" intent to return to their home States must pay a District income tax, the Court of Appeals ruled yesterday in a split decision.

The tax must be paid even if the employes have neither an intent to return nor an intent to stay in the District, the court said.

The decision was handed down in the case of Miss Dorothy Arbaugh, 1803 Biltmore st. nw., a Library of Congress worker, who came here from Indiana in 1936, and who has been employed by the Federal Government since. She appealed a District Board of Tax Appeals decision that she was liable for $75 in 1945 and 1946 income taxes.

Judge Wilbur K. Miller dissented from the majority opinion written by Judges Henry W. Edgerton and E. Barrett Prettyman.

The split resulted from different interpretations of Miss Arbaugh's intent. The majority held that she had no definite intent; Judge Miller held that she intended to return to Indiana, noting she had paid her 1945 and 1946 income taxes there.

Assistant Corporation Counsel George C. Updegraff said the case was the first of its kind won by the District and could affect thousands of persons and mean new revenue.

No decision on a further appeal to the Supreme Court has been reached.

Miss Arbaugh had testified before the board that "my home is where I am."

"I have no expectations to go anywhere. I have no expectations, further, to stay here. I have no expectations of any kind," she told the board.

The majority opinion agreed with a Supreme Court decision that "persons are domiciled here who live here and have no fixed and definite intent to return and make their homes where they were formerly domiciled."

In his dissent Judge Miller said the "court's decision improperly visits the appellant with unwelcome domicile."

"If it be true, as found by the board, that the appellant has never intended to abandon her domicile in Indiana and has never intended to acquire one in the District of Columbia, it is simply impossible to say she is domiciled in the District," Judge Miller said. "It is well understood that no person can have more than one domicile."

Judge Miller found convincing evidence that she regards Indiana as her "domicile" in the fact that Miss Arbaugh voluntarily paid income taxes there which are exacted only of those domiciled there.

Reds Abandon Hankow; Riots, Looting Rife

Chinese Industrial City Left Without A Civil Government

By the United Press

Shanghai, May 23.—Canton reports today said the Communists had abandoned the great industrial city of Hankow, where rioting and looting now are rampant.

The reports came as the government claimed major victories in the defense of Shanghai, and as British and American naval chiefs conferred in Hongkong on the evacuation of their nationals from Communist-threatened South China.

A Communist broadcast reported the capture of Nanchang, capital of Kiangsi Province, 400 miles southwest of Shanghai, and 100 miles below the Yangtze River. The city of 300,000 is a major communications center.

The broadcast described Manchang as "birthplace of the Peoples Liberation Army" August 1, 1927.

In Shanghai the defense garrison claimed it had "shattered" a Communist offensive against Wuchiao, 12 miles north of the city and a key point defending Shanghai's Whangpoo River lifeline, but a communique said new battles were mounting in intensity, with each side throwing in reinforcements.

Officials of the Canton-Hankow Railway in Canton said they had received reports from Hankow—the first since Communists took the city last week—that the Red forces unaccountably had pulled out, leaving no civil administration whatever.

German Unity No. 1 Subject At Paris Talks

By Wes Gallagher

Paris, May 23 (AP).—The four-power Foreign Ministers Conference opened today with polite skirmishing over the agenda.

In a session of 2½ hours, the diplomatic chiefs of Britain, France, the United States and Russia swiftly agreed:

1. To make German unification their top business.

2. Surprisingly placed an Austrian independence treaty on the slate.

3. Quietly muffled the bombshell Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky proposed to throw into the conference by suggesting a date be set with China to take up a peace treaty for Japan.

Vishinsky was agreeable throughout, but there were hints of tough sessions ahead. The agenda for this fourth effort of the Foreign Ministers Council to reach a German settlement is almost exactly the same as the one that deadlocked previous conferences.

The meeting was behind closed doors, but the details were given newspapermen by press officers of the French, British and American delegations.

At the very start, French Foreign Minister Schuman frankly warned Vishinsky the West was dissatisfied with the way the New York agreement for lifting the Berlin blockade was being carried out. He said if the difficulties in Berlin could not be settled to everyone's satisfaction the foreign ministers would have to consider them.

The adopted agenda read:

"1. The problem of German unity, including economic principles, political principles and Allied control.

"2. Berlin, including the currency question.

"3. Preparation of a treaty of peace for Germany.

"4. Consideration of a treaty with Austria."

Schuman suggested the Austrian treaty be added if there is time after German problems are discussed. He was supported by United States Secretary of State

Berlin Strike Rioter Killed By Red Police

Mob Storming Rail Station Is Fired On; British End Battle

Berlin, May 23 (AP).—Railway police from the Russian sector fired tonight on 3000 striking railway employes and sympathizers who tried to storm an elevated station in West Berlin. A 16-year-old youth was killed, and two other persons were wounded.

(The United Press said two were killed, two critically wounded and "scores" injured.)

Order was restored when the 200 Eastern railway police yielded to a British demand that they evacuate the two-story station that serves the Berlin Zoo. Western Berlin police took over the building.

While the strikers howled about the station, British Col. James Stewart demanded withdrawal of the Eastern sector police. The stone-throwing mob was restrained by West Berlin police and union leaders armed with clubs.

The demonstrators yelled for "the murderers," but a union leader appealed to them:

"Be patient, my young ones. Three days we have struck, and now we are reaching our goal. The murderers of our people will be taken by the English authorities." But the British made no arrests.

The strike started early Saturday to enforce a demand by Western sector employes that their Russian-controlled management pay their wages in West marks instead of the less valuable East marks. The Russians operate the elevated railroad in all sectors of the city, under four-power agreement.

The clash at the Zoo station followed a refusal earlier today by Western military commanders in Berlin to expel Russian sector police from the entire elevated railway during the walkout.

Instead, the American, British and French commanders authorized intervention by Western police only to quell outbreaks of violence at individual stations. In the event of such outbreaks, order will be restored and the property

Sex Maniac at Large 7 Years

Escaped Lifer Caught in Park; Identified After 10 Arrests

Park police arrested on suspicion a man walking in Rock Creek Park during a downpour Sunday night, to find he was an escaped lifer who had been at large seven years.

He was identified as Jesse Paul Parker, 35, who escaped from the Hospital for the Criminally Insane at Crownsville, Md. on October 17, 1941. A check of his name and fingerprints in Metropolitan Police and FBI files brought the reply that he was "not wanted," Park Police said yesterday. The same reply apparently had been received at least ten times previously for a record of ten arrests by Metropolitan Police since his escape was uncovered.

However, Metropolitan police files showed that Parker had been sentenced to life only 10 years before, and the investigators did not believe he could have been paroled as soon as this.

Armed with this knowledge, the investigators continued their questioning. Parker admitted his past record and finally his escape, Park Policeman Charles Mellott said. His story was later confirmed by officials of the Maryland Penitentiary and hospital.

The captured convict was sentenced to life imprisonment on May 22, 1939, for assault with intent to criminally attack a 35-year-old woman on the grounds of the Chevy Chase (Md.) Elementary School.

He was turned over yesterday to authorities of the Maryland State Penitentiary in Baltimore, where he had served two years of his sentence before being sent to Crownsville.

Gulf Coast Members of House Group Join Move

Administration Hold On Committee Upset; ECA Head Expresses "Extreme Concern"

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A Southern-led coalition on the House Appropriations Committee yesterday voted a 15 per cent cut in 1950 Marshall Plan funds and appropriations for occupied areas.

The vote, upsetting the committee's Administration leadership for the first time this year, was 22 to 19.

Seven Democrats, mostly from Gulf States, joined a solid bloc of 15 Republicans to order a $779,730,000 reduction in the bill.

ECA Administrator Paul G. Hoffman expressed "extreme concern" for the future of the program if Congress affirms the cut.

Hoffman told reporters it would mean a "serious loss of momentum" in European recovery.

"If this cut stands the program will be slowed down and if its goals are achieved they will come only at a later date and at a much higher cost."

Floor Fight in Prospect

Speaker Rayburn later announced he will join House Appropriations Committee Chairman Cannon (D., Mo.) in a floor fight to restore the bill to the $5,015,500,000 figure recommended by a subcommittee.

Chairman Cannon termed the cut "extremely drastic." Chairman Kee (D., W. Va.) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said the slash was "untimely" in view of four-power talks opening yesterday in Paris. Kee said the full amount already had been "carefully screened" many times.

A plea to the House to put back the money to avert any setback in European recovery and to strengthen Secretary of State Acheson's hand in Paris is expected to be made by the Administration leadership.

Representative Albert Thomas (D., Tex.), who usually sides with the Administration in the House, made the motion to cut the bill.

Thomas cited falling domestic prices to justify the slash.

"The ECA budget was prepared 60 to 90 days ago," Thomas said. "We now have a declining economy. Prices will decline 10 to 20 per cent before all these funds are spent."

President Truman already had revised his estimates downward by $157,800,000 to allow for falling prices.

Then an appropriations subcommittee headed by Representative Gary (D., Va.) recommended another cut of $232,700,000 below revised budget estimates, again citing declining prices.

Occupation Funds Reduced

The full Appropriations Committee normally approves subcommittee recommendations in a routine way but the Thomas motion upset the cards. The committee's already prepared report was hurriedly called back and revised.

But the $4,015,900,000 proposed by the subcommittee for the Marshall Plan's second year of operation was scaled back to $3,568,470,000, or 15 per cent under Mr. Truman's revised estimates.

The one billion dollars recommended for government and relief in occupied areas of Germany, Austria, Japan, Korea and the Ryukyu Islands also was cut back 15 per cent, to 850 million dollars.

The full 50 million dollars rec-

Union Proposes Ford Arbitration On Main Dispute

Detroit, May 23 (AP).—The CIO United Auto Workers tonight proposed arbitration of the main issue in the Ford strike. It was the first major step aimed at breaking a 19-day deadlock.

UAW President Walter Reuther suggested that six minor issues be settled first before going to arbitration. After these were agreed upon, he said, the union would sign a strike settlement.

The big question was how to adjust manpower to the rate of production at Ford's two Detroit plants. Disagreement on this point was the spark that set off the strike of 65,000 workers May 5.

State Medicine Held Likely Alternative

Housing Bill

Loans Asked For Middle Salary Group

Representative Biemiller (D., Wis.) yesterday introduced a bill to provide housing for middle-income groups, with Government help.

"The middle-income group," he said, "is left out in present plans for housing our homeless millions. They are too rich to get into a Government project, even if there were room available. They are too poor to buy a new house or an adequate old one."

He said his bill would provide low-interest loans from the Government, to be paid off over a long period, to make middle-income housing projects possible.

It would encourage cooperative housing corporations and mutual-ownership plans, limited dividend and nonprofit corporations, as well as local public and municipal housing agencies.

"Group construction, with some subsidy, some Government support, offers the only hope of decent housing to the middle-income group," he said.

By The Associated Press

An Administration spokesman said yesterday President Truman's health insurance program is the only alternative to State medicine, but Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he was wrong.

Taft disputed in particular the claim of J. Donald Kingsley, acting Federal Security administrator, that there is general agreement "that our present system of payment for medical care is totally inadequate."

"I don't agree with that at all," the Ohioan said.

Taft is the author of one of the principal substitutes offered for the system of Nation-wide health insurance, to be financed by a payroll tax, which Mr. Truman is backing.

A Senate Labor Subcommittee opened hearings on the Administration bill and a number of alternates for it which have been proposed.

Similar hearings are in progress in the House, but there appears only a remote chance that Congress will act this year. Supporters hope to have legislation ready in case there should be a special session next fall, or for action when Congress returns next January.

Kingsley, the first Senate witness, said the Federal Government already is supporting a big program of State medicine in which an estimated 24 million persons received some Federal aid.

"I am firmly and honestly convinced," he said, "that nothing short of the social insurance method can prevent the further—and eventually the complete—substitution of state for private medicine."

Taft told Kingsley that "I don't agree with your conclusions on a dozen different things."

He said he regards the Truman plan for a payroll tax and expansion of medical facilities and services as "a rather elaborate plan of grants and loans to all sorts of different people."

Kingsley said only an insurance plan can provide "a sound, firm, reliable economic foundation upon which private medicine can expand and flourish."

He declared that other proposals which have been advanced "rely in effect if not in purpose upon public charity—a medical dole."

The Administration bill calls for a payroll tax of 3 per cent split between employe and employer on income up to $4800 a year. There would be an additional sum from general tax receipts. Families of all contributing wage earners would be eligible for complete medical and hospital care. Doctors could choose their patients and patients their doctors.

Sponsors estimate the cost at about six billion dollars a year and say it would cover about 120 million persons.

Langer to Ask For Inquiry on James Ousting

Senator William Langer (R., N. D.) said yesterday he will ask the Senate Civil Service Committee to investigate the ordered dismissal of Roy E. James from his $8500-a-year Govenment post.

Representative Francis E. Walter (D., Pa.), unsuccessfully opposed by James for Congress in the 1948 campaign, said he, too, thought there should be an investigation.

Walter, who has denied that he ever brought pressure to have James let out, said in a statement:

"It (the investigation) should be broad enough to determine how this unqualified man received his appointment and how many other employes of the Government are receiving salaries they are not entitled to. An investigation of this sort might well make a very valuable contribution to reducing the ever mounting high cost of government."

Langer, ranking GOP member of the Senate Civil Service committee, was asked by Senator Edward Martin (R., Pa.) to look into contentions that James was ordered dismissed as the result of political pressure by Walter,

Counts Tax Evasion Trial Clears Name of Sen. Glass

Richmond, Va., May 23 (AP).—The late United States Senator Carter Glass was cleared completely today of insinuations that he accepted payments to get war contracts.

Prosecution and defense in the income tax evasion trial of W. Clay Counts in Federal District Court vied for the opportunity of clearing the name of the former Virginia Senator, who was Secretary of the Treasury in the cabinet of Woodrow Wilson and one of the authors of the Federal Reserve Act.

There was this difference: The prosecution charged that Counts stated he made such payments in order to cover up an understatement of $15,000 in his 1943 income tax.

The defense contended that the payments were made to a man impersonating Senator Glass but now known by the defense to have been an impostor.

George R. Humrickhouse, district attorney, told the jury in United States District Court that Senator Glass was too ill to transact business in 1943, was not even in Washington a part of the time and that Counts never saw him.

The defense rested late today in the trial of Counts of Roanoke, Va., on charges of seeking to evade $8000 in income taxes, and court was adjourned until 9:30 p. m. Tuesday.

The gift was made known at a testimonial dinner of the Washington Heart Association held at the Mayflower Hotel honoring John H. Wilkins, jr., president of the Wilkins Coffee Co., who served as campaign director for the local group.

The Variety Club is composed of men directly associated with the entertainment business. yearly raises sums of money for donation to charitable institutions.

In his capacity as chairman, Wilkins was instrumental in raising $54,000.

He was presented a life membership in the association and a certificate of honor by the American Heart Association.

Dr. J. Ross Veal, new president of the association, announced that funds collected during the campaign will be used in an educational program designed to reach those suffering from cardio-vascular diseases at an early age. In addition, the organization will sponsor a summer camp near Quantico, Va., for cardiac children.

In accepting the membership and certificate, Wilkins said that being a heart patient himself he was cognizant of the problems these persons faced and his efforts were attempts to help those who needed heart treatment and were unabl to afford it.

Other new officers of the organization present at the meeting included, vice president, Dr. Clayton B. Ethridge; secretary, Dr. Benjamin Manchester, and treasurer, Frank T. Parsons.

Woman Awarded $16,000 for Fall

A stenographer who fractured her shoulder when she fell in the Kellogg Building 1416 F st. nw., March 13, 1947, yesterday was awarded $16,600 damages by a District Court jury.

The woman, Fernande A. David, 1325 New Hampshire ave. nw., now a stenographer for the French Purchasing Commission, was employed as personnel manager for the French Press Agency, 1416 F st. nw., at the time of the mishap.

It was alleged during the trial that the floor of the building was wet from rain tracked in and that a rubber mat usually spread out during rainy days was not so placed that day.

The suit, filed by Attorney Albert Brick named as defendants the trustees of the Henry K. Willard estate. The Kellogg Building is part of the estate. The verdict was rendered before Federal Judge T. Alan Goldsborough.

15 Deliverymen Win Safe-Driving Awards

Fifteen members of the Woodward & Lothrop delivery department yesterday were awarded gold pins for their collective record of 128 years of driving without an accident. The pins were presented by the firm in collaboration with the Liberty Mutual Insurance Co.

Legal Action Planned Over Day's Drought

Falls Church will take legal action against a plumbing contractor who, city officials say, cut two developments off from their water supply for an entire day without notifying anyone.

City Council last night instructed City Attorney La Rue Van Meter to take the legal action against the Arlington contractor identified by city officials as J. Walter Williams.

Describing the waterless episode of last Wednesday, Van Meter said the main water valves which supply the Homecrest development had been installed some time ago and had been accidentally paved over.

Williams was asked by the city last Tuesday to uncover the valves. Without consulting the city, Van Meter said, Williams cut the main water valves which control the supply to Tyler Park and Jefferson Village developments, leaving them without water while he worked on the Homecrest valves.

In addition, Van Meter said, Williams allowed fire hydrants to flow to reduce water pressure in the lines in violation of an emergency city ordnance recently invoked which limits unnecessary use of water.

2d Group Asks Open Hearing On Young

A public hearing by the Senate District Committee on confirmation of John Russell Young for another term as District commissioner will be requested today by the D. C. Central Suffrage Conference.

In a telegram today the conference's board of trustees will ask "that in any event Mr. Young's position on home rule be made a matter of official public record."

The action was voted last night at a special meeting of the board at 700 Jackson pl. nw. It marked the second time in a week a public hearing on Young's confirmation, particularly to seek his views on home rule, had been asked. The District League of Women Voters requested similar action May 16.

The Senate committee has agreed to invite Young to appear—but in closed session—before voting on his nomination.

One suffrage-conference-board member, ponting out that nine of the 13 members of the committee are sponsors of the Kefauver home-rule bill, said last night. "I think we should take every opportunity to needle Young on home rule."

Wilbur S. Finch, president of the suffrage conference, said last night that District commissioners have "traditionally" opposed home rule."

Named at last night's meeting was a nominating committee to select a slate of officers for the conference. Named to the committee were Kenneth P. Armstrong, chairman, and Jesse B. Manbeck, Mrs. Libbye Dunn, Charles S. Hill and Austin L. Fickling.

Cost of Living Up 2d Month After 5 Dips

The cost of living inched up again during the 30 days ending in mid-April.

But General Motors Corp. yesterday announced price cuts on all its cars and trucks.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics announced the April 15 cost-of-living index yesterday. It stood at 169.7 per cent of the average for 1935 to 1939. That represented an increase of one-tenth of 1 per cent from March 15.

This was the second monthly advance, after a five-month decline. In the 30 days preceding March 15, the index had risen 0.3 per cent.

On April 15 the index stood at almost the same level as a year earlier. But it was 27.3 per cent above June, 1946, when most price controls were abolished. The new index was 72.1 per cent above August, 1939.

Washington food prices went up seven-tenths of 1 per cent in the month. Meats, poultry and fish led the rise by advances averaging 2.3 per cent, offsetting drops for dairy products, fats and oils. Slight declines for coffee, cereals and bakery products also were reported.

Lamb rose nearly 13 per cent in the month while beef and veal rose 1.6 per cent.

The latest national increase was not enough to block a cent-an-hour reduction in the wage rates of General Motors Corp. workers under their unusual contract tied to the cost-of-living index.

Members of Walter Reuther's CIO United Auto Workers actually have gained no ground under their cost-of-living arrangement by which pay goes up or down a cent an hour for every 1.14 percentage change in the Government index.

The net loss for the last two quarters was 3 cents. That wiped out the 3-cent increase G.M. workers received last September at the end of the first quarter under their contract.

General Motors followed up the 1-cent reduction in pay rates to its workers with its announcement of price cuts of $10 to $40.

Tornadoes' Damage Put at 5 Million

Chicago, May 23 (U.P.).—Forty-seven persons were counted dead today in the wake of tornadoes and windstorms that smashed cities and communities in seven States over the weekend.

Nearly 400 were injured. Scores still are in hospitals. Property damage was estimated at five million dollars. More than 1000 homes were wrecked.

The storms began with a broadside of tornadoes in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana and Iowa Saturday night and continued yesterday with heavy winds through Kentucky, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

A woman was killed at Somerset, Ky., where property damage was placed at $500,000.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., posted the highest toll of dead with 21. More than 400 homes were damaged and three hospitals were crowded.

Church Backs Repealer of Exclusion Act

Buck Hill Falls, Pa., May 23 (AP).—The Reformed Presbyterian Church of America today called for support of the Judd bill providing for equality in naturalization and immigration.

"We believe in elimination of discriminatory immigration restrictions placed on Oriental countries by the Exclusion Act of 1924," the synod said in a resolution.

Dr. Glenn P. Reed, executive secretary of the board of foreign missions, told delegates ot the general assembly of the United Presbyterian Church that communism will fail because "it runs counter to man's inherent convictions of freedom."

Both church bodies heard W. A. Visserts Hooft, general secretary of the world council of churches from Switzerland.

Senator Humphrey (D., Minn.) will give a progress report on Truman's "Fair Deal" to the Northern Virginia Committee, Americans for Democratic Action, Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Claude Swanson Junior High, 5800 N. Washington blvd., Arlington.

Kenneth G. Crawford, associate editor of Newsweek Magazine and vice chairman of the committee, also will speak on "A Fair Deal for Virginia." It will be the first public meeting of the newly organized committee.

Psychiatrists Scored For Emphasis on Fees

Montreal, May 23, May 23 (U.P.).—There is a temptation among psychiatrists to put too much emphasis on what the patient can pay rather than on how great is his need for relief from mental illness, Dr. William S. Menninger, of Topeka, Kans., said today.

Dr. Menninger spoke as retiring president at the opening session of the national convention of the American Psychiatric Association. He was succeeded as president of the 4500-member association by Dr. George S. Stevenson of New York.

Booth Promoted To White Oak Laboratory Chief

Seth W. Booth, associate chief of the engineering department of the Naval Ordnance Laboratory at White Oak, Md., has been named chief to succeed Dr. Royal Weller, now chief scientist for the Naval Air Missile Test Center, Point Mugu, Calif.

Booth, who came to the laboratory in September, 1941, after 12 years with the New York Telephone Co., received the Navy's Distinguished Civilian Service Medal for important contributions to development of the laboratory during the war.

A native of New Britain, Conn., he lives in University Park, Md. He is a graduate of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Col. Du Frenne Cited By Disabled Veterans

Col. Martin F. Du Frenne, commanding officer of the Fort Belvoir Station Hospital, yesterday was awarded a citation by northern Virginia Chapter No. 12 of the Disabled American Veterans for his work with veterans at the hospital.

The citation, signed by Lieut. Gen. Jonathan Wainwright, national commander of the DAV, was presented by Maj. Gen. Douglas L. Weart, commanding general of the post.

Colonel Du Frenne, who has been at Fort Belvoir for two years, was formerly commanding officer of the Fort Myer Station Hospital and surgeon for the Military District of Washington.

4 Men Held on Sex Charges Of Young Girls

Four men were held without bond in Municipal Court yesterday for action of the grand jury, charged with committing sex offenses with 6 and 10-year-old girls.

Judge Ellen K. Raedy held Yeoman 1/c Louis J. Lazar, 24, of the Naval Receiving Station, Anacostia, Md., and 1008 31st st. se.; Frank Haven, 62, a laborer, 405 6th st. se.; William J. Payne, 57, a gardener, 718 I st. se., and Howard Malone, 34, 716 Florida ave. nw.

Malone was charged with taking indecent liberties with two 6-year-old girls in the 5700 block of Georgia ave. nw., Sunday. Following his appearance before Judge Raedy, he pleaded guilty before Judge Thomas Dewey Quinn to charges of indecent exposure and was ordered to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

Lazar was accused of carnal knowledge of a 10-year-old girl, who testified in court he twice had sexual relations with her in his car and had given her 50 cents.

The same girl told Judge Raedy that Haven had had sexual relations with her at another time.

Payne was implicated by the girl's companion, also 10. He was charged with violation of the sodomy law. The United States attorney's office said in court three similar charges against Payne will be presented directly to the grand jury.

Lane Appoints Carey Jarman To Succeed Ober

Annapolis, Md., May 23 (AP).—Carey Jarman of Chestertown will take over as superintendent of the Maryland State Police when Col. Beverly Ober resigns June 1 to become police commissioner of Baltimore City.

The major shift in top police personnel was announced by Governor Lane.

As Baltimore police commissioner, Colonel Ober will succeed Hamilton B. Atkinson who winds up a six-year term May 31. Atkinson, the only man in Baltimore's history to rise from the ranks to commissioner, was appointed in 1943 by former Governor O'Conor.

Colonel Jarman has been serving for the past three years as director of the Medical Administration Service of the Veterans Administration for Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. He is a veteran of both World Wars.

Divorce Ended Rutledge's 1st Marriage

Cedar Rapids, Iowa, May 23 (AP).—The defense today rested its case in the murder trial of Dr. Robert C. Rutledge, jr., but not before the State showed an earlier marriage of the young doctor ended in divorce.

The State also brought out the 28-year-old St. Louis pediatrician has been taking a sedative during part of his trial.

Dr. Rutledge is accused of fatally stabbing Byron C. Hattman, 29, St. Louis—alleged seducer of the doctor's present wife—in a hotel room clash here last December 14.

Wife Returns to Court

As soon as Rutledge left the witness box after nine hours of testimony over three days, his blond wife, Sydney, 23, returned to his side. She had remained away from court during his testimony.

County Attorney William Crissman was cut short by a defense objection when he asked the defendant if it wasn't true his first marriage lasted "only a matter of hours."

Identity Not Revealed

The identity of the defendant's divorced wife was not disclosed. He married Sydney Goodrich in 1946 while he was a naval officer.

When Crissman asked Rutledge if he still was taking seconal, a sedative, the doctor said he had not taken any for several days. He said he anticipated the State might object.

Rain Hinders Rescue Of Buried Quarryman

Pen Argyl, Pa., May 23 (AP).—Heavy rains today added danger of new slides to attempts to reach a 34-year-old quarry worker buried in a rock slide Saturday.

A crew of 18, all employes of the Stevens-Jackson Quarry Co., worked through the day to reach Joseph Heatter of Wind Gap, Pa. They fear he is dead. There is a slim chance, however, he may have been caught in a pocket between rocks and is still alive under tons of debris.

Watch-Wait Policy on Sin Of Wife Upheld

Trenton, N. J., May 23 (AP).—A husband may watch his wife to get proof of adultery without being required to stop her, the New Jersey Supreme Court ruled today.

The court, finding adultery "abundantly evidenced" in the case of a New Jersey resident suing for divorce, ruled that "a husband may properly watch his wife, whom he suspects of adultery, in order to obtain proof of the fact."

"Such conduct," the court said, "does not constitute connivance or consent on his part in the absence of evidence of encouragement on the part of the husband.

"A husband's desire to be rid of his wife will not in itself change this rule."

The couple involved in the case was Mr. and Mrs. Philip E. Bingenheimer of Cardiff, N. J., a town near Atlantic City.

Bingenheimer accused his wife of committing adultery with a boarder.

Advisory Master Linwood W. Erickson held the evidence was inconclusive and that Bingenheimer made no effort to prevent relations between his wife and the boarder.

Boy, 4, Obeys Father, Shoots Him to Death

Mount Pleasant, N. C., May 23 (AP).—A 4-year-old boy shot and killed his father as directed today after the man pumped seven bullets into his estranged wife.

"I shot my daddy," calmly related tiny Doyle Talbert, one of seven children. "Daddy shot mommy on the back porch. He carried her in the bedroom and asked me to shoot him."

Sheriff Ray C. Hoover said Fetzer Lee Talbert, 37, of Stanfield, N. C., went this morning to his 35-year-old wife's farm home near here and accused her of running around with other men.

After an argument, Talbert fired six shots from a .22 caliber rifle into her chest. Then he carried the dying woman into a bedroom and shot her again through the head.

Placing the rifle against his own chest, Talbert ordered the small boy to pull the trigger. Doyle followed directions as 5-year-old Judine looked on.

Arkansas Court Rules For Radio Station Tax

Little Rock, Ark., May 23 (AP).—The city of Little Rock today was authorized by the Arkansas Supreme Court to collect an occupation tax from radio stations.

The high court conceded that radio waves actually go beyond State boundaries. The opinion declared that the stations' advertising is calculated to appeal primarily to local listeners, adding "it is immaterial . . . that a handful of nonresidents may listen momentarily before turning to a program of greater interest."

French Diplomat Killed

New Bern, N. C., May 23 (AP).—Alfred Pons, a vice consul with the French delegation to the United Nations, was killed in an automobile crash near here yesterday. His wife, Mrs. Simone Pons, suffered a broken left leg.

Unmasks Trio In Klan Regalia

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

JUDGE AND JURY—Mayor Jim Peterson of Soperton, Ga., yesterday told of ripping off the masks of "three men in Ku Klux Klan dress Saturday night who frightened several ladies. Peterson, after receiving a call about the men, rushed out and yanked off their masks and had them tossed in jail, charged with disorderly conduct. The trio are free on $100 bond each to appear in Recorder's Court June 13. Judge Peterson explained there is no jury in Recorder's Court

Australian Hits U.S. Aides

Sydney, Australia, May 23 (U.P.).—Immigration Minister Arthur A. Calwell charged today that "prominent Americans in Tokyo" are conspiring to help an Army corporal circumvent Australia's immigration laws.

Calwell referred to Corpl. Lorenzo Gamboa, a veteran of the Bataan campaign, who has been barred from visiting his Australian wife here. Gamboa, born in the Philippines, is a naturalized American citizen.

"As matters now stand, the Gamboa case is closed," Calwell said. Gamboa said Friday he will never stop trying to break through Australia's "white supremacy" policy.

Calwell charged that Alva Carpenter, legal aide to Gen. Douglas MacArthur, was "much to blame" in the Gamboa case.

House Unit Votes Bill for 4 More D. C. Judgeships

Creation of four more Federal Judgeships in the District was approved yesterday by a House Judiciary subcommittee, headed by Representative William T. Byrne (D., N. Y.).

Two of the judges would be in the United States Court of Appeals for the District, and two in the District Court here.

Committee aides said the judgeships are to be included in an omnibus bill calling for a total of 16 additional Federal District Court judgeships, and five additional circuit judgeships. Of the total, one judgeship in Missouri which is now temporary would be made permanent.

The omnibus bill is slated for consideration by the House Judiciary Committee Thursday.

Judge Upholds FBI Agent in His Refusal To Give Details of Shadowing in Coplon Case

By the United Press

Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves ruled yesterday that a Federal agent did not have to disclose in open court details of FBI shadowing in the Judith Coplon espionage case.

He held that the information was "confidential" when Defense Attorney Archibald Palmer sought to draw from G-Man Daniel F. Garde the nature of his assignment on the morning of January 15.

Previous FBI witnesses have testified that they tracked Miss Coplon, suspended Justice Department employe, to a January 14 meeting with Valentin A. Gubitchev, former Soviet employe of the United Nations.

Miss Coplon is charged with turning over secret Government documents to Gubitchev for transmission to Moscow.

The Government also has submitted testimony that on the morning of January 15 Gubitchev was seen coming out of the Soviet U. N. headquarters in New York City.

Judge Reeves also sustained Government objections to Palmer's cross-examination of Garde in connection with counterespionage work and on FBI surveillance of Russian U. N. headquarters.

U-235 Loss to Be Studied

Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Nebr.) last night joined in the demands for Lilienthal's resignation and said the issue would be laid before the Senate Republican Policy Committee, possibly Wednesday. Wherry said congressional power over the purse strings and authority over domestic atomic control legislation were "pressures" which could be applied for Lilienthal's removal.

5. Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, and Vandenberg called for a full inquiry of Lilienthal's administration of various aspects of the atomic program. Neither went so far as to call for Lilienthal's resignation.

Senators Tom Connally (D., Tex.) and John Bricker (R., Ohio) were others joining in the demands that Lilienthal's conduct in office be made the subject of inquiry.

McMahon told reporters last night the committee had gone thoroughly into the technical aspects of the missing uranium oxide.

He said that information provided to the committee by Dr. Walter H. Zinn, director of the Argonne National Laboratory, and from the representative of the Carbide and Carbon Corp., at Oak Ridge, where analyses are being carried out, strengthens the reasons for believing that most of the missing enriched uranium has been found.

He added that facts submitted by Dr. Zinn "do not support a theory of surreptitious removal" of the U-235 and commented that the scientist's account is "persuasive."

Nevertheless, he said, there are "several questions relating to the security procedures" in handling the material "and to the other administrative matters which are subject to criticism," and that the committee wants "the independent judgment of an outside expert."

The independent expert will be either a radio-chemist or a nuclear physicist.

"The committee," McMahon said, "views as serious the delay on the part of the Atomic Energy Commission in calling in the FBI. The Argonne officials stated to the committee that this was not done earlier because it was believed that the missing bottle was misplaced in the laboratory.

"During the period from February 8, when the loss was discovered, to March 28 when the committee notified the FBI, the committee was informed the laboratory staff was surveying and analyzing all of the containers or bottles which could contain the missing material."

"One of the unanswered questions," McMahon declared, "is what happened to the original container which was an ordinary bottle like thousands of others used for chemicals in the laboratory." He described this as being brown, about pint size.

Edelman told the Joint Committee both he and his wife had been introduced to small meetings of the Communist Party early in 1943 in Indianapolis at the home of Joseph Friend, then an instructor in the Indiana University Extension Division.

About a month before he entered the Army, Edelman said, he decided he could not agree with the Communist Party program and dropped the whole matter.

He said he had received an annual Christmas card from Friend, who is now, he declared, in the publishing business, but had no other contact with him.

Recently in Cambridge, he said, Friend's brother called on him and they discussed the brother's study of Japanese and also discussed hypnotism. He said he believed his wife sent a letter to Joseph Friend describing the visit with the brother.

Edelman stressed the fact that when he became interested briefly in the Communist Party in 1943 Russia was this country's war ally. He said he did not know if Friend was still a Communist.

A New Figure In Spy Hunt

Harris & Ewing

MRS. SYLVIA CROUCH

Red Blames Slump in 1929

When the Communists sprang to the defense of a student suspended from school, it kindled Gates' admiration. He promptly joined the Young Communist League in April 1931.

Gates left college in 1932 to get a job. He delivered groceries, sold soap powder door-to-door, distributed a labor newspaper. When he was out of a job, he pored over Karl Marx's writings and wrote his own 77-page summary of them.

Judge Medina refused to admit the summary into evidence. He said:

"The issue in this case is not whether Marx was right or Marx was wrong and does not involve the validity of Marx's arguments, but the issue is whether these defendants conspired as alleged."

The defense contended that if it could not "show what Marxism-Leninism is, we can't prove our case."

Judge Medina replied, "If we went into all the books, we would get so immersed in literature we would forget the charge and the indictment."

Woman Tells Of Red Rallies

By the United Press

Sylvia Crouch, red-haired wife of a Miami newspaper employe, told House spy hunters yesterday that she saw atomic scientist at Communist meetings in California in the early 1940s. Mrs. Crouch is a new figure in the House Un-American Activities Committee's renewed investigation of atomic espionage. She was questioned by committee investigtators behind closed doors yesterday and is slated to be recalled today.

Her husband, Paul Crouch, also is scheduled to appear today. Now a mechanical department employe of the Miami Daily News, he has already told the committee about his 17 years as a Communist Party organizer.

Mrs. Crouch also was a member of the party. She said she quit in 1942 after 13 years of membe.shi.

While she refused to discuss her testimony publicly, it was disclosed that she described an alleged Communist Party apparatus at the Berkeley (Calif.) radiation laboratory. She said it was set up in 1940 or 1941 to recruit members for the Communist Party. She did not know whether it was involved in espionage.

The witness said she attended some Communist meetings at which atomic scientist were present. It was not disclosed whether she identified the scientists.

Mrs. Crouch may shed some light on the activities of Arthur Adams, alleged wartime Soviet spy who fled this country in 1945 after trying to ferret out the secrets of the atomic bomb.

The committee also is scheduled to question Clarence F. Hiskey, a chemist, today about Adams.

The committee plans to question two other persons today concerning charges that Americans fired by the United States Government as security risks have obtained United Nations jobs.

Hiss Trial Set For Next Week

New York, May 23 (U.P.).—Alger Hiss will go on trial next Tuesday, May 31, a Federal court judge ruled today.

The definite trial date of the former State Department official, charged with perjury, was set as the defense disclosed it was prepared to offer "good character" statements from such notables as Ambassador-at-Large Philip C. Jessup, former Secretary of State Edward Stettinius and Illinois Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson.

Hiss is accused of lying to a grand jury in saying that he did not pass confidential Government documents to Whittaker Chambers, who was engaged in Soviet espionage.

DRIVE THIS EXCITING NEW 1949 ENGLISH AUSTIN

Before You Consider any other Car at any Price!

FLASH! AUSTIN CUTS PRICES $125! Same fully equipped Deluxe 4-Door Sedan now doubly the finest value!

DEVON Deluxe 4-Door Sedan

America's new car buyers have made the 1949 English Austin the fastest-selling imported car in the United States. Production has gone UP. Costs have come DOWN. NOW AUSTIN PASSES THIS SAVING ON TO YOU! Here's a car that gives you values you simply can't match anywhere else today! . . . And the 100,000,000 American miles that Austin owners now have driven prove everything we say here!

YOU GET 50% MORE FOR YOUR GASOLINE MONEY! . . . more than 30 miles per gallon! Where else can you match that in a quality car?

YOU GET POWER to take the steepest hills with ease! The Austin's lower low-gear pulls you right through the worst mud or snow. And if your wife drives, she'll fall in love with its ease of handling. She can park in spots where most other cars wouldn't have a chance!

YOU GET ROOMINESS THAT MATCHES HIGH PRICE CARS! One of the real surprises of the new Austin is its roominess!—plenty of room for big, tall people. It's a family-size car!

YOU RELAX WHEN YOU RIDE! The Austin's ride is marvelously smooth and level. The car doesn't heel over going around sharp curves . . . doesn't pitch and toss.

YOU'LL LIKE AUSTIN SERVICE. Our mechanics give your Austin expert service. Our stock of parts is complete. The network of Austin dealers offer efficient, courteous service.

YOU GET VALUE THAT CAN'T BE EQUALLED! Body of heavier gauge steel for extra safety! No-draft, semi-convertible roof! Built-in heater and defrosters! "Feather-ride" independent front wheel suspension! Safe, center frame jacking, operated from inside the car! Valve-in-head 7.2 ratio high compression engine! Double voltage battery for the quickest, surest starting we've seen!

HOW EASY IT IS TO OWN AN AUSTIN!— Actually the price is hundreds of dollars less than you'd pay for any other car with these features and workmanship. And everything we've talked about here is standard equipment . . . there are no extras to pay for.

YOU CAN DRIVE IT AWAY FOR $532
Plus 24 Small Monthly Payments

We urge you to compare . . . to drive the new Austin! If you can visit our showroom, please do so now. If you can't, phone us, and we will arrange a demonstration to suit your convenience. If you can't do that, then send a card for free catalog. Whatever you finally decide, do yourself this favor—

Eisler's Attorney May Ask for Delay

In Maryland

8500 Sign To Repeal Ober Law

Opponents of Maryland's Anti-Subversive law passed the halfway mark yesterday in their campaign for 10,000 signatures to initiate a repeal referendum.

Dr. Judith A. Diesendruck, of Baltimore, secretary-treasurer of the Citizens Committee Against the Ober Law, said yesterday 8500 signatures had already been acquired. Signatures of 5000 registered voters must be filed before June 1; the remaining 5000 by July 1.

The committee is now checking the validity of signatures obtained against the registration books at the Board of Elections.

The Ober law makes it a felony to belong to a subversive organization and establishes a special assistant attorney general to enforce the law.

Japanese Parliament Legalizes Abortion

Tokyo (Monday), May 23 (U.P.).—In a last-minute action before adjournment the Japanese Diet today passed a law legalizing abortion where the expectant mother's health will be "considerably injured because of physical or economic reasons by continuation of pregnancy or by delivery."

London, May 23 (AP).—The United States' formal request for the extradition of Communist Gerhart Eisler was filed with the British Home Office today.

A U. S. Embassy spokesman said the request claimed Eisler is wanted in the United Stats for making false statements under oath. The charge is the same as perjury, an offense covered in the British-American treaty for extradition of fugitives, the spokesman added.

The 52-year-old Eisler claims he is a political refugee and is entitled under Britain's tradition, to asylum.

The U. S. State Department declared today that Eisler is "clearly not a political refugee from the United States." The department said in a statement that the charge of false swearing on which Eisler was convicted was not political in character.

Eisler is due for a hearing on the extradition petition in Bow Street magistrates court Tuesday. It is probable his attorney will seek a delay on the plea that he needs to obtain documents and perhaps witnesses from America.

Eisler was dragged off the Polish ship, Batory, by force by four British policemen a week ago Saturday.

Poland has protested the British violated Polish sovereignty, international law and human rights by boarding the ship.

Forrestal's Psychiatrist Makes Report

plunged to his death. Captain Raines also will be questioned.

Mrs. Forrestal and their son Michael returned from Paris early yesterday aboard the President's plane, the Independence. They were met at National Airport by Defense Secretary Louis Johnson and by a younger son, Peter, a student at Princeton. Michael has been employed in Paris by the Economic Cooperation Administration.

Besides his wife and two sons, Mr. Forrestal is survived by a brother, Henry Forrestal of Beacon, N. Y.

THe text of Captain Raines' statement follows.

ON MARCH 31, 1949, I was sent by plane to Hobe Sound, Fla., in the company of one of Mr. Forrestal's former aides, at the request of the White House, to examine Mr. Forrestal. Upon arrival there that evening I was informed by Mr. Forrestal's friends and former associates that Mr. Forrestal had requested Mr. (Ferdinand) Eberstadt to come to Florida with a physician of his own choosing, and that Mr. Eberstadt was arriving the following afternoon accompanied by Dr. William C. Menninger, former neuropsychiatric consultant to the Surgeon General of the Army, and at present of the American Psychiatric Association, and of the American Psychianalytic Association.

On ethical grounds I felt it improper to see Mr. Forrestal since he had designated a physician of his own choice. For this reason Mr. Forrestal was not seen until Dr. Menninger arrived on the afternoon of April 1. After Dr. Menninger had interviewed Mr. Forrestal, he and Mr. Eberstadt, acting for the family, and I met in consultation. It was Dr. Menninger's opinion, based on his examination of Mr. Forrestal, that the patient was suffering with a severe depression of the type seen in operational fatigue during the war. Mr. Eberstadt and Dr. Menninger reviewed the possibilities of hospitals for treatment of the patient and arrived at the opinion, based on recent experience with this type of case, that Mr. Forrestal should be treated in a general hospital and that the United States Naval Hospital, Bethesda, provided the best facilities available.

I had no voice in the selection of a hospital except to assure the men concerned of our utmost cooperation in the case of this individual who had performed such an outstanding service for his country. Accordingly, acting for the Surgeon General, I accepted Mr. Forrestal as a patient on April 2, and we returned to Washington by air that date, admitting Mr. Forrestal to the United States Naval Hospital, Bethesda, on that evening.

NECESSARY security, screening, and a continuous watch were immediately provided for the patient. Dr. Menninger visited the patient at the hospital on April 3 and April 6, inspected the facilities provided and approved of them and of the course of treatment outlined. Both of us were fully aware that certain risk had to be taken in the care of such a patient and that no one could assume responsibility for the outcome except the one psychiatrist in charge of the case, Dr. Menninger did not subsequently see Mr. Forrestal but I consulted with him approximately a month later and he again was in accord with the therapeutic steps being taken.

A therapeutic regime was provided which entailed the employment of a week of narcosis, followed by four weeks of sub-shock insulin therapy, accompanied by psychotherapy which was undertaken by me. Mr. Forrestal responded well to the first phase of treatment but the insulin therapy was not as successful as had been hoped. Over this initial five weeks' period, the weight gained was approximately 5 pounds of the 22 which he had lost. Several additional members of the psychiatric staff at Bethesda provided a supporting staff for administrative measures. A continuous watch was maintained with the patient at all times and one of two specially trained residents was available in the next room during nights throughout the course of treatment.

The course of Mr. Forrestal's recovery, as is usual in such cases, was not steadily upward, but gradually upward in a wave-like advance. A tendency to increased depression toward the end of the week was early noted. All ordinary precautions were taken as the patient improved. By May 2 it was felt that continued improvement required the lessening of restrictions. Accordingly, privileges were gradually extended to the patient with full awareness by the psychiatrist as a portion of treatment.

BY May 14, improvement had reached a point where I felt that daily interviews were not essential and that I could make plans to leave the city about May 18. Mrs. Forrestal left Washington with my knowledge and approval on May 11 and sailed for Europe the following day. On my advice, Mr. Michael Forrestal returned to his work in Paris on May 13.

In my last interview with Mr. Forrestal on the morning of May 18, I found him somewhat better than on the corresponding day of the preceding week and felt that barring any unforeseen incident he would be able to carry along during my absence from the city. I also felt at that time he was nearing the end of his illness and that the next 30 days would constitute the most dangerous period of the illness as far as suicide was concerned, inasmuch as suicidal preoccupations had to be present and at the same time privileges had to be extended to the patient to allow his full recovery. I felt that the assumption of responsibility must rest on my shoulders and not be shared with the family or with other naval authorities.

There was a history of an alleged suicide attempt obtained by Dr. Menninger which is said to have occurred on the night before the patient was seen by him. At no time during his residence in the Naval Hospital had Mr. Forrestal made a suicidal gesture or a suicidal attempt. His feelings of hopelessness and possible suicide had been a matter of frank discussion between the two of us throughout the course of the therapy.

THE facts surrounding the details of the actual suicide are being investigated by a special board. Psychiatrically, it is my opinion that Mr. Forrestal was seized with a sudden fit of despondency in the evening and early morning of May 22. This is extremely common in all depressions of the severity of which he suffered.

Suicide is the mortality rate of therapeutic psychiatry. The Navy has not and does not subscribe to the view that psychiatric patients should be thrown in a dungeon. It is our belief that calculated risks of therapy must be accepted for the practice of modern psychiatry.

In Mr. Forrestal's case this belief made the extension of his activities imperative. I had personally encouraged him to leave his room and to visit about the floor. This increased socialization was considered essential to his recovery.

It is needless to add that I am deeply regretful of the unfortunate outcome in Mr. Forrestal's case.

STUDEBAKER'S REALLY ROLLING! 1949 IS A STUDEBAKER YEAR!

Critics of Forrestal Flayed In Congress

By The Associated Press

James Forrestal's death brought an outpouring of tributes in Congress yesterday—and sharp censure of those who have criticized the former Cabinet officer.

Senator Tydings (D., Md.), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, told the Senate Forrestal served the Nation with "intelligence, comprehension, tenacity and patriotism."

He called Forrestal "part poet and part warrior," and a man "kindly, patient, never bitter."

Tydings said, too, Forrestal had been subjected to "unwarranted carping and quite often, uninformed criticism."

Senator Cain (R., Wash.) said Forrestal's character was that of a giant, and "the poison pens and mean suspicions" of those who unjustly attacked him now are silenced.

In the House, Representative Boggs (D., La.) said Forrestal "was subjected to a campaign of abuse and vilification the like of which I have never heard." He called Forrestal a victim of Washington's "most devastating weapon"—the weapon of words.

Representative Rankin (D., Miss.), asserted he had voiced his opinion "of the unworthy and unjust attacks" made on Forrestal while he was yet alive.

Several weeks ago, Rankin, in a House speech, attacked Drew Pearson for a column Pearson had written about Forrestal.

Senator Smith (R., Me.) told her colleagues:

"America has lost its foremost guardian of our national defense."

Senators Wherry (R., Nebr.), McFarland (D., Ariz.), Saltonstall (R., Mass.), McClellan (D., Ark.) and Pepper (D., Fla. also praised Forrestal.

Safeway Trims It Before Weighing ...SO YOU SAVE MONEY

We'll give you 2 Legs of Lamb (they won't cost you a penny) if ever you get a SAFEWAY Leg of Lamb not trimmed this money-saving way*

LONG PORTION OF SHANK BONE (which "weighs up" heavy) removed by Safeway before we weigh your leg of lamb on the market scales. It gives you a roast that cooks and carves better

EXCESS FAT ON SIDE OF ROAST is trimmed off by Safeway before weighing . . . another extra step that gives you more good-eating lamb meat for your money

It means more tender, juicy meat in every pound you pay for...a bigger value for your meat dollar at Safeway!

YOU SEE ABOVE how Safeway removes the shank bone and excess fat from legs of lamb before weighing. And the test-purchase report presented here shows you how important it is to compare trimming as well as price.

We prepare other cuts in similar fashion — each one according to its special requirements. This waste-free cutting is part of Safeway's Guaranteed Meats plan. We regularly trim our meats this way.

When you compare meat prices, remember that Safeway's prices always are on the TRIMMED cut, free of excess bone, waste and fat, ready for cooking.

If ever you're not satisfied that the meat you buy at Safeway is trimmed the money-saving way we say, just show it to the manager of the Safeway store where you bought it. If your Safeway leg of lamb (for example) is NOT trimmed as shown above—you get TWO legs of lamb without a penny's extra cost (and without quibble or argument!)

Safeway buys nothing less than the top government grades of beef (all beef sold at Safeway is U.S. Government graded) . . . nothing less than the top grades of lamb, pork and veal. More. We hold our meats the full number of days needed to bring out peak flavor and tenderness. And we safeguard their goodness with exact temperature controls.

Come prove for yourself — there's more good-eating at less cost in Guaranteed Meats from Safeway!

Test purchases by Independent Bureau show you can save money on meat

We asked an independent research organization to check methods of trimming meat in this area.

And we secured proof that it pays you to check trimming as closely as you check price when buying meat.

In 231 representative markets in this area where they bought meat they found a great variation in the way meat is trimmed.

In 99% of the markets other than Safeway, legs of lamb purchased were not trimmed before weighing.

Had the legs of lamb been first trimmed and then weighed (as Safeway does), the average saving would have been over 10¢ per pound. Actually, customers of some of these stores would have saved amounts up to 22¢ per pound.

This survey shows unmistakably that thousands of housewives in this area are paying regular meat prices — which are high enough these days, goodness knows — for waste that is thrown away!

- Example: For legs of lamb purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of over 61¢ more per 6-lb. roast than if these roasts had been trimmed BEFORE weighing. In some markets as much as $1.32 more.
- Example: For rib lamb chops purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of over 34¢ more for six chops than if these chops had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.
- Example: For rib roasts purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of almost 56¢ more per 6-lb. roast than if these roasts had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.
- Example: For T-bone steaks purchased UNTRIMMED shoppers paid an average of almost 48¢ more per 2-lb. steak than if these steaks had been trimmed BEFORE weighing.

Wherever you buy meat you are entitled to money-savings that result from proper trimming of each cut before it is weighed. Insist that your butcher trim this way. If he refuses, why not buy at a market where this kind of trimming is done?

My telephone table in the hall is a regular "catch-all" for books, magazines, old letters and recipes. This morning, I noticed that the telephone receiver was propped up on some of these books and what-have-you. I'd just put it back on the hook when someone rang the doorbell.

It was a young man from the telephone company. He said one of the other parties on my party line had reported his telephone out-of-order. He explained that when one receiver was off the hook, it took the whole line out of service. When he asked me if I would check my telephone, I turned a deep shade of crimson and told him what I'd discovered.

I made a note then and there to put a sign up over the telephone. In big, bold letters, I wrote, "Always replace the receiver carefully after each call."

Bonn Constitution Officially In Effect

Bonn, May 23 (AP).—The Bonn Constitution for 45 million Western Germans was proclaimed formally today just five minutes before the opening of the Foreign Ministers Conference in Paris.

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, 70-year-old president of the Bonn Parliamentary Council announced "I proclaim the basic law" after all but two of the 65 delegates signed.

The two abstainers were Communists Heinz Renner and Max Reimann. When his name was called Renner went to the rostrum as if to sign, but announced, "I will not sign the division of Germany."

Adenauer, however, concluded the ceremony by asserting the "firm conviction that our work has contributed to a unified Germany. I hope all German will be unified under this flag soon."

The flag is the gold, red and black of the pre-Hitler Weimar Republic.

Mrs. Kasenkina Unhurt As Her Car Hits Pole

Freehold, N. J., May 23 (U.P.)—Mrs. Oksana Kasenkina escaped injury today when the car she was driving smashed into a streetlight standard here during a heavy rain.

The former Russian schoolteacher, whose freedom leap from the Russian consulate in New York precipitated an international incident, walked to her home after the accident. Mrs. Kasenkina was in New York today conferring with a publisher about a book she is writing.

Saving Given as Reason to Add To Defense Secretary's Power

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Senate debate of legislation to grant additional powers to the Secretary of Defense opened yesterday with forecasts that it would bring savings of from 500 million dollars to $1,500,000,000 a year.

It immediately ran into some opposition from those wanting even greater unification of the armed forces and those favoring less. But leaders predicted passage this week substantially as the bill stands.

Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) of the Armed Services Committee declared that Defense Secretary Johnson told his group in executive session yesterday that the unification bill had top priority over all other defense legislation this year in the eyes of the Administration.

Questioned About Marines

Johnson, said Tydings, believes that savings of 1½ billions a year are possible if the bill is passed. The Senator added that he was not "so optimistic" but felt that economies totalling 500 million dollars are likely.

Hardly had Tydings begun his speech before Senators were questioning him about what effect it would have on the Marine Corps.

The Marylander told Senator Thye (R., Minn.) that he shared his "high regard for the Marines" and could assure him that "the identity and roles and missions" of the Marine Corps are not affected. Rather, he added, they are "re-emphasized."

Tydings, however, opposed a suggestion of Senator Douglas (D., Ill.) that the bill be amended to permit the Marine Corps Commandant to sit as a voting member of the Joint Chiefs of Staff when amphibious warfare questions are under consideration. Douglas is a former Marine.

Lodge Protests

Senator Lodge (R., Mass.) protested against this approach to national security problems, and urged amending the bill to provide greater unification.

Lodge, an Army veteran, suggested abolishing the Secretaries of Army, Navy and Air Force to permit uniformed heads of the services to administer them under the Secretary of Defense. He also declared that the latter should have authority to transfer individuals from one service to another as necessary.

But Lodge said he had not decided whether to offer amendments to put his ideas into effect.

Majority Leader Lucas (Ill.) questioned Tydings about a "popular feeling" that air power could win a war by itself.

"We feel as a committee—and we are reinforced by the opinions of the leaders of the armed forces—that in certain circumstances air power can be important and determining," replied the Armed Services Committee chairman. "But in no cases does anyone hold that before the struggle is over all three services will not be employed."

Berlin Strike Rioter Killed

then turned back to Russian-directed police.

Deputy Mayor Ferdinand Friedensburg said two persons were wounded in addition to the fatality. He added:

"You can't have an enemy on your land and have peace. The Zoo shooting is proof that the city government is right in demanding Allied authorization to expel all Soviet police from Western Berlin."

General Howley Dubious

Brig. Gen. Frank L. Howley, American commandant in Berlin, said the Zoo riot showed "it is getting to the point where it is a serious mistake to allow these East sector police who are so free to shoot, to exercise respcnsibility in Western Berlin." he added:

"It may be that the Russian sector police were made more bold by the assurance that they will not be interfered with."

Western sector police announced today's fatality, the first officially reported in the three days of strike-born violence.

British intelligence agents said the attack on the Zoo station was carefuly planned by the strikers in an attempt to force the Western allies to intervene.

Strikers Cleared Out

Colonel Stewart ordered Western police to clear out 200 strikers who had gathered at the West Kreuz Station, a main transfer point on the elevated system. He ruled that the Soviet railway police could remain in the station as long as they did not provoke fighting with the strikers.

An official list disclosed that approximately 60 Germans have been injured seriously thus far. Twelve were shot by Russian-directed police in Sunday's battles. Hundreds of others on both sides have suffered minor hurts from fists, clubs and flying stones.

Service on the elevated railway remained blocked. Business activity in the city appeared near normal. Streetcars and buses were jammed.

"Preposterous!" I exclaimed . . .

"Honey, we just can't afford a vacation this year. I'm not made of money. Prices are too high!"

Two GIs Say Czechs Railroaded Them

Straubing, Germany, May 23 (AP). Two American soldiers claimed today the Czechs "railroaded" them into prison as "spies" in a weird trial without witnesses or evidence.

The soldiers were freed yesterday by pardon of Czech President Klement Gottwald after serving 56 days in a military prison.

Recruit Clarence R. Hill, 32, of Pampa, Tex., had been sentenced to 12 years and Recruit George R. Jones, 22, of Oswensboro, Ky., to 10 years.

Both denied they were spies.

They were arrested just inside the Czech border December 9. United States Army authorities said they were absent without leave from their posts with the United States Constabulary in Germany.

They were tried secretly in Prague March 26.

"Hell, that was no trial," Jones said. "That was just a railroad job. They tried to get military information out of us and told us we'd be sent to Siberia if we didn't give them the information they wanted."

"We didn't see any witnesses or hear any evidence," said Hill.

The court of four men and one woman—all wearing civilian clothes—took only 10 minutes to arrive at the verdict.

Both soldiers claimed they had been beaten on the heads, backs and feet during questioning by plainclothes interrogators they believed to be Czech secret police.

"They knocked me unconscious once," Jones said.

Both were in good health when brought back last night to their constabulary headquarters here.

Scientific "Mania"

Red Harvests May Suffer From 'Purge'

Chicago, May 23 (AP).—A scientist predicts that Russia will "suffer grave losses in harvests" as a result of purging the science of genetics."

Theodosius Dobzhansky, of Columbia University, said the Soviet ban was a "monstrous error."

The Russians discarded the genetic tenet that heredity is controled by factors called genes found in the parent cells of living matter. They plumped for the theory, championed by the late I. V. Miehurin, that acquired characteristics can be inherited.

Dobzhansky termed the views of T. D. Lysenko, who sponsored the purge, "naive."

"Having placed a maniac in charge of their agriculture, they are bound to suffer grave losses in harvests, and this for a long time."

German Unity Tops Agenda

Acheson and British Foreign Secretary Bevin.

Vishinsky accepted the idea.

In a good-natured but pointed exchange Bevin made it clear progress would depend on Soviet willingness to compromise.

Bevin asked whether agreement on Germany was a Soviet precondition to a settlement on Austria.

Vishinsky replied it was not, and quipped, "But we are going to agree on all questions here."

"That depends on you," Bevin said.

It was after the main discussion of the agenda that Vishinsky said he wanted to raise one other point, which although not immediately connected with the present agenda was in the minds of the Russians.

He said the time had come for the Foreign Ministers Council, in which France would be replaced by China, to think about writing a peace treaty for Japan.

The proposal apparently was an attempt to capitalize on Communist successes there.

Acheson commented that the United States wanted "no hasty considerations" of the question and pointed out there is a Far Eastern Commission to deal with such matters.

He disagreed with Vishinsky's interpretation that it was settled at Potsdam tha China would be included in the Foreign Minister setup to write the Japanese treaty. He said it was the American view, and so stated at Potsdam, that the Foreign Ministers would deal with "European problems."

He added that the treaty-drafting for Japan must take in the Pacific nations.

Bevin backed Acheson, saying he could not support any proposal excluding New Zealand, Australia, Pakistan or India from partnership in drafting a treaty for Japan.

The subject then was dropped, but Vishinsky may bring it up again.

Vishinsky said also the question of four-power control of Germany should be on the agenda, and that the question of unity should include economic unity.

He said, however, that if his colleagues were ready to discuss the two points with the first item of the agenda proposed by Schuman he would be satisfied.

Acheson remarked that the unity of Germany could not be broken into parts and that you could not speak of Allied controls until you agreed on what to control.

This discussion revolves about an apparent aim of Russia to set up four-power machinery over Germany which she can control by the veto. The Western powers prefer to have the discussion center around powers to be given to the Germans to exercise themselves.

Vishinsky then remarked without elaboration that he reserved the right to submit currency proposals, not only for Berlin, but for all Germany when the question of German economic principles comes up.

The Foreign Ministers agreed to an Acheson proposal that the Foreign Ministers' deputies on Austria present some sort of report on a treaty to the Council by June 1.

The Ministers will meet Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. (10:30 a. m., EST).

They decided each delegation should present its version of happenings in plenary sessions—such as that today—to the press through briefing officers.

They decided, however, that restricted sessions may be held on which nothing will be published except what is released in an agreed communique. They also agreed that meetings of their deputies shall be entirely secret.

Limited Preference

Hearings before a Senate Civil Service Subcommittee have brought into sharp focus one of the perennial dilemmas of government of the people, by the people, and for the people. It is whether the Government should be run as an eleemosynary institution to support individuals who have some presumed claim to generous treatment or as a lean and efficient business operation.

The present issue involves, as it so often does in such clashes of interest, the veteran group. Specifically, it is a question of whether veterans—and particularly disabled veterans—should have preference in retaining Government jobs over career civil servants of many years service. To our minds the proper answer is clear. A Government staffed by people whose primary qualification is not competence but war service is headed for chaos.

This, of course, is a theoretical answer. In practice every government gives the old soldier some kind of preference. The real issue, therefore, is where to strike the balance between privilege and efficiency. The decision ought to be reached rationally rather than sentimentally or in response to political pressure.

To put the dilemma in extreme terms: Bureau XYZ is composed one half of nonveteran career civil servants, all of whom happen to be of superior ability, and one half of veterans all of whom happen to be of inferior competence. The director must cut his staff by one man. Who gets the ax? This would be a tough decision for any businessman. It is no less so in Government. The criterion that should be applied, however, is the same institutional self-interest. Give the veteran a break in hiring, provided he is equally qualified in capacity with the nonveteran, but thereafter no preference. Particularly, if the Government is to function at all well and the morale of its civil service is not to disintegrate, give him no priority over the career man of longer tenure.

The Inquisition

Senator Hickenlooper has seized upon the recent difficulties of the Atomic Energy Commission as a political bludgeon with which to renew his feud with Chairman David E. Lilienthal. In calling for Mr. Lilienthal's resignation and belaboring him for "incredible mismanagement," Mr. Hickenlooper is merely restating an old grudge. The Iowa Senator has never liked Lilienthal; he has regarded him as a New Dealer whose ideas are only slightly more respectable than those of Karl Marx. The new eruption of vituperation indicates pretty clearly that Mr. Hickenlooper's support for the commission has been largely lip service.

We hope that Mr. Hickenlooper's blast does not indicate the Republican Party position, though in this respect Senator Vandenberg's publicly expressed misgivings are disconcerting. The important thing is not the man—Mr. Lilienthal is well able to defend himself—but the principle. For the danger in such blind attacks is that they play into the hands of the cabal itching to clamp tight military control on atomic energy. In point of fact, Mr. Lilienthal is no more personally responsible for the suspected loss of uranium than the President is personally responsible for the theft of a Government vehicle.

Mr. Lilienthal is merely one of five members of the Atomic Energy Commission who preside over a vast enterprise of many employes. If there was carelessness in the handling of uranium, it may be blamed on the commission only in the sense that a supervisor is responsible for the acts of his subordinates. Moreover, any scientist will testify that the loss is meaningless from a security standpoint. As to the other stalking horse, scientific fellowships, it should be clear that Mr. Lilienthal and his colleagues had only a remote connection with them.

In one respect, however, Senator Hickenlooper's fulminations reflect a healthy suspicion. The charges of mismanagement would be more impressive if they were documented, but the Atomic Energy Commission is not sacrosanct, and doubtless instances of inefficiency could be cited. The commission's cost-plus contract policy, for example, is open to considerable abuse. There probably are other aspects of commission procedure which would benefit from an airing.

The trouble is that in large measure the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy suffers from the same frustrations as other Americans in trying to appraise the AEC. There are no objective criteria by which to judge its work; and the spotlight of publicity and public criticism which keeps tab on other agencies is absent here. In this connection we applaud the emphasis placed by Senator McMahon on open hearings. For in truth relatively little of the commission's work can be classed as secret, and the people need far more information than they have had to make intelligent decisions. But the cause of fuller information is not served by the kind of uninformed yammering over "secrecy" that can only have the effect of making the commission more than ever a private province of the military.

Coalition Meat-Ax

The House Appropriations Committee has just dealt another thoughtless and thoroughly irresponsible blow at the foreign policy of the United States. A coalition of Republicans and Dixiecrats on the full committee has proposed an arbitrary slash of 15 per cent in next year's ECA funds, thus discarding the work of its own subcommittee, disregarding the testimony of every competent witness, and playing politics with world recovery. The committee has proposed a colossal waste in the name of economy, for its action would almost certainly make the ECA program ineffective. Unless Speaker Rayburn and the other House leaders rouse themselves and get this misguided decision reversed on the floor, the world will conclude that American foreign policy is at the mercy of every political wind that blows.

The full committee's action is all the less defensible because careful study had led its subcommittee to a different conclusion. The subcommittee held day-long hearings for two and a half weeks. It went into every relevant aspect of the recovery program; it resisted every temptation to make cuts that could not be justified. The Administration itself had asked for 157 million dollars less than the authorized amount, in view of falling prices; the subcommittee proposed an additional cut of 182 million from the authorized figure. It would thus have made substantial savings without endangering the ECA program. Yet the full committee, wielding the meat-ax as blindly as Mr. Taber did a year ago, threw its subcommittee's work into the ash-can, on the theory, blithely expressed by Representative Albert Thomas of Texas, that prices could be counted on to fall by that amount by June of next year. If the 435 members of the House permit this kind of crystal-gazing to take the place of statesmanship, the House might as well forfeit its claim to be a partner in shaping and controlling American foreign policy.

Much more is at stake here than the reputation of the House. There is a cynical belief abroad, and in some parts of our State Department, that Congress simply will not do what is needed to check Soviet pressure unless it is whipped up by a sense of crisis. Possibly one of the calculations behind Moscow's new reasonableness is the thought that a little sunshine will cause Congress to take off its cloak and drop its guard, like the traveler in Aesop's fable. Mr. Acheson must have been fearful of the same thing just before he flew to Paris last week for his meeting with the Russians. He said it would be "tragic" to have American efforts slacken now, just when they seemed for the first time to be succeeding; and he added that there was "nothing more important in the world today than the steadiness and consistency of the foreign policy of this Republic." The Appropriations Committee has thrown doubt on this steadiness of purpose just when American negotiators at Paris need it most.

The full House can still save itself and save the country from the folly of its committee. We hope the 118 new members, in particular, will see to it that the cuts made by the full committee are reversed and the figure approved by the subcommittee is allowed to stand. A quick reversal will show that the House knows the meaning of world leadership.

Straw On Greece

Apparently the door is not closed on the Russo-Western conversations about Greece, announced (as usual) by the Soviet's Tass news agency, in spite of the Anglo-American rejection of initial proposals from Moscow. The State Department reacted to the Tass revelation like a naughty boy caught in a neighbor's orchard. There was an over-anxiety to stress the fact that the matter is within the jurisdiction of the United Nations. So, however, was the Berlin blockade, but that did not prevent efforts on the side to soften the issue through diplomatic channels. On Greece, the same avenue will doubtless be used whenever any bona fide offer is received from the Soviet Union.

What cannot be forgotten is that parties at interest in any private negotiation should be kept informed. In this case the Greek authorities found out what was in the wind only when Tass exposed the conversations, and not even the American counsel to the Greek government were privy to the Gromyko-Rusk talks. If the British, in a similar case a year ago, wondered what was happening behind their backs, why shouldn't the Greeks? Surely enough experience has been accumulated to prove that the Russians will always take advantage of any opportunity either for propaganda or for embarrassing America's relations with its Allies. However, the world ought to be aware by this time that there is no such word as Munich in the present American vocabulary. On the contrary, the demonstration has been made in deed as well as word that the major trouble in American relations with Russia from Russia's viewpoint is the American insistence that no countenance will be given to any selling-down-the-river policy. American diplomacy on Greece seems to be aimed at exploring any opening that might get the Soviet Union off the Greek neck without compromising Greek independence. In this respect the outlook seems to have improved. As in the case of Germany, the time is overripe for either political pressures or political exchanges on Greece, as we had occasion to remark only a week ago, when we pleaded for the kind of resourcefulness on the American side that apparently had already been employed.

The political key to removal of the deadlock over Greece has been Russia-in-Albania since Tito declared his independence of Moscow and virtually closed the Yugoslav frontier with Greece. Russia's Bulgaria is of lesser importance as a quartermaster. What the Bulgars do for the Greek guerillas is limited in effectiveness only to the enclave of Western Thrace. From Albania, however, the guerillas, after replenishment, can debouch all along the spinal column of Greece, so that Albania is the natural source for supplies and logical connection with Soviet Russia for the Greek traitors. This is shown by Russian activity. Moscow has the Hoxha government in its pocket, with more than 2000 Russian advisers at its side, and from time to time is understood to have fed the Albanian ports with arms and sustenance for the guerillas in Greece. There seems to have been no effort, by either the Americans or the British, to counter this activity, for there is no Western mission at Tirana, except the inactive one maintained there by the French.

Gromyko spoke the truth when he said that a solution is simple. It is simple, though not by means of the action that Gromyko proposes. "If foreign troops were withdrawn," he says, "the matter would solve itself." The solution is much simpler than that, and the statement from the State Department singles it out. Let Moscow lift its little finger in Albania and Bulgaria, and the rebellion would die on the vine, and the Greeks could then use the good offices of the United Nations in restarting the job of internal pacification and of obtaining a frontier agreement with a free Albania. Such a gesture from Moscow need involve no public acknowledgment, as in the case of Berlin, of Muscovite defeat. There is no blockade to lift, simply a whispered word to say and a stoppage of gun-running. If this whispered word requires a price, then it should not be beyond the wit of American diplomacy to figure one out somewhere in the world that will not involve selling any American interest or any friend down the river. The present diplomatic enterprise, though belated, is none the less welcome, and, rather than wait for a new overture from Moscow, this country might well expedite one by putting a mission at Tirana to find out and counteract what is going on there.

Military Pay

The House is scheduled to vote today on the first comprehensive revision of armed forces pay in more than 40 years. The very scope and purpose of the Kilday bill are reasons enough to support it, for military pay scales and allowances as presently constituted are an impossible patchwork. The Kilday bill follows closely the painstaking recommendations of the Hook Commission appointed by the Secretary of Defense. It provides for badly needed pay raises, but far more important, it provides for them in a new framework evolved after a study of industrial practices and designed to afford a progressive incentive for military careers.

Some criticism has arisen because the bill gives larger increases to officers than to enlisted men. It does so quite properly, for whereas the pay of a private has risen 400 per cent since 1906, that of some of the higher ranks of commissioned officers has gone up 20 per cent or less. Moreover, there are many inconsistencies in the present pattern. A lieutenant colonel with 30 years' service draws the same pay as a brigadier general. It is imperative in any sensible working relationship to have salary grades commensurate with responsibility. There is yet another factor: A competent officers' corps is fundamental in the military establishment. Yet the services are experiencing increasing difficulty in attracting and keeping men with college training. For example, only 1.5 per cent of the cadets who entered the Air Force last year were college graduates.

An immediate reason for increasing service pay lies in the fact that military personnel have to all intents and purposes taken a cut since the beginning of this year. The $1500 income tax exemption on service pay no longer applies, and this means money out of pocket for men in the higher enlisted grades and all officer grades. Nor is the pay bill an addition to expenditures already contemplated; provision for a pay increase was included in the President's defense budget. It would be foolish to say that money is the only thing that attracts men to military careers, or that military pay can be equated with the remuneration in private industry. But certainly the country has a vital concern at least in providing adequate financial means to maintain the prestige of the honorable profession of arms.

PORTRAIT OF JUNE

Her curls can give us back the sunshine
In the dullest weather,
Glowing beside a yellow lock,
The deep and deeper ringlets mock—
Like seven and eight and nine o'clock
All tangled up together,
And sweetly taciturn is she—
So much to learn and she but three
Has made her grave as three may be.

Washington Calling

Sensible Economy

ECONOMY in Government is a lovely thing until it hits a Congressman's pet project. Then economy is likely to vanish into thin air with a magician's sleight of hand.

But the Democratic leadership in this Congress cannot ignore the warning signs. If there are no substantial economies, then a budgetary deficit of several billions is inevitable. The alternative would be a tax increase and, if anything seems certain about this uncertain Congress, it is the firm determination not to increase taxes.

The shrewdest common sense on this whole matter of economy has come from Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois. Douglas has shown that liberal convictions do not necessarily mean a refusal to recognize the facts of life.

In a recent speech Douglas proposed a cut of 5 to 6 per cent in the number of Government employes, and, what is more, he suggested how the cut might be carried out without doing any damage to existing Government services. The argument of those who say that economy is wrong at a time when the business spiral is declining, Douglas answered by declaring that waste in Government is never productive and never justifiable, no matter what the condition of the economy.

The essential soundness of his position cannot, it seems to me, be challenged. The next few months, says the Senator from Illinois, should be a period of watchful waiting to determine the real significance of the present trend. The Government would meanwhile keep its powder dry while preparing an extensive program to meet a depression if it comes.

NOT CONTENT with this, Douglas rode full tilt at one of the worst congressional abuses, even though he must have felt, as he did so, a little like Don Quixote attacking the windmills. What he proposed was a 300-million-dollar cut in the rivers and harbors bill.

From the beginning of time that has been the biggest of all pork barrels. It is now wrapped up in a beautiful package called "The civil functions of the Army," but as Douglas said, beneath that wrapping it is the same old baloney.

So many costs of government on the domestic side are fixed by law that this is one of the very few places in which sizable economies are possible. The irony is, of course, that while the local Chamber of Commerce in one voice demands economy in government, in another voice it tells the local Congressman that he must get that appropriation for the local river front or else.

Another place where sizable and proper economies are possible is in the far-flung projects of the Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau. The Hoover Commission has shown the appalling waste and duplication in the rival—and, now and then, the joint—efforts of these two agencies. The Reclamation Bureau is working on the upper reaches of the Missouri River, building dams to take the water out for irrigation, while on the lower reaches the Army Engineers are deeping the river for purposes of navigation.

MARK TWAIN wrote a novel called The Gilded Age. The optimistic hero, Col. Mulberry Sellers, believed that if he could only get the Government to dredge out a certain creek, his fortune would be made. There are still a lot of people around here trying to get those creeks dredged.

The Democrats have worked hard, and for the most part successfully, to beat back the Republican across-the-board 5 per cent cut in all appropriations. Since Democratic leaders know, even if President Truman doesn't, that drastic economies must be made somewhere, the strong likelihood is that they will come in the appropriations for European aid and the military.

The President has said that the present authorization for ECA can be cut 150 million dollars. While they are not talking about it publicly at this time, the leaders of his party at the Capitol are convinced that the drop in commodity prices makes a much deeper cut not only possible but desirable. Similarly, they see an opportunity to carve at least a billion dollars out of the military appropriation.

The temptation is always to use a meat-ax on appropriation bills. It is difficult or impossible for even the most conscientious members of Congress ever to know enough about the complicated and voluminous details of a Government budget as thick as two telephone books. But a uniform slash across the board can do great harm. There are ways to prune the luxuriant tree of government, if Congress will only take a little time to consider them.

Military Pay Raise

I am very much interested in the article by Mr. John Norris in your issue May 21 entitled "House Action on Military Pay Delayed."

As the wife of an officer who transferred from the reserves to the "regulars" at the conclusion of the war, I have had the experience of trying to balance a domestic budget on income from both military and civilian employment.

First, let me say that the alleged monetary advantages of military life are a myth. I find that $580 a month in the service will only go as far as $450 as a civilian. Transfers every two years are expensive. Contrary to popular notions, my husband pays for all his uniforms out of his own pocket and a new uniform costs $80. The PX and commissary are of very little practical help. We have never found any clothing there for our family of five.

"Diamond rings and furs at wholesale without tax" are pure abstractions for a family in our income brackets. The only advantage of the commissary is its proximity. A comparison of the commissary prices with those of the big super markets shows that the super markets are slightly cheaper—in fact, we do a considerable amount of our marketing at the latter because of the greater variety.

It appears that most of the opposition to the proposed pay increases is directed at the generals and admirals. It should be kept in mind that fewer than one out of every hundred officers is a general or an admiral.

Without an increase, many of us will not be able to afford a career in the armed services any longer. Substantial inducements must be added to the range from major to colonel and lieutenant commander to captain in order to make the service attractive.

Dirigibles As Transports

John G. Norris' excellent summary of the accomplishments and the lessons of the Berlin airlift in your issue of May 15 points out our pitiful unpreparedness for one of the major and essential tasks of a future war.

Modern theory emphasizes the absolute need of swift, large-scale air transportation of large bodies of men and materiel if either a sudden enemy victory or a bloody, protracted conflict is to be avoided. This country is so situated that it must have an air transport system capable of extremely long-distance cargo flights, inasmuch as overseas bases may not always be available when dealing with an enemy who is powerful in the air.

Yet, according to Mr. Norris, using present-day planes, an expansion of mileage above 500 miles "would cut deliveries to a bare fraction."

In other words, we cannot depend on the airplane for the fulfillment of those very needs which it is imperative we fulfill in the event of a major conflict. Air transportation of heavy cargoes to overseas areas is not available today, nor will it be in the foreseeable future for the simple reason that the airplane, as presently designed, is inherently incapable of sustained flight with heavy loads.

Does this mean we must be dependent upon surface vessels, with their restricted speed and maneuverability? Not necessarily. There is a type of aircraft which is ideally designed and constructed for the carriage of huge quantities of people and goods on long-distance nonstop flights.

True, the dirigible is a low-flying, slow-moving craft offering a considerable target. Yet, is this not also true of our fastest transport planes compared to the new jet-propelled interceptors? The accidents which have befallen dirigibles in the past have been due primarily to either the use of inflammable gases or to faults in structural or engineering design in particular craft. The dirigible has no inherent disability which could not be corrected, were we to spend only a fraction of the time, money and effort that we have expended on airplanes.

"Atomic Education"

It is with amazement that I read your May 17 editorial, "Atomic Education."

This editorial states that "the commission detractors have had a field day with their phony implication that the commission is playing fast and loose with security by supporting research done by Communists."

It is about time that Congress called a halt on the studiously cultivated idea encouraged by propaganda from Government agencies that scientists must necessarily be Communists or fellow travelers to do scientific work. Ninety-five per cent of all the scientists in the country are honest, patriotic Americans and not fellow travelers.

It is perfectly absurd to claim that people who believe in the destruction of the United States and the setting up of a Communist government are not enemies of the country and as such entitled to no consideration from the Government.

Couple Mr. Lilienthal's defense of the fellowship program with a number of other incidents where he has appointed men with subversive associations to the commission, and particularly to the last incident—the disappearance of U-235. In my opinion, Mr. Lilienthal has demonstrated his total unfitness for the job he holds.

Liberian Tangent

Senator William Langer of North Dakota has introduced a bill to help folks settle in Liberia.

It provides for a three-man commission, $10,000 per annum, and "necessary personnel, including technicians, without regard to the civil service laws." Section 5 (b) is really something. It allows the establishment and operation of "reception and disembarking centers, supply depots, commissaries, dispensaries, pharmacies and first-aid stations, and such other buildings and facilities are are necessary and proper."

Paragraph (c) provides for supplying tools, equipment, materials and technical assistance and advice to the migrants, and the making of loans not exceeding $1000 in any case.

Is it impertinent to ask why the man who has been yapping so loudly about foreign expenditures brings this up? How about establishing a commission to do something about those able-bodied, willing and equipped by training and experience, to render a service to the country here at home, but who are barred because of the arbitrary designations concerning calendar years?

Communists In Spain

Samuel H. Butterfield's May 17 letter challenged my information of the so-called Spanish republican government, 1931-1935.

The Communists have for years boasted of their work in connection with republican Spain. The Communist Party organs published here in the United States, the Daily Worker and the New Masses, give an abundance of information on this subject. All these followed the Moscow-dictated party line as well as the various front organizations organized to dupe the American people on the subject of Spain, such as the American-Lincoln Brigade, among others recently declared subversive.

Senator Taft, speaking on this attitude toward Spain was quoted in your May 12 issue as follows: "Certainly the State Department should rectify at once its glaring inconsistency and shake loose from the Communist front philosophy which seems to have guided its Spanish policy up to this time."

Senator Brewster quoted by the Tablet (Brooklyn) of May 14 stated on the subject of Spain—"Suppose the Communist regime had triumphed? . . . Has anyone ever challenged the statement that Stalin poured in Soviet power without limit in order to achieve a victory in that key spot of Europe?"

"Solomon In Africa"

Although well-intended, your May 19 editorial, "Solomon in Africa," gives an unfair interpretation of the gratifying rejection of the so-called Bevin-Sforza proposal on the former Italian colonies.

First it is misleading to assume that the "unholy alliance of the Arab and Soviet blocs" has alone been responsible for the defeat of that proposal which, on the other hand was supported by this great American democracy along with the European colonialist nations. The roll-call shows clearly that all anticolonialist governments opposed this irresponsible scheme with the regrettable exception of our South American friends.

We beg to disagree that the division and distribution of such a poor and bared country as Libya was "sensible . . . and fair to the Arab world." Morally, politically and economically that argument can be easily refuted if anyone admits the bad record of French, Italian and British colonial administration.

It is also strange to accept that the three trusteeships for Libya will merge into a fully independent Libya "in 10 years." Under the defeated resolution it is added that Libya will be independent "provided that the General Assembly then decides that this step is appropriate." This subtle reservation indicates the real and malicious intention of the authors of the proposed resolution.

Before the conscience of the civilized world is the question whether the Libyans, who suffered 30 years of untold and unbelievable atrocities, are wise in opposing the return of their Italian masters. It can also be asked whether for the sake of security and peace in the sensitive Mediterranean area, it is more realistic to satisfy Italy's renounced colonial claims than to permit the Libyan people to live without external interference a peaceful and dignified life.

The best solution for this problem is that which would secure the unity of the martyr people of Libya and recommend their independence within a reasonable period of time, under the sincere and sympathetic guidance of a group of nations better qualified than Italy and France to promote self-government and democratic rule in Libya.

Dying Dixiecrats

A reader comments May 17 that if the Dixiecrats have no future in the Democratic Party, then the Democratic Party has no future, and asks what elections could be won by it without the Dixiecrats.

The answer is plain. The recent presidential election was won without them. Further, the regular Democratic Party outvoted them right in their Southern stronghold by better than two to one.

The Dixiecrats are not the voice of the South in any sense—numerically, politically or otherwise. They are a dying voice of a dying age; their immoral stand on civil rights is the worst burden American foreign policy bears in presenting itself to the rest of the world.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

Forrestal

WHEN a friend dies, and all our memories of him come together, it can happen that one realizes where conversations that were never finished were leading. Since his breakdown I have been remembering how for years, no matter what else we talked about, Forrestal would bring up somewhere and somehow a variant of the same theme: how this Government, which he knew was almost unmanageable, could be made to work, how men could be found who were competent to administer it, how methods and institutions could be devised to make it possible for competent men to be wise.

Lippmann

ω

I NOW realize that this problem which had long preoccupied Forrestal as an official and as a citizen came in the last tragic years of his life to be his own insoluble and unendurable personal problem. He was like a doctor who has studied a disease and then contracts it himself. He saw with an awful clarity his mistakes and his failures. Had he been judging anyone but himself, no one in Washington would have understood them better or would have judged them with more sympathy. He would have explained concretely how dangerously antiquated are the system and the working customs of our Government administration in the presence of our new responsibility in the world.

But he could not explain this to himself. He saw his mistakes and his failures so sharply that the affection of his friends could not console him, that public tributes could not deceive him. He saw them with such terrible conscientiousness and scruple, so out of their proportion in the record of his achievements, that he was exhausted—not so much by the long hours he worked as by the realization that he would never have the chance to repair his mistakes and to achieve what he had been appointed to achieve.

IN THE last weeks of his public life I saw him twice. The first time, at his home, he took me aside and told me that the decision that he would go, about which so much had been printed, had at last really been made definitely. He said that he thought it was right, that after eight years he was stale, and that fresh minds were needed. Then he asked me what I thought. I was moved by the way he looked when I replied that it was probably time for him to leave the Pentagon but that if this Government had any sense, it would not let him, as it had let Patterson for example, get away. It would do what the British do so well—it would cure his staleness, not by retiring him but by changing his job. Then all his experience, which had been acquired so painfully, would be used and not wasted.

If I had any doubt that this was what he was feeling, it was dispelled when he returned to the subject the last time I saw him, and then again in a personal letter, in which he urged me to pursue the idea—which I am doing now in such sad circumstances—the idea of "the rotation of people in public life—if we were able to follow it, there is no doubt that it could lift the level of competence, and, above all, of wisdom of administration."

I CANNOT help feeling that whatever the doctors may say, there is a public factor in this tragedy, and that it lies in the destructive and soul-destroying political custom of casting public men aside in the middle of their careers. Of all the wastes in the American system of government, our practice of retiring public men is the most expensive, and a principal cause of all the other and more obvious ways that money, materials, and men are wasted.

And the more dedicated the man has been, the more his public life has become his private and inner life, the more shattering are the consequences of the abrupt and brutal termination of his career. Mr. Churchill has described what can happen within such a man, what happened to him when he was compelled to leave the Admiralty during the First World War: "The change from the intense executive activities of each day's work at the Admiralty . . . left me gasping. Like a sea-beast fished up from the depths, or a diver too suddenly hoisted, my veins threatened to burst from the fall in pressure. I had great anxiety and no means of relieving it . . . I had long hours of utterly unwonted leisure in which to contemplate the frightful unfolding of the war."

YET Mr. Churchill under the more benign British system had some prospect of returning, and he remained, as a matter of fact, a member of the Cabinet. I shall always believe that if Forrestal had known before he left the Pentagon that he was really wanted somewhere else, as indeed in all justice and common sense he should have been, he would have had a reason for living, and the fatigue the doctors talk about would not have overcome his will to live.

Bond-Dealing Bill Approved

The House Banking Committee yesterday approved unanimously a bill to let national banks deal in the bonds of the World Bank. The measure now goes to the House for a vote.

The committee acted shortly after hearing pleas for the legislation from the Administration and John J. McCloy, president of the International Bank.

Under Securities Act

The bill also would amend the Bretton Woods Agreements Act to exempt securities issued or guaranteed by the International Bank from the provisions of the Securities Act.

Organized almost four years ago, the International Bank has 48 member countries. The Bank so far has made or is committed to make loans of about $650,000,000.

William McC. Martin, jr., Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, made the Administration's request on behalf of the National Advisory Council on International Finance. That group includes the Secretary of the Treasury and other Cabinet officials.

Martin said it is in the interests of this country to encourage the World Bank to assume greater responsibility in financing reconstruction and development abroad. He added:

"During the next few years, it is hoped that many more nations will be in a position to apply for loans to finance projects and programs consistent with the purposes of the bank. The continued effectiveness of the International Bank will depend upon its ability to meet these requests.

"To do this, the Bank will have to raise additional funds in the securities market of the United States."

Martin said the National Advisory Council believes that the pending bill would facilitate widespread distribution in the United States of securities issued or guaranteed by the International Bank.

Although national banks may now invest in securities issued by the International Bank, they are not authorized under the National Bank Act to deal in such securities.

McCloy told of the World Bank's effort to help western European countries keep up necessary purchases of goods from other nations. He said the bank's loans helped to "prevent a disastrous drop in production—if not economic and political chaos."

The President's Calling List

Tells of Hitting Nazi POW's

By The Associated Press

A former Army investigator yesterday said he had punched German prisoners who didn't move quickly enough or who talked back to him.

However, he argued before a Senate Armed Services Subcommittee that treatment given German prisoners was much better than the Germans gave Americans.

The committee is investigating charges the Army beat and tortured German prisoners to make them confess the Malmedy massacre of unarmed Americans in the Battle of the Bulge in 1944.

Herbert K. Sloane, now working for the Civil Aeronautics Administration, said he saw another Army investigator hit a German in the chest. The man, he said, then confessed taking part in the killings.

"Suppose the German had not confessed. What would you have done?" asked Joseph Chambers of the committee's professional staff.

"I would have slapped him until I got a confession out of him," said Sloane. "I wouldn't have been interested in the confession. I would have shown him who was boss."

Sloane said he did not think prisoners were mistreated, but that investigators were "once in a while terribly tempted to take a swing" at prisoners after looking at bodies of murdered Americans.

"Did you ever hit prisoners," asked Senator Baldwin (R., Conn.), committee chairman.

"Yes, sir," replied Sloane.

World Bank Studies Loan To Soviet-Bloc Nations

By The Associated Press

The World Bank may soon lend some of its funds to eastern European countries in the Soviet sphere for the first time.

Bank officials said yesterday they are "actively considering" a loan of around eight million dollors which would be shared by Finland, Communist-led Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, and possibly Austria.

The money would be used to buy timber-cutting machinery and supplies in the United States to boost much-needed timber exports to western European countries.

Liberals Quit In Colombia

Bogota, Colombia, May 23 (U.P.).—Liberal Party leaders resigned official posts throughout the country today, following the lead of the six Liberals who quit the cabinet Saturday night.

Conservative President Mariano Ospina Perez issued a statement today, deploring the Liberal resignations and announcing he would broadcast to explain the policies of his new cabinet of Conservative politicians and army men.

Ospina denied a Liberal charge that the government had failed to guarantee fair and free elections, and declared that the June 5 congressional voting would be conducted through "the purest democratic channels."

Colonel Pablo Rodriguez Achury was appointed director of the National police today. Replacing Colonel Regulo Gaitan, who succeeded Liberal Dario Echandia as interior minister.

The resignation of the Liberal cabinet ministers created a government crisis that was unpleasantly reminiscent of the situation in March, 1948—which resulted indirectly in the fierce riots of April 9.

ECA Funds Cut By 15 Per Cent

ommended for aid to Greece and Turkey was voted without change.

Gary issued a statement saying the amount recommended by his subcommittee was the minimum for "essential activities of an adequate program."

Praising ECA operations and the "gratifying dividends" in European recovery, Gary said the next fiscal year will be a crucial one in world affairs.

"Cannot Afford to Gamble"

"We cannot afford to gamble at this time," he said. "An ineffective program would be worse than none at all because it would weaken our resources without strengthening Europe."

Besides Thomas, who sponsored the slash, Cannon indirectly identified five Democrats who voted for the cut by naming the States from which they hailed.

They were Representatives Whitten (Miss.), Andrews (Ala.), Sikes (Fla.), Preston (Ga.), and Otto E. Passman (La.).

In addition, a seventh Democrat, Representative Edward H. Kruse (Ind.), told The Post he voted for the cut.

Kruse said he strongly favored ECA "but there is room for economy without hurting the program."

Minority Report Filed

A minority report, filed by Representatives Taber (R., N. Y.) and Wigglesworth (R., Mass.) said another billion dollars could have been cut from the program "if the operation were going to wind up June 30, 1950." The minority report urged European countries to balance their budgets, stabilize their currencies and try to increase production.

The economy ax fell on hitherto almost untouchable Marshall Plan funds while two Senate committees debated ways of cutting the over-all budget.

1. Senate Expenditures Committee Chairman McClellan (D., Ark.) invited the Budget Bureau to report at future hearings on the Tydings bill, directing the President to save 5 per cent on all appropriation bills.

2. Three Senators appeared before the Senate Rules Committee to urge lumping of all appropriations in a single omnibus bill to keep better tab on income and outgo. They were Senators Byrd (D., Va.), Ferguson (R., Mich.) and Butler (R., Nebr.).

War Hero's Family Honored

Members of Washington officialdom turned out yesterday to honor the attractive widow and children of a 29-year-old Marine private who died on the bloody beaches of Saipan during World War II.

Congressmen, court and city officials crowded around Mrs. Alice Gosselin of Butte, Mont., and her blond son and daughter, Henry, jr., and Lorraine, at a reception at the Mayflower Hotel.

Visibly shaken by the homage, the 33-year-old mother, chosen by the Fraternal Order of Eagles to represent the sons and daughters of members who died in World War II, smiled tremulously and declared she was "overwhelmed" by the excitement.

The Gosselins are the guests of the Eagles' Memorial Foundation which is designed to aid children of Eagles killed in the recent war. Her husband, Pfc. Henry G. Gosselin, was an automatic rifleman in the Twenty-second Marine Regiment, Fourth Marines.

The family will stay in Washington until Thursday visiting points of interest. They will go on to New York to appear in a Memorial Day parade. DeVere Watson, national president of the Eagles, is accompanying the trio during their tour.

Liquor Sales In D. C. Drop 6.6% in Year

By S. Oliver Goodman

Washington liquor sales in 1948 dropped 6.6 per cent compared with the previous year, while nationally the decline averaged 8.7 per cent.

The Distilled Spirits Institute, Inc., reported yesterday that total sales of liquor here amounted to 3,870,007 gallons last year, against 4,143,052 gallons in 1947. The all-time high in liquor consumption was in 1946 when local sales totaled 5,071,182 gallons.

Washington continued in 15th place among the States in gallonage consumption. The city's relatively high rank was attributed to heavy sales to transients because of lower prices here than in many other areas. Also, much of the liquor sold here is consumed in nearby Maryland and Virginia areas.

According to the institute, District of Columbia liquor sales for the past 15 years amounted to the following (in gallons):

1934	384,206	1941	3,485,012
1935	1,937,166	1942	4,119,701
1936	2,355,130	1943	3,450,175
1937	2,332,941	1944	3,794,933
1938	2,307,589	1945	4,158,411
1939	2,519,117	1946	5,071,182
1940	2,826,423	1947	4,053,928
	1948	3,870,007

The figures are for distilled spirits such as whisky, gin, rum, brandy and cordials. They do not include wine or beer.

Nationally, liquor sales aggregated 178,519,121 gallons in '948 as compared with 195,547,907 gallons in 1947.

HEADS ACCOUNTANTS: Max W. Shoup is the new president of the Washington Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants.

Shoup

He succeeds Joe V. Cummins. Other new officers elected at the annual meeting are: Doren D. Vest and Walter N. Wilson, vice presidents; P. Frederick Dryer, treasurer, and James J. Molinelli, secretary. The following directors also were elected: John A. Bard, Marvin P. Bradshaw, Elmer E. Chenowith, Paul Imler, Bernard W. Cochran, Vance M. Johnston, Ross M. Girard, Howard G. Oberland and Ben C. White. More than 150 chapter members and guests heard a technical talk by Dr. W. A. Paton, editor of the Accountants' Handbook.

RETAIL INDEX: Retail sales in April ran almost 1 per cent higher than March but still lagged 2 per cent under April last year after allowing for seasonal differences. The Commerce Department, reporting this yesterday, estimated the April total at $11,060,000,000. On its seasonally adjusted index, April sales were 232 per cent above the 1935-39 monthly average. The monthly index has shown relatively little change since last January.

OUTING SLATED: More than 250 investment dealers and their guests are expected at the annual outing Friday of the Bond Club of Washington at the Manor Club in Maryland. Bernard J. Nees, general chairman, said yesterday mock stock exchange trade will be conducted for such prizes as a new Mercury sedan, a Stromberg-Carlson television set, a home air-conditioner and lesser prizes. Golfing contests and a horseshoe tournament also are on the program. Dinner and election of officers and governors will conclude the program.

ODD LOTS: Dr. Edison H. Cramer, former executive of a Colorado bank, has been named chief of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.'s division of research and statistics . . . Steel operations this week are scheduled at 94.1 per cent of capacity, against 95.6 per cent last week . . . Columbia Gas System, Inc., set a subscription price of $10 a share for 1,345,300 additional shares of common to be offered present stockholders on the basis of one new for ten old . . . E. F. Hutton & Co., nationwide brokerage firm, announced plans to consolidate with Clement, Curtis & Co., Chicago. The enlarged firm will operate under the Hutton name . . . A new 'All-risk' policy that will cover practically any type of accidental loss on real property was announced yesterday at a session of the National Association of Mutual Insurance Agents in Atlantic City.

MORTGAGE DEBT: Continuing its climb of recent years, the home mortgage debt of this country passed the 33 billion dollar mark at the end of 1948, according to estimates yesterday by the Home Loan Bank Board. This is nearly 17 per cent more than at the close of 1947 and constitutes an all-time record. The study covers one-to-four family non-farm dwellings. The 1948 figure of $33,355,009,000 compares with $19,208,000,000 in 1945, the last wartime year.

EARNINGS: Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Co. reported net income of $9,452,352 or $1,18 a common share for the first four months this year, compared with $4,221,088 or 51 cents a share in the same 1948 period.

Maryland Tobacco

By The Associated Press

A heavy volume of sales was reported yesterday on the Southern Maryland tobacco auction markets, with prices steady to slightly higher than those of last Friday.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture and the Maryland State Department of Markets noted the largest gains were made by fair quality grades of heavy crop and tips. Thin crops remained fairly steady.

Little change in the general quality of tobacco marketed was reported by the departments.

Estimated deliveries to the cooperatives under the Government loan program ranged from 8 to 10 per cent by markets.

Although deliveries were heavy, congestion on the auction floors and packing plants presented no problem as it did last week, when sale schedules were interrupted.

Some representative average prices in yesterday's sales:

Heavy Crop—Good cherry-red, $65 per 100 pounds; fair cherry-red, $59; fair greenish, $41; fair red, $37.

Tips—Fair cherry-red, $48; fair red, $33; fair green, $17.50.

Thin Crop—Fine cherry-red, $68; good cherry-red, $68; fair cherry-red, $66; fair red, $62; low cherry-red, $60.

Seconds—Good cherry-red, $59; fair cherry-red, $50; fair red, $42.

Visible Grain Supply

Chicago, May 23 (AP).—Visible supply of wheat decreased 767,000 bushels to 85,438,000 bushels this week, the Board of Trade reported today. Corn decreased 1,216,000 to 10,925,000 bushels, oats decreased 188,000 to 2,462,000, rye increased 103,000 to 3,526,000, barley decreased 160,000 to 6,252,000 and soybeans increased 200,000 to 2,963,000.

House Passes $70-Million Postoffice Bill

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

A bill authorizing an expenditure of 70 million dollars to buy sites and make plans for new postoffices, and to renovate old Federal buildings was passed by the House late yesterday.

Passage came after the House engaged in two spirited argument. Representative James W. Wadsworth (R., N. Y.) tried to knock out of the measure a clause stating that it is "the intent of Congress that the equitable distribution of selected projects . . . shall provide for the participation by each congressional district in the benefits."

"I scarely think this House should go on record for this," Wadsworth declared. He agreed with Representative Edward H. Rees (R., Kans.) that that section is an "open invitation to political influence."

"Some Congressional districts undoubtedly need more than one postoffice," he declared, "but there are some that won't need any. Congress will enjoy a better position before the country if it drops this clause out."

On the other hand, Representative Sam Hobbs (D., Ala.) offered an amendment requiring that plans be drawn at once for a minimum of three postoffices in each congressional district, with congressional district, with construction to be started soon.

This was attacked by several members of the Public Works Committee that sponsored the bill. Chairman William M. Whittington (D., Miss.) pointed out that Hobbs' amendment would require six new postoffices in Pittsburgh and 24 new ones in New York City. Whittington called Hobbs' proposal a "sky's-the-limit amendment."

Several supporters of the bill referred to it as insurance against a depression, by providing plans for public works to start in case of widespread unemployment. This, too, was attacked by Wadsworth.

Wadsworth said that the bill's supporters had called it a "potential relief bill." "I am not sufficiently pessimistic to believe we have to spend 70 millions to furnish employment for unemployed," he declared.

The bill is similar to one passed by the Senate several weeks ago, the chief difference being the provision that each district must benefit under the measure. The bill now goes to conference.

Escaped Lifer Caught in Park

living at the Dunbar Hotel, 15th and U sts. nw., was credited to Park Police Pvts. Floyd Pease and William M. Cronan, while his identification resulted from perservering questioning and investigation by Park Police Investigators Charles Mellott and R. I. Bartmess.

Parker

Pease and Cronan first saw Parker at 8:15 p. m. on Ross dr. nw. in the park. Questioned about walking in the pouring rain, he said he was going to 16th st. and was not detained. He was again seen at 10:30 p. m., on Klingle rd. near the north end of the Zoo.

This time the policemen took him to Park Police headquarters, where the investigators took over. It was yesterday noon before they were able to complete their work, they said.

Mellott said the escaped lifer had used other names since he came to Washington after his escape, which Parker said was engineered by three other men in the hospital.

The investigators said he told them he had worked here as a stonemason's helper, a bricklayer and as a hotel handyman. They cited his arrests by Metropolitan Police as follows:

One arrest for petty larceny in 1942, three for drunkenness in 1946, one for disorderly conduct and one for investigation in 1947 and four times last year for drunkenness.

Previous to his arrest and conviction in Montgomery County Court exactly 10 years before his arrest Sunday night, Parker had been arrested several times, Park Police said. The charges ranged from disorderly conduct and peeping tom to carrying a concealed weapon, they said.

Eddie Cantor Breaks With Radio Sponsor

New York, May 23 (AP).—Eddie Cantor has parted with his radio sponsor. The comedian blames it on a move to make him do his show both on radio and television.

The Pabst Brewing Co., said last night it will sponsor the "Life of Riley" show instead for radio and television next fall On NBC.

Man Immured 10 Years Committed to Asylum

New York, May 23 (AP).—Paul Makushak, 32, the Brooklyn hermit-in-a-wall, has been ordered committed to a State hospital for mental treatment.

So has his 58-year-old mother, who told authorities she helped him survive 10 years of self-imprisonment in a plastered-up cubicle of their Brooklyn home.

The NEW Columbian

B&O's Diesel-Electric
Strata-Dome Coach Streamliner between
WASHINGTON • PITTSBURGH
AKRON • CHICAGO

"SLEEPY HOLLOW" SEATS. Their upholstery molds itself to your figure; you can tilt the backs, adjust the foot rests. You're rested, relaxed, rejuvenated!

SEMI-PRIVATE COACH COMPARTMENTS. Something new in coach travel—ideal for family groups and parties. You'll like the comfortable sofa-type seats, the soft, fluorescent lights.

MODERN WOMEN'S REST ROOMS. You'll enjoy "freshening up" in their settings of chrome and porcelain, of full-length mirrors and foam-rubber revolving chairs.

NEW-STYLE DINING CAR. With its "suspended" tables and unusual seating arrangements, this efficient car accommodates thirty-eight persons comfortably.

FRIENDLY COFFEE SHOPPE. A pleasant place for sociability. Here you can get a snack and beverages at reasonable prices.

OBSERVATION LOUNGE. Glamorous as a club, informal as a family gathering. Drop in whenever you wish. There are newspapers, magazines, a desk for writing letters.

• DELUXE COACHES! • STEWARDESS! • MAID SERVICE! • REGULAR COACH FARES! • COACH SEATS RESERVED IN ADVANCE WITHOUT CHARGE!

*The only train serving the East with a thrilling Strata-Dome car

It's a Diesel-Electric beauty—a glamorliner from front to rear! At regular coach fares, The New Columbian offers an exhilarating experience—you feel as if entering a new world.

Chief among its many features is the Strata-Dome. This thrilling "observation post" high over the rails gives you a view of the sights on every side by day—and at night you'll see the flashing fires of great steel mills and the lights of the passing towns.

One on the Aisle—

'Gilbey' Loosely Strung Together

By Richard L. Coe

"HER MAN GILBEY," at the Hippodrome, has been thrown together with astonishing carelessness.

This is a British film which seems to have been made about six years ago. Though it boasts the name of talented Playwright Terence Rattigan, it offers only flashes of his usually amusing dialogue. Worse, though, it has been made by people who must have been kept away from the movies; the technique is Early Silent Era.

Fundamentally, it's an old story—how circumstances can alter the lowly born into someoe worthy of upper class Love. The Admirable Crichton of this story is a young family retainer played by Michael Wilding. Because he's inaccessible, he's loved by his employers' eldest daughter. The war turns him into a strikingly handsome officer, her into an ATS girl unfit to be even his secretary. Naturally, it works out happily.

What Rattigan and Coauthor Anatole de Grunwald were mainly concerned with were character observations and spoofs on efforts at international cooperation. In some of their scenes, the boys are amusing in that crisp way one generally admires in the better British films, but the scenes are loosely linked and patently contrived.

Margaret Rutherford, of "Blithe Spirit," presents her tweedy upper-class burlesque and Roland Culver's why approach contributes to the light-hearted effort. Peggy Cummins, playing the heroine's younger sister, evidently, at the time the film was made, had not embarked on her ill-fated Hollywood career. Lilli Palmer is a spy of Mittel-Europa, but despite their skills and the neat restrained style of Wilding, they don't make "Her Man Gilbey" worthwhile.

THEATER GUILD subscribers to the Baltimore series at Ford's Theater are being informed that it will be impossible to complete the series this spring . . . Two subscription plays are due them and refund checks are being sent to the 600 subscribers in the Nation's Capital . . . The 1948-49 season at Ford's therefore, is declared over.

THE OLNEY THEATER announces that there will be nightly and matinee afternoon bus service from the Georgia and Alaska Terminal in Silver Spring to the theater . . . Buses will leave the terminal at 1:45 Saturday and Sunday afternoons and at 7:25 and 7:45 Tuesday through Sunday nights.

TODAY'S WASHINGTON guests include Rodgers and Hammerstein, identified these recent years as the most successful theatrical team in the world . . . Companies of their "Oklahoma!" dot the earth, "Allegro" is in its second season in Chicago, "Carousel" has been succeeded in some affections by "South Pacific" and their productions of Irving Berlin's "Annie Get Your Gun" rattle on from London and Leeds, to Detroit and Cappetown . . . The wizards will be luncheon speakers at the National Press Club with Fred E. Ahlert, president of ASCAP.

THESE "SOUTH PACIFIC" records, of the Messrs. R. & H., by the way, are selling like the proverbial, boast two nearly-identical releases from Hecht's and the Disc Shop . . . Gosh, those guys don't need a free meal

THURSDAY brings the opening of Glen Echo's swimming pool; it's always coldest just before that pool opens . . . Once it does you never escape the heat.

UNIVERSAL-INTERNATIONAL plans big doings June 8 for the opening here of "Illegal Entry" . . . Attorney Tom Clark speaks out against undesirable aliens in the foreword of this one and the leads are played by Marta Toren, Howard Duff and George Brent . . . Miss Toren wil come on for the Klieg light premiere and be feted by the Swedish Embassy; she's a graduate of the Stockholm Royal Academy.

Nats Again Crumble Late In Game, Chisox Win, 3-1

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THEY'RE PLAYING the PGA tournament at Richmond this week, 183 of the Nation's pros who qualified, and for the unwary golf writer the danger is that he may find himself covering Gene Sarazen, instead of the tournament.

That's because Sarazen is the most articulate of the top pros, and a rebel who refuses to be regimented by the PGA policy-makers. That latter group frowns on Sarazen's kind of rugged independence, and has acted to restrain comment by individual pros with a decree that all information to the press be channeled through the PGA tournament director.

POVICH

All of which leaves Sarazen cold, and unsubscribing. In the clubhouses and the locker rooms he is still the free-speaker. And as the last of the colorful pros, and three-time winner of the PGA, plus being a gallery favorite, he's good copy.

Right now, with a high disregard for the top PGA brass, Sarazen says they're all wrong in the way they are conducting their tournament, with two rounds of medal play qualifying before settling down to the four days of match play. He declares the lesser-famed pros are not getting a fair shake out of that system.

"THERE'S NO NEED for those two days of qualifying after the tournament starts, to reduce the field to 64 match-play contenders," Sarazen declared. "The pros qualified for the tournament when they won the eliminations in their local sections, and they shouldn't be asked to go through all that again.

"They ought to start right in on match play on the first day of the PGA. The field is comprised mostly of the home club pros, who deserve more consideration than they are getting. They don't finish among the high 64 at the end of the two days of quallifying and are out of the tournament. They go home a little bit disgraced because they didn't qualify. That's a bad deal for them. After all, they have local reputations as pretty good players.

"If the field started right in at match play, it would put the losing pros in a better light. After all, he could go home and say 'I was eliminated by Snead,' or 'Mangrum put me out,' or 'the fellow who licked me went to the finals.' That would give him more standing in his own community and he wouldn't be regarded as a failure who couldn't qualify."

THE DEBATE of match play vs. medal play has raged ever since golf became a big league game, and it has never been satisfactorily decided which demands the greater skill. The claim is made that medal play enforced the most pressure with its competition against invisible opposition, but that is disputed, too, by adherents of the head-to-head battling in match play.

As his three PGA titles attest, Sarazen was one of the good ones at match play as well as medal play. But the champion at head-tohead golf undoubtedly was Walter Hagen, four-time winner of PGA titles, who piled his victims deep not only with his stroking but with his applied psychology.

Hagen always had going for him what appeared to be a bewildering insouciance in the heat of competition, and his approach to the finals of a big tournament showed no betrayal of any pressure. He might have been playing a friendly five-buck nassau, and he was fond of saying: "Don't worry, don't hurry. You're here on just a short visit, so be sure you get a smell of the flowers."

THE HAIG USED every phychological trick to upset his opponents. He'd concede them long putts early in a match, and later make them putt the short ones. They missed enough of the latter kind to make his victory easier. On his arrival at the course, he'd give an airy wave to an opponent who might be putting in a prematch hour on the practice tee, and tell him later: "Why waste good shots in practice, when you might need 'em later in the day."

In the 1926 finals of the PGA at Dallas where Hagen was playing Joe Turnesa, Hagen drove into the woods on the thirty-sixth hole, with Turnesa on the fairway. Now Hagen took his time. He walked half way to the hole to study the shot. Then he acted as if he were going to pitch out on the fairway. He waved Turnesa out of range, asked him to get behind the ropes with the gallery. Then Hagen played the ball the hard way, through the trees, onto the green and got his four. The wonder-struck Turnesa, with Hagen-induced jitters, played his own second shot into a trap and lost the tournament.

Armory Set for June 4

Everybody Gets a Good Seat At Godfrey 'Homecoming'

Mrs. Milton P. Kayle, 3347 23d st. se., yesterday ordered tickets to the Arthur Godfrey "Homecoming" show and the National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

On the bottom of her mail order, she penned a note: "Please give me some good seats to the Godfrey show."

All of the seats are good, Mrs. Kayle. No fooling. The seats in the Armory are being so arranged that you will be six inches to the side of the person just ahead of you. That's the arrangement some theaters have, you know.

At the golf tournament, you'll have plenty of room at the Army-Navy Club to get close-ups of the celebrities.

The Godfrey show will be held the night of June 4, beginning at 8:30, in the National Guard Armory. Arthur will bring his entire CBS radio cast with him and several big-name stars will appear as guests.

The Celebrities tournament, at the Army-Navy Country Club, June 4-5, will feature Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Godfrey, Sammy Snead, Dizzy Dean, Lefty Grove, Jimmy Thomson, Frank Stranahan, Joe Kirkwood, jr.; Hank Greenberg, Frank Leahy, "Happy" Chandler, and other national figures.

Tickets are on sale in The Washington Post lobby daily from 10:30 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., except Sunday, and at the Fairway, 1328 G st. nw., and the Sports Center, 8th and D sts. nw.

Prices for the tournament: Adult, season ticket (good for both days), $3; adult, single day, $2; junior (under 16), each day, $1. Season tickets must be purchased in advance, with a limited number going on sale.

Prices for the Arthur Godfrey show: Main floor, $5, $4, $3, $2. Balcony, $5, $3, $2, $1. All seats for the show are reserved except the $1 balcony tickets.

All prices include tax. Mail orders will be accepted for either event.

Veeck Sees Tribe Snap Streak, Beat Macks, 7-3

Philadelphia, May 23 (AP).—Cleveland's owner Bill Veeck flew into town tonight to see his world champions finally break into the win column as they pounded out 10 hits and thrashed the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3. It was the Indians' first victory since last Thursday and only their second in 10 games since starting their Eastern swing.

Early Wynn, obtained from Washington in a trade, went the route to record his first pitching triumph with the Indians. He set Philadelphia down with six hits, one of which was Hank Majeski's third home run of the season.

A five-run fourth-inning rally against Relief Pitcher Charley Harris put the game on ice for Cleveland. Harris took over for Starter Bill McCahan when an elbow injury forced the latter out of action with one out in the third inning.

Kenny Keltner homered off McCahan in the second for his third round tripper. It was the Indians' 23rd homer of the season and the 18th time they have hit for the circuit without a man on base.

Bosox Blank Tigers, 4-0; Stephens Hits No. 11

Boston, May 23 (AP).—Vern Stephens' eleventh homer of the season, a mighty drive into the right field bullpen with Ted Williams on base, today clinched the Boston Red Sox 4-0 shutout over the Detroit Tigers for Ellis Kinder.

That effective righthander, who now has a 4-1 record, gave up five scattered hits and was in danger only in the fifth inning when the Tigers filled the bases on a single and two passes with two out.

The Red Sox pounded out eight hits, all against Lefty Ted Gray, as the Tigers suffered their fourth straight setback.

Turnesa Rally Wins in British Amateur Golf

Portmarnock, Ireland, May 23 (U.P.).—U. S. Amateur Champion Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., blowing on his hands to warm them against an icy breeze off the Irish Sea, charged from behind on the back nine today and led six Americans into the second round of the British Amateur golf championship, with a 3 and 2 victory over young Alan Turner of England.

Seven Americans were beaten but seven others, including defending Champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who drew a first-round bye, will be around for competition tomorrow.

Three of the six Americans who survived the first-round firing were old-timers — 56-year-old Francis Ouimet of Boston, 59-year-old Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, and 63-year-old J. Ellis Knowles of Rye, N. Y., a veteran in New York's metropolitan district, whose son, Jimmy, was eliminated earlier.

Other American winners were Leonard Martin of Rye, N. Y., who ousted P. Urlwin-Smith of England, 2 and 1, and Frank Draven of Boston, who eliminated S. A. Schofield of England, 3 and 2.

Hard-hitting Joe Carr of Ireland, one of the British favorites, served notice he'll be tough to beat when he fired a 34 going out against young Jimmy Knowles of Greenwich, Conn., and later posted an 7 and 6 victory.

Knowles soon was joined on the sidelines by Maj. Lewis Wright of the Kelly Air Base in Texas, Sgt. Bill Ebey of the U. S. Army, Ted Bassett of Rye, N. Y., Max Felix of Los Angeles, Udo Reinach, Turnesa's business associate, and Clark Hardwicke of Hollywood.

Terps Honor Rieder, Turyn

Eddie Rieder, boxer, and Vic Turyn, football quarterback, will take away the bulk of prizes in the annual honors and awards assembly at the University of Maryland tonight.

Rieder will receive the "Maryland Ring" as the best athlete of the year, and the Tom Birmingham Memorial Trophy for the outstanding boxer.

Turyn will be awarded the Silvester Watch symbolic of excellence in athletics and the Men's League award for his contribution to the welfare of the University.

Rieder, a 155-pounder, won 32 out of 38 college bouts, including two Southern Conference championships.

Rieder also played soccer and fooball and Turyn was on the basketball squad.

Other awards to be made are the Louis W. Berger Trophy to Alfred F. Tuminski of Taylor, Pa., as the outstanding senior baseball player, the Southern Conference 130-pound boxing championship trophy to Spencer N. Hopkins, 3707 Woodley rd, nw., and the Edward Powell Trophy to Patrick H. Walker, Baltimore, as the best lacrosse player.

Braves Rout Cubs, 11-4, to Take 1st Place

Chicago, May 23 (AP).—The Boston Braves took undisputed possession of first place in the National League race by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 4, here today before a Ladies Day gathering of 8155.

This broke a first-place tie with the New York Giants, who were idle along with the rest of the circuit.

Yankees Hit Freely, Rout Browns, 10-3

New York, May 23 (AP).—Tommy Henrich's three-run homer and Allie Reynolds' airtight relief pitching after relieving starter Ed Lopat in the second inning helped the New York Yankees defeat the St. Louis Browns tonight, 10-3.

Henrich's four-bagger, his eighth of the season, drove in three of the four runs the Yanks wrenched from Loser Ned Garver in the first. When Cliff Mapes tripled off the center field wall to open the second, Bill Kennedy replaced Garver but was little relief to the Browns. Maples held third as Gerry Coleman bunted safely but both runners scored on Phil Rizzuto's double.

Lopat, who boasts four straight triumphs, did not have his stuff. A walk, Gerry Priddy's single, and Mapes' wild throw to third put Browns on second and third with one out in the first. They scored on a wild pitch and Roy Sievers' fly.

St. Louis Manager Zack Taylor was chased by Umpire John Stevens in the fourth for protesting a close play at first base.

DiMag Sharp; No Heel Pain

New York, May 23 (U.P.).—Gleeful Joe DiMaggio, back in a New York Yankee uniform tonight for the first time since April 11, whacked away at the ball in batting practice until he developed blisters on his hands.

The Yankee slugger, sidelined because of a heel ailment, was very happy after the session. "It sure felt good to hit again," he said. "My heel didn't bother me—nothing bothered me."

DiMaggio went through the batting practice before tonight's Yankee-St. Louis Browns game at Yankee Stadium. He was not scheduled to play in the game, however.

The slugging centerfielder did not attempt to run on the heel, and will not for several days yet. But his batting eye obviously was as sharp as ever.

Zernial's Hit in 9th Wins for Gumpert

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The naughty Nats stayed out too late last night in fast company, with disastrous results. At the decent hour of 10:30 they were doing nicely with a 1-0 lead over the White Sox. They hung around for the eighth and ninth innings and got licked, 3 to 1.

Joe Haynes took a two-hit pitching performance into the eighth inning of his duel with Harry Gumpert, the former Yankee now serving them for Chicago, and was the losing pitcher. The White Sox bumped him for all of their runs in the last two innings.

Gumpert, throwing a lively pitch at the Nats, gave up only three hits all night, but the White Sox didn't begin to reward him until the eighth inning, and then little Cass Michaels did it somewhat handsomely.

One Pitch—Homer

Michaels rapped the first pitch he saw from Haynes into the left-field bleachers for a homer with one out that tied the score at 1-1.

And in the ninth the White Sox came back for more and got two more to go in front for the first time during the evening. Gumpert himself inspired that uprising with a lead-off single to left, the fourth Chicago hit of the game.

Haynes dug his own pitfall a moment later by hitting Dave Philley with a pitched ball while that worthy was trying to sacrifice, and the Sox had two on with none out. The tension eased for the Nats smewhat when Gordon Goldsberry fouled out and Luke Appling hit into a force play, but now Haynes had to contend with Gus Zernial, the league's leading hitter.

Zernial whacked a 3-and-1 pitch into left field for a single, scoring Philley, and when Paul Calvert was wheeled in as a relief pitcher, Jerry Scala saluted him with a fiery single to right that scored Appling from second base.

Haynes Deserted

The Nats gave Haynes a run to work with in the second inning and then abandoned him for the rest of the night. After that brief show of power in which Clyde Vollmer doubled and Eddie Yost tripled, they collected only one hit off Gumpert. Haynes, himself, authored that one, with a single to left in the fifth.

Yost's three-bagger into the left field corner that scored Vollmer in the second, took place with only one out, but the Nats never did move him home, what with Dente and Evans hitting innocuous grounders.

Gumpert was on the wild side, issuing six walks, but when he was over the plate with his fast curve and jumping fireball he had the Nats quite helpless and hopeless. They got only one man as far as second base in those last seven innings, which is no way to win ball games.

Their reply to the White Sox's two runs in the ninth was somewhat feeble. It consisted of a base on balls coaxed by Pinch Hitter Buddy Lewis with two out. Pinch Hitter Ralph Weigel obliged the Chicago tourists with a nice fly ball to Scala in center field.

IN SHORT — Clark Griffith is hinting that the Nats will announce the acquisition of a relief pitcher before the week is out . . . and he is angling also for another right-handed hitting outfielder . . . Manger Joe Kuhel was taking no chances with Joe Haynes, who had pitched only seven innings this season before tonight. Despite the fact that Haynes was in no trouble and had pitched four hitless innings in a row, Kuhel had Calvert warming up in the sixth . . . Gil Coan under-rated Gus Zernial by playhim shallow in the second inning, when Zernial lined a double over Coan's head . . . the Nats and White Sox close their series tonight, with Sid Hudson on the mound for Washington . . . Manager Jack Onslow is undecided whether his pitcher will be Chic Pieretti or Howard Judson.

W-L Holds Benefit For Its Oarsmen

Washington-Lee of Arlington will play a benefit exhibition baseball game at home at 8 o'clock tonight with Chamberlain High. Proceeds of the game, expected to be $400, will be turned over to the W-L crew which is trying to finance a trip to Detroit to compete for the National scholastic title this Saturday. W-L won the Stotesbury Cup at Philadelphia last week.

With The Celebrities . . . By Bus Ham

BOB HOPE will be working on a tight schedule when he comes back to Washington for the National Celebrities golf tournament, June 4-5.

Bob will fly in from Hollywood in time to tee off Saturday noon at the Army-Navy Country Club.

Saturday night he will be on Arthur Godfrey's "Homecoming" program at the Armory. More about this later.

Sunday morning Bob will make a personal appearance at the Walter Reed Hospital to receive an award. More about that later.

After playing in the golf tournament again Sunday, Hope will hop into a plane for the return trip to the West Coast and must be on the Paramount movie lot by 6 a. m., Monday morning to start a new picture.

"And Bob's a guy who has to report on time when the cameras start shooting because the work of several thousand other persons depends on him," Hollywood advised yesterday.

JIMMY NICHOLS, the world's champion one-arm golfer, will be in the Celebrities' field. He will hit some balls off the first tee 15 minutes before the tournament proper begins. He has only his left arm but gets 210 to 225 yards off the tee and is almost as good a trick-shot specialist as Joe Kirkwood, sr.

Speaking of the Kirkwoods, Joe, jr., who beat the top pros in taking the Philadelphia Inquirer tournament title, flew back to Hollywood yesterday but will be here for the Celebrities.

"I've been away from the movie lot for almost two months," Joe, jr., said yesterday. "They called me, said it might be a good idea to drop in and let them see what I'm looking like these days. But I'll be on hand come June 4."

FRANK LEAHY, in the Celebrities for the first time, will be done by Hollywood in a movie of his life with a Notre Dame football backdrop. Leahy's only reservation is that he shall have the final word in approving players in the leading roles.

All of the Celebrities who appear at the golf tournament at the Army-Navy Country Club will sit in a special "Celebrities section" at the Arthur Godfrey show.

Officials of the host club will try something new in the way of convenience for the spectators. At the first tee, temporary bleachers will accommodate about 3500 persons. First come, first served.

Nats Again Crumble Late In Game, Chisox Win, 3-1

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THEY'RE PLAYING the PGA tournament at Richmond this week, 133 of the Nation's pros who qualified, and for the unwary golf writer the danger is that he may find himself covering Gene Sarazen, instead of the tournament.

That's because Sarazen is the most articulate of the top pros, and a rebel who refuses to be regimented by the PGA policy-makers. That latter group frowns on Sarazen's kind of rugged independence, and has acted to restrain comment by individual pros with a decree that all information to the press be channeled through the PGA tournament director.

POVICH

All of which leaves Sarazen cold, and unsubscribing. In the clubhouses and the locker rooms he is still the free-speaker. And as the last of the colorful pros, and three-time winner of the PGA, plus being a gallery favorite, he's good copy.

Right now, with a high disregard for the top PGA brass, Sarazen says they're all wrong in the way they are conducting their tournament, with two rounds of medal play qualifying before settling down to the four days of match play. He declares the lesser-famed pros are not getting a fair shake out of that system.

"THERE'S NO NEED for those two days of qualifying after the tournament starts, to reduce the field to 64 match-play contenders," Sarazen declared. "The pros qualified for the tournament when they won the eliminations in their local sections, and they shouldn't be asked to go through all that again.

"They ought to start right in on match play on the first day of the PGA. The field is comprised mostly of the home club pros, who deserve more consideration than they are getting. They don't finish among the high 64 at the end of the two days of quallifying and are out of the tournament. They go home a little bit disgraced because they didn't qualify. That's a bad deal for them. After all, they have local reputations as pretty good players.

"If the field started right in at match play, it would put the losing pros in a better light. After all, he could go home and say 'I was eliminated by Snead,' or 'Mangrum put me out,' or 'the fellow who licked me went to the finals.' That would give him more standing in his own community and he wouldn't be regarded as a failure who couldn't qualify."

THE DEBATE of match play vs. medal play has raged ever since golf became a big league game, and it has never been satisfactorily decided which demands the greater skill. The claim is made that medal play enforced the most pressure with its competition against invisible opposition, but that is disputed, too, by adherents of the head-to-head battling in match play.

As his three PGA titles attest, Sarazen was one of the good ones at match play as well as medal play. But the champion at head-tohead golf undoubtedly was Walter Hagen, four-time winner of PGA titles, who piled his victims deep not only with his stroking but with his applied psychology.

Hagen always had going for him what appeared to be a bewildering insouciance in the heat of competition, and his approach to the finals of a big tournament showed no betrayal of any pressure. He might have been playing a friendly five-buck nassau, and he was fond of saying: "Don't worry, don't hurry. You're here on just a short visit, so be sure you get a smell of the flowers."

THE HAIG USED every phychological trick to upset his opponents. He'd concede them long putts early in a match, and later make them putt the short ones. They missed enough of the latter kind to make his victory easier. On his arrival at the course, he'd give an airy wave to an opponent who might be putting in a pre-match hour on the practice tee, and tell him later: "Why waste good shots in practice, when you might need 'em later in the day."

In the 1926 finals of the PGA at Dallas where Hagen was playing Joe Turnesa, Hagen drove into the woods on the thirty-sixth hole, with Turnesa on the fairway. Now Hagen took his time. He walked half way to the hole to study the shot. Then he acted as if he were going to pitch out on the fairway. He waved Turnesa out of range, asked him to get behind the ropes with the gallery. Then Hagen played the ball the hard way, through the trees, onto the green and got his four. The wonder-struck Turnesa, with Hagen-induced jitters, played his own second shot into a trap and lost the tournament.

Everybody Gets a Good Seat At Godfrey 'Homecoming'

Mrs. Milton P. Kayle, 3347 23d st. se., yesterday ordered tickets to the Arthur Godfrey "Homecoming" show and the National Celebrities Golf Tournament.

On the bottom of her mail order, she penned a note: "Please give me some good seats to the Godfrey show."

All of the seats are good, Mrs. Kayle. No fooling. The seats in the Armory are being so arranged that you will be six inches to the side of the person just ahead of you. That's the arrangement some theaters have, you know.

At the golf tournament, you'll have plenty of room at the Army-Navy Club to get close-ups of the celebrities.

The Godfrey show will be held the night of June 4, beginning at 8:30, in the National Guard Armory. Arthur will bring his entire CBS radio cast with him and several big-name stars will appear as guests.

The Celebrities tournament, at the Army-Navy Country Club, June 4-5, will feature Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, Godfrey, Sammy Snead, Dizzy Dean, Lefty Grove, Jimmy Thomson, Frank Stranahan, Joe Kirkwood, jr.; Hank Greenberg, Frank Leahy, "Happy" Chandler, and other national figures.

Tickets are on sale in The Washington Post lobby daily from 10:30 a. m. to 6:00 p. m., except Sunday, and at the Fairway, 1328 G st. nw., and the Sports Center, 8th and D sts. nw.

Veeck Sees Tribe Snap Streak, Beat Macks, 7-3

Philadelphia, May 23 (AP).—Cleveland's owner Bill Veeck flew into town tonight to see his world champions finally break into the win column as they pounded out 10 hits and thrashed the Philadelphia Athletics 7-3. It was the Indians' first victory since last Thursday and only their second in 10 games since starting their Eastern swing.

Early Wynn, obtained from Washington in a trade, went the route to record his first pitching triumph with the Indians. He set Philadelphia down with six hits, one of which was Hank Majeski's third home run of the season.

A five-run fourth-inning rally against Relief Pitcher Charley Harris put the game on ice for Cleveland. Harris took over for Starter Bill McCahan when an elbow injury forced the latter out of action with one out in the third inning.

Kenny Keltner homered off McCahan in the second for his third round tripper. It was the Indians' 23rd homer of the season and the 18th time they have hit for the circuit without a man on base.

Bosox Blank Tigers, 4-0; Stephens Hits No. 11

Boston, May 23 (AP).—Vern Stephens' eleventh homer of the season, a mighty drive into the right field bullpen with Ted Williams on base, today clinched the Boston Red Sox 4-0 shutout over the Detroit Tigers for Ellis Kinder.

That effective righthander, who now has a 4-1 record, gave up five scattered hits and was in danger only in the fifth inning when the Tigers filled the bases on a single and two passes with two out.

The Red Sox pounded out eight hits, all against Lefty Ted Gray, as the Tigers suffered their fourth straight setback.

Turnesa Rally Wins in British Amateur Golf

Portmarnock, Ireland, May 23 (U.P.).—U. S. Amateur Champion Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N. Y., blowing on his hands to warm them against an icy breeze off the Irish Sea, charged from behind on the back nine today and led six Americans into the second round of the British Amateur golf championship, with a 3 and 2 victory over young Alan Turner of England.

Seven Americans were beaten but seven others, including defending Champion Frank Stranahan of Toledo, who drew a first-round bye, will be around for competition tomorrow.

Three of the six Americans who survived the first-round firing were old-timers — 56-year-old Francis Ouimet of Boston, 59-year-old Charles (Chick) Evans of Chicago, and 63-year-old J. Ellis Knowles of Rye, N. Y., a veteran in New York's metropolitan district, whose son, Jimmy, was eliminated earlier.

Other American winners were Leonard Martin of Rye, N. Y., who ousted P. Urlwin-Smith of England, 2 and 1, and Frank Draven of Boston, who eliminated S. A. Schofield of England, 3 and 2.

Hard-hitting Joe Carr of Ireland, one of the British favorites, served notice he'll be tough to beat when he fired a 34 going out against young Jimmy Knowles of Greenwich, Conn., and later posted an 7 and 6 victory.

Knowles soon was joined on the sidelines by Maj. Lewis Wright of the Kelly Air Base in Texas, Sgt. Bill Ebey of the U. S. Army, Ted Bassett of Rye, N. Y., Max Felix of Los Angeles, Udo Reinach, Turnesa's business associate, and Clark Hardwicke of Hollywood.

Terps Honor Rieder, Turyn

Eddie Rieder, boxer, and Vic Turyn, football quarterback, will take away the bulk of prizes in the annual honors and awards assembly at the University of Maryland tonight.

Rieder will receive the "Maryland Ring" as the best athlete of the year, and the Tom Birmingham Memorial Trophy for the outstanding boxer.

Turyn will be awarded the Silvester Watch symbolic of excellence in athletics and the Men's League award for his contribution to the welfare of the University.

Rieder, a 155-pounder, won 32 out of 38 college bouts, including two Southern Conference championships.

Rieder also played soccer and fooball and Turyn was on the basketball squad.

Other awards to be made are the Louis W. Berger Trophy to Alfred F. Tuminski of Taylor, Pa., as the outstanding senior baseball player, the Southern Conference 130-pound boxing championship trophy to Spencer N. Hopkins, 3707 Woodley rd. nw., and the Edward Powell Trophy to Patrick H. Walker, Baltimore, as the best lacrosse player.

Braves Rout Cubs, 11-4, to Take 1st Place

Chicago, May 23 (AP).—The Boston Braves took undisputed possession of first place in the National League race by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 4, here today before a Ladies Day gathering of 8155.

This broke a first-place tie with the New York Giants, who were idle along with the rest of the circuit.

The victory swept the two-game series here and extended the losing streak of the Cubs to five in a row.

Henrich Homers

Yankees Hit Freely, Rout Browns, 10-3

New York, May 23 (AP).—Tommy Henrich's three-run homer and Allie Reynolds' airtight relief pitching after relieving starter Ed Lopat in the second inning helped the New York Yankees defeat the St. Louis Browns tonight, 10-3.

Henrich's four-bagger, his eighth of the season, drove in three of the four runs the Yanks wrenched from Loser Ned Garver in the first. When Cliff Mapes tripled off the center field wall to open the second, Bill Kennedy replaced Garver but was little relief to the Browns. Maples held third as Gerry Coleman bunted safely but both runners scored on Phil Rizzuto's double.

Lopat, who boasts four straight triumphs, did not have his stuff. A walk, Gerry Priddy's single, and Mapes' wild throw to third put Browns on second and third with one out in the first. They scored on a wild pitch and Roy Sievers' fly.

St. Louis Manager Zack Taylor was chased by Umpire John Stevens in the fourth for protesting a close play at first base.

Zernial's Hit in 9th Wins for Gumpert

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

The naughty Nats stayed out too late last night in fast company, with disastrous results. At the decent hour of 10:30 they were doing nicely with a 1-0 lead over the White Sox. They hung around for the eighth and ninth innings and got licked, 3 to 1.

Joe Haynes took a two-hit pitching performance into the eighth inning of his duel with Harry Gumpert, the former Yankee now serving them for Chicago, and was the losing pitcher. The White Sox bumped him for all of their runs in the last two innings.

Gumpert, throwing a lively pitch at the Nats, gave up only three hits all night, but the White Sox didn't begin to reward him until the eighth inning, and then little Cass Michaels did it somewhat handsomely.

One Pitch—Homer

Michaels rapped the first pitch he saw from Haynes into the left-field bleachers for a homer with one out that tied the score at 1-1.

And in the ninth the White Sox came back for more and got two more to go in front for the first time during the evening. Gumpert himself inspired that uprising with a lead-off single to left, the fourth Chicago hit of the game.

Haynes dug his own pitfall a moment later by hitting Dave Philley with a pitched ball while that worthy was trying to sacrifice, and the Sox had two on with none out. The tension eased for the Nats smewhat when Gordon Goldsberry fouled out and Luke Appling hit into a force play, but now Haynes had to contend with Gus Zernial, the league's leading hitter.

Zernial whacked a 3-and-1 pitch into left field for a single, scoring Philley, and when Paul Calvert was wheeled in as a relief pitcher, Jerry Scala saluted him with a fiery single to right that scored Appling from second base.

Haynes Deserted

The Nats gave Haynes a run to work with in the second inning and then abandoned him for the rest of the night. After that brief show of power in which Clyde Vollmer doubled and Eddie Yost tripled, they collected only one hit off Gumpert. Haynes, himself, authored that one, with a single to left in the fifth.

Yost's three-bagger into the left field corner that scored Vollmer in the second, took place with only one out, but the Nats never did move him home, what with Dente and Evans hitting innocuous grounders.

Gumpert was on the wild side, issuing six walks, but when he was over the plate with his fast curve and jumping fireball he had the Nats quite helpless and hopeless. They got only one man as far as second base in those last seven innings, which is no way to win ball games.

Their reply to the White Sox's two runs in the ninth was somewhat feeble. It consisted of a base on balls coaxed by Pinch Hitter Buddy Lewis with two out. Pinch Hitter Ralph Weigel obliged the Chicago tourists with a nice fly ball to Scala in center field.

IN SHORT — Clark Griffith is hinting that the Nats will announce the acquisition of a relief pitcher before the week is out . . . and he is angling also for another right-handed hitting outfielder . . . Manger Joe Kuhel was taking no chances with Joe Haynes, who had pitched only seven innings this season before tonight. Despite the fact that Haynes was in no trouble and had pitched four hitless innings in a row, Kuhel had Calvert warming up in the sixth . . . Gil Coan under-rated Gus Zernial by playhim shallow in the second inning, when Zernial lined a double over Coan's head . . . the Nats and White Sox close their series tonight, with Sid Hudson on the mound for Washington . . . Manager Jack Onslow is undecided whether his pitcher will be Chic Pieretti or Howard Judson.

DiMag Sharp; No Heel Pain

New York, May 23 (U.P.).—Gleeful Joe DiMaggio, back in a New York Yankee uniform tonight for the first time since April 11, whacked away at the ball in batting practice until he developed blisters on his hands.

The Yankee slugger, sidelined because of a heel ailment, was very happy after the session. "It sure felt good to hit again," he said. "My heel didn't bother me—nothing bothered me."

DiMaggio went through the batting practice before tonight's Yankee-St. Louis Browns game at Yankee Stadium. He was not scheduled to play in the game, however.

The slugging centerfielder did not attempt to run on the heel, and will not for several days yet. But his batting eye obviously was as sharp as ever.

Saturday night he will be on Arthur Godfrey's "Homecoming" program at the Armory. More about this later.

Sunday morning Bob will make a personal appearance at the Walter Reed Hospital to receive an award. More about that later.

After playing in the golf tournament again Sunday, Hope will hop into a plane for the return trip to the West Coast and must be on the Paramount movie lot by 6 a. m., Monday morning to start a new picture.

"And Bob's a guy who has to report on time when the cameras start shooting because the work of several thousand other persons depends on him," Hollywood advised yesterday.

JIMMY NICHOLS, the world's champion one-arm golfer, will be in the Celebrities' field. He will hit some balls off the first tee 15 minutes before the tournament proper begins. He has only his left arm but gets 210 to 225 yards off the tee and is almost as good a trick-shot specialist as Joe Kirkwood, sr.

Speaking of the Kirkwoods, Joe, jr., who beat the top pros in taking the Philadelphia Inquirer tournament title, flew back to Hollywood yesterday but will be here for the Celebrities.

"I've been away from the movie lot for almost two months," Joe, jr., said yesterday. "They called me, said it might be a good idea to drop in and let them see what I'm looking like these days. But I'll be on hand come June 4."

FRANK LEAHY, in the Celebrities for the first time, will be done by Hollywood in a movie of his life with a Notre Dame football backdrop. Leahy's only reservation is that he shall have the final word in approving players in the leading roles.

All of the Celebrities who appear at the golf tournament at the Army-Navy Country Club will sit in a special "Celebrities section" at the Arthur Godfrey show.

Officials of the host club will try something new in the way of convenience for the spectators. At the first tee, temporary bleachers will accommodate about 3500 persons. First come, first served.

War Story's Late Surge Wins Charles Town Purse by 5 Lengths

Bill Bennings . . .

AT CHARLES TOWN.

DEAR FOLKS:

The plater, By Godfrey, is not named for the famous Arthur. By the way, the Godfrey Farm is just beyond the mountains on the back stretch of this track. Walter Haight, the horse, goes on the Tuesday program. Like Walter Haight, the man, he is getting too old to run. Sammy Palumbo and Buddy Root were riding when most of the boys here were shaking rattles. The years haven't taken much from either. Bobby Ray Mitchell is leading the riders for the second meeting. It is believed a record was set last week when entries were filed for 3422 horses. Secret Raider and Scat Back have been added to the long list of horses the veterinarian will not allow to start here.

Boston Man Fades Badly In Stretch

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., May 23.—War Story was an easy winner today in the Bladensburg Purse, the nearest thing to a Derby, Preakness or Belmont staged here at this meeting. Performing in the colors of Claiborne B. Carter, of Orange, Va., War Story came from last place with a mighty sweep to win by five open lengths from Mrs. J. D. S. Coleman's Boston Man.

In fact, Boston Man had to be kept to a strong drive to save the place money from Mrs. J. Y. Christmas' Bay Orders. Four others competed in the test of about seven furlongs.

Track Slow

With Boston Man, operating on his home grounds, installed the favorite, War Story returned a $5 win mutuel. Although the sun shone brightly, the track was slow as a result of yesterday's rains. Despite the dull going, War Story was clocked in 1:28.

Trainer Stanley Greene, jr., supplied a double winning punch on the program with horses from the Teaville Farms. Kitty Kilts accounted for the fifth race, a purse event at $3.40, while She's Scotch annexed the seventh, paying $5.20. Both were favorites and were excellently handled by Apprentice F. D. Rivera.

The daily double on the 8 and 4 combination returned $61.20. The winners were N. Leads' Blue Echo in the first and Mrs. Olga Schorch's By Godfrey in the second.

Marquez Optioned

Cleveland, May 23 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians today optioned Outfielder Louis Marquez to Portland of the Pacific Coast League.

Driver Hanna Misses 'Express'

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Frank Hanna, canny Virginia harness veteran, checked in yesterday at the new Rosecroft Raceway but his modest three-horse stable didn't seem the same without 20-year-old Hanover Express.

Last year at Laurel, Hanna, estimated to be 71 years young, coupled his sulky experience with the trotting savvy of the aged Hanover Express to win four straight races.

During the off season, however, the startling winning combination was broken up when owner Mrs. W. H. Broach, St. Stevens Church, Va., sold the Express to Len Applegate of Richmond.

Hanna isn't exactly happy about the "steal" of his star trotter. The boys around the track are predicting a Hanna-Applegate feud when they start racing against each other at the Oxon Hill track's inaugural meeting that starts Thursday night.

Hanna, of Aylett, Va., has two good winners in Chester Hanover, a mere 9-year-old trotter, and Prince Vonian, 10-year-old pacer. In addition, he hopes to click with Chief Wynn, 7-year-old green pacer.

The man responsible for the "Win With Wingate" slogan at Laurel last season also was among yesterday's arrivals. Tom Wingate, Rehoboth Beach (Del.) driver-trainer, brought in his 24-horse stable.

Wingate gave harness racing novices around here a convincing lesson on Laurel's first night when he breezed in with four winners.

TROTTER OR PACER?—We don't know about the goat but Prince's Miss Watts is a top trotter owned by Bob Browne, jr., wealthy Baltimore sportsman. The harness horse and his constant stable companion, Nanny, were snapped at Rosecroft Raceway where they're getting ready for the big opening Thursday night

Annapolis Puts on Huge Sailing Show

By Happy Walker

THE LADS of the Naval Academy at Annapolis will stage one of the largest aquatic sport programs ever staged on the Severn River on Thursday as a part of the week-long 300th anniversary of Annapolis, currently being observed.

Heading Thursday's events will be an underwater demolition act and amphibious assault slated to be staged by the Navy at 10:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. In the afternoon, the Annapolis harbor will be the scene of a series of sail races including Chesapeake 20s, Hampton One-designs, Tempests, Dolphins, Moths, Navy knockabouts and whaleboats and possibly log canoes.

There also will be a sailing demonstration of the Naval Academy's South Pacific outrigger and Carl von Zielinski's miniature square rigger, Queen Ann's Revenge. Carl Menneken of Annapolis Yacht Club will run the sailing races.

A number of Washington sailing enthusiasts are planning to attend to observe how our future admirals stack up in this sailing business. The day's events will wind up with a marine parade for power boats at 8:30 p. m. to be judged by Commodore G. G. Ridgley of Annapolis Yacht Club, Thomas Deakyne of Severn River Sailing Association, Hal Loweree of Gibson Island Yacht squadron and Capt. Lawrence Freeman of the Naval Academy.

TO THE TUNE of "Stormy Weather" and in spite of same, the third annual Class C racing canoe regatta was held Sunday afternoon off Washington Canoe Club. Twenty-five contestants were entered, winding up with the following point standings: Dempsey's Canoe Club — 36 points; Potomac Boat Club—21 points; Washington Canoe Club —15 points. Carolyn Bonsavage won the one-lady single blade event, duplicating her success at the M. T. A. sponsored races two weeks ago.

STILL ANOTHER highly touted aquatic event was canceled Sunday due to the elements. Old man Pluvius simply ruled out the fourth running of the Potomac River Sailing Association's spring series off Hains Point. Officials will endeavor to run the event at a later date. With 3 down and 2 to go, the wind-jammers are fighting doggedly to hold their positions which are: Chesapeake 20c: Blue Water—Bob Orme tied for first place with Van Guard—Paul Stone; Eight Ball—Ole Olson; Lady Avon—Henry B. Shea. Thistles: Walter Lawson; Tartan—Frank Greenman; White Shadow—Eugene Marquard Lightnings: Halcycon—Arthur Carnduff; Schmitzel—Norman Schaller; Sea Scouts; Comets: Sleipner—Arne Lekson; Lucky Strick—Bob Ray; Dorrie—Russ Parker. 8 District Fishermen Hit Half-Ton Jackpot in 3 Days

By Ralph Murdock

AN EXCELLENT fishing report just received from Chincoteague, Va., tells of eight Washingtonians who spent two days at this famous fishing town. Chincoteague is noted for its good fishing and its annual round-up of wild ponies. It is located 165 miles from Washington on the Atlantic Ocean midway between Ocean City, Md., and Cape Charles, Va.

THE PARTY consisted of Layman and John Scott, father and son combination, Charles Hodge, Stanley Folger, Gene Downer, John Trumbo, and Henry White. They fished 15 miles from the shore and their catch consisted of trout, porgie and black sea bass. The bulk of the fish taken was porgie which averaged 2½ pounds. The trout averaged a trifle over 2 pounds and were caught by casting. The heads of shrimp were used for bait with no sinkers. The black sea bass ran from 1 to 5 pounds.

After the fish were cleaned and iced, the scales registered more than 1000 pounds. They fished two days and they claimed that the sea was choppy most of the time.

The skipper was Capt. Sam Taylor. Fee per day for the boat was $35.

TWO SHAD casters, George L. Greene and Jack C. Estes, caught 8 shad and one pan rockfish in the upper Patuxent River. The rock was a surprise package because neither of the fishermen had expected anything but shad.

Bloody Point Lighthouse area in the upper Chesapeake Bay produced good results for both rock and hardheads. The croakers were still pretty well scattered, but most of the boats averaged about six each. Heavy rains and high winds over the weekend slowed up the fishing at most of the popular fishing grounds.

While trolling for blues with Capt. Hubert Fulcher at Cape Lookout, Glenn Floyd and party of Chapel Hill hooked a giant sea turtle. This is the season of the year when they come ashore to deposit their eggs in the warm sand which acts as an incubator. The captured turtle weighed 350 pounds. Quantity of eggs unknown at this writing; they are still counting them.

HERE IS A NOBLE gesture that comes from little old Texas.

On Saturday, June 18, the Freeport Kiwanis and "Andy" Anderson of the Houston Press will stage the third annual free fishing trip for disabled veterans. The event is for kids who are 50 per cent or more disabled. The amputees, blind, deaf and others who gave so much during the war that they are unable to lead a normal way of life are invited.

They are prepared to handle 150 boys. There will be special gadgets to help amputees and others handicapped.

Everything will be free. They will have fishing rods, bait and someone to assist wheel chair patients and special crews for the blind. San Antonio is sending 35 boys. A bus has been chartered by the V. F. W. to take the boys down to Freeport. Several other cities in Texas will do likewise.

Fleming Wins Annapolis Roads Golf

Annapolis, Md., May 23 (AP).—Pete Fleming, professional from Hot Springs, Ark., won the Annapolis Roads Open Golf championship today with a 27-hole card of 108.

Tied for second place with 112s were Spencer Overton, Baltimore amateur; Ralph Bogart, the Maryland State Amateur champion from Chevy Chase; Bobby Williams, pro at the Naval Academy course, and Buck Worsham, Washington pro.

Five more golfers were deadlocked for sixth with 113 totals. They were Andy Gibson, Country Club of Maryland pro; Charlie Bassler, Rolling Road pro; Roger Peacock, pro from Sligo Park; Ralph Beach, Suburban Club pro, and Henry Roberson, Washington amateur.

Fleming carded a 34—36—38 for his three over-par 108.

A total of 80 linksmen competed. They were bothered by brisk winds as they toured the nine-hole course.

Another for Graves

Dick Graves pitched his second no-hit, no-run game in two days as Nativity defeated St. Stephen's, 5-0, in a CYO junior league game. In the Intermediate league, Blessed Sacrament beat Sacred Heart, 6-4.

YOUR KEY TO GREATER VALUE

Come say "Hello" to a Good Buy

WHEN you get right down to it, there's just one way to satisfy yourself that this bold beauty is the car you've been yearning for.

So here's open invitation to come take its wheel — and see how neatly, invitingly, it seems to fit your hand.

Come put it up against the rough spots—and sample for yourself the ride that's recognized as smoother, even, than on highest-priced cars.

Come feel the lift in this big Fireball valve-in-head, high-pressuring fuels into giving up their very best — come sample the super-smoothness of Dynaflow†, the only drive in which "oil does it all."

Come see how smoothly big soft brakes stroke you down to even, jarless stops—come swing this one around twisting curves and see its freedom from the top-heavy "feel" so common elsewhere.

Come slam the solid doors, drum on its sturdy top, roll up the windows and notice the curtain of silence this one draws over outside noises.

And please come fresh from tests of other cars — their power, their ride, their steadiness, their room — because never does this one show up so well as under direct comparison.

Above all, come prepared to check the value in this bonny SUPER. Come armed with delivered prices — all the details of other "deals."

There's no better way to see how smart you are to get a firm order in—but fast!

Board Tables Bid To Back Taxi Curbs

The Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board last night tabled a resolution indorsing a bill to let the Public Utilities Commission limit the number of taxis in the District.

Because of "scanty attendance" and sharp disagreement, the board deferred a vote on the resolution until its June 20 meeting.

The bill, H. R. 4281, would enable the PUC to limit the number of cabs on the basis of "public necessity and convenience."

Indorsement was urged by two board committees, those on motor vehicle administration and on laws and regulations, as a means of reducing traffic congestion.

The board in other matters last night:

1. Commended Capital Transit Co. for sponsoring safety talks by Miss Anita Blair, who was blinded in a traffic accident.

2. Said traffic-safety awards previously announced will be presented to the District in ceremonies at 3 p. m., Tuesday, May 31, in the District Building board room.

Three awards will be received from the National Safety Council and one traffic-law-enforcement award from the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

County Slayer Found Guilty Of Murder

Frank Dent, 40, of Forestville, Md., was found guilty of first degree murder yesterday by a Prince Georges County Circuit Court jury after half an hour's deliberation.

Dent was charged with the shotgun slaying of Richard T. Batson, 41, of Marlboro, last November 20. Batson died of his wounds two days later in Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Two participants in a party at the home of Edgar Brooks, near Forestville, testified they saw Batson crawling on his stomach in the road as they left in the early morning of November 21. Earlier they had seen Dent on the porch with a shotgun, they said.

Lieut. Elon Turner, head of the Marlboro station of the Prince Georges County Police, testified that Dent told him he had shot Batson, but that it was a "mistake," as he intended to shoot Brooks. Dent's wife, Susie, is employed as a housekeeper by Brooks.

Judge Charles C. Marbury deferred sentencing.

Senate Enacts Bill to Outlaw 'Double' Overtime

The Senate yesterday passed and sent back to the House a bill outlawing so-called "overtime on overtime" pay claims in industry generally on a retroactive basis.

A bill recently passed by the House outlaws such claims only in the longshore stevedoring industry and the building construction industry. Also, the House bill has no retroactive provision.

The Senate bill would nullify any claim filed since the enactment of the Wage and Hour Law in 1935. However, Senator Hill (D., Ala.), chairman of the Senate Labor subcommittee which drafted the measure, has said he does not believe it would have any effect on claims already paid.

The overtime on overtime pay claims generally arose from a Supreme Court decision last year.

Man Held as Slasher Of Woman's Money Belt

A man accused of slashing the money belt of a sleeping woman and making off with $218, was arrested yesterday and charged with robbery.

The money belt, police said, belonged to Sarah Jane Allen, 48, a waitress of 1020 7th st. nw. The man, listed as Percy Riggs, 30, of 1837 Kalorama rd. nw., had been visiting the house where the victim lives, police said.

London, May 23 (U.P.).—United States Ambassador Lewis C. Douglas, whose left eye was pierced by a fish hook in March, now is able to work at the Embassy for two hours daily, it was announced today.

U. S. Right to Sue Here Upheld

The Federal Government may sue in the United States District Court even though the controversy may be within the jurisdiction of the Municipal Court.

The United States Court of Appeals made this ruling yesterday in remanding to the District Court for hearing a suit involving recovery of salary from a Government employe holding two Federal jobs.

The Government had sued Helen F. Kloman, 2828 6th st. ne., in District Court for $338.23 paid to her as an employe in 1942 of the Board of Economic Warfare while she was drawing $1560 annually as a District Jail employe.

The original suit was thrown out by Chief Judge Bolitha Laws, District Court, on the grounds that the court did not have jurisdiction.

In reversing this ruling yesterday the appellate court held that District Courts have jurisdiction in all such civil suits notwithstanding a congressional enactment "in general terms" that the Municipal Court shall have "exclusive" jurisdiction in matters not exceeding $3000.

Maryland to Join U. S. In Farm Saving Effort

The State of Maryland and the Board of Natural Resources will be partners in a soil-saving program on a 275-acre farm near Washington.

The board's offer to cooperate on the plan was accepted today by the Maryland State Soil Conservation Committee.

The property near Cloppers, is the gift of Mrs. Emma T. Strider of Washington.

AN OFF BEAT—While District Commissioner J. Russell Young was making his address of welcome before the World Trade Exhibit opening yesterday at the Department of Commerce, a little visitor seemed to miss a point or two and crawled up the steps, dropping her doll on the way. She was identified as 2-year-old Helen Lom, daughter of M. J. Lom, assistant Czech commercial attache in New York. The exhibit, sponsored by the Washington Board of Trade's world trade committee and the Chamber of Commerce, was attended by members of the diplomatic corps and Federal and District Government officials

15 Per Cent ECA Cut Would Have Little Effect on Employes

The 15 per cent cut in the budget of the Economic Cooperation Administration would have very little effect on its employes. Very few, if any, of its workers would have to be fired if the slash is approved. The cut was recommended yesterday to the House by its appropriations committee.

ECA has operated with a staff which is much smaller than was anticipated when the agency was created. It has 800 employes here and another 850 Americans overseas. In addition, several hundred natives are employed overseas.

CIVIL SERVICE won't give provisional lay-off notices to its employes before June 15. It has decided to wait and see what the Senate does to its budget before acting on possible discharges.

The commission, supported by veterans' groups, hopes the Senate will restore the $3,600,000 House reduction in its budget. But if the cut is upheld, 633 employes now on its rolls must be fired promptly.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING also has decided to postpone any lay-offs for several more weeks. Meantime, its officials will go before the Senate Appropriations Committee tomorrow to appeal for restoration of its House slash which would wipe out about 750 of its jobs. The House committee ordered GAO to take over some of Maritime's auditing work but it didn't provide funds to pay employes to do the job.

SECRETARIES: Civil Service's handling of the secretarial test has set off a new and bitter controversy over its examining methods.

G-girls with 5, 10 or 15 years of secretarial experience were told over the weekend that they do not meet the minimum qualifications for their CAF-5 to 7 jobs. Some of them have had very good and excellent ratings for years. The girls are mad—very mad—and they can't be blamed.

Equally provoked are the girls' bosses who are pleased with their secretaries and want them retained. Many of the bosses will join their secretaries to protest to the Civil Service Commission.

Girls who were rated ineligible can appeal to the commission for a review of their exam papers. The appeal, the commission states, must be in writing.

However, those who flunked aren't likely to be fired from their jobs any time soon. In the first place, the second half of the secretarial test won't be given for another 10 days and it'll probably be another three or four months before an eligible register is established.

TRAVEL BILL: A brief but satisfactory hearing on the employe travel bill was held yesterday by the Senate Expenditures Committee. No definite action was taken on it.

Committee appeared to be agreed that the allowance for private car use on official business should be raised from 5 to 7 cents a mile. They are also ready to support a higher travel expense allowance than the present $6 maximum. It seems to be merely a question whether to go along with the $9 figure approved by the House or to hike it to $10 as proposed by the Administration.

Among those who testified for the bill were Henry Merry of the Budget Bureau; William Ellis of GAO; Luther C. Steward of the National Federation of Federal Employes; W. J. Houston of the American Federation of Government Employes, and Tom Walters of the Government Employes Council.

Senator Pepper (D., Fla.) also urged the committee to approve the bill. He also suggested the establishment of an auto pool to take members of Congress on business visits to Federal agencies.

5 PER CENT CUT: The committee also discussed the Tydings resolution to make a 5 per cent cutback in the appropriations of all Federal agencies. It decided to tentatively set hearings on the proposal for Thursday and Friday.

It's estimated that a 5 per cent across-the-board budget slash would wipe out the jobs of 100,000 Federal workers.

$10,500 Win On Numbers Claimed in Theft Trial

Stance James Says Luck Explains Car He Bought Soon After Safe Looting

Stance W. James, 30, accused of taking $60,000 from the safe of a former police sergeant, told District Court yesterday he had hit the numbers for $10,500.

James said this accounted for the fact that he was able to buy a new Cadillac for cash sometime after the robbery.

James, who together with a brother, Oliver, and Louis Singleton, 40, is charged with robbing the safe of Richard H. Beckley, said he played $15 on 001 with "a man named James Dykes on Sherman rd. se."

Prosecutor Arthur McLaughlin hurriedly subpenaed Dykes. When James was confronted with the latter he admitted he could not identify him and declared he was not the same man who had paid him off on the winning number.

Final arguments are scheduled for today before Federal Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut, after which the case will go to the jury.

Fine Is $200 On Charge of Taking Bets

A first offender charged with possessing lottery slips was convicted and fined $200 in Bethesda Police Court yesterday by Trial Magistrate James R. Miller.

The defendant was Thomas Edward Peters, 36, of 923 L st. ne., who, police said, was writing numbers from door to door in the vicinity of Butler st. and River rd., near Bethesda, when arrested February 21.

In imposing the fine, or 60 days in jail, Trial Magistrate Miller told the defendant: "Because this is your first offense, I'm going to let you off easy."

Peters, represented by Attorney Joseph B. Simpson, jr., of Rockville, pleaded guilty and paid his fine immediately.

Police said the defendant, a laborer, had built up a route in the neighborhood and admitted turning in the slips and money to a Washington gambler.

Truman Studies 'Several' Names For Grant's Post

President Truman has before him a list of "several" persons suggested to head the National Capital Park and Planning Commission but no action is likely for some weeks, it was stated yesterday.

The names include that of Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, whose term as head of the commission expired April 30, according to Donald Dawson, administrative assistant to the President. Dawson said he thinks a choice unlikely for some time.

The agency is now temporarily headed by A. E. Demaray of the National Park Service, executive officer.

Achilles Promoted By State Department

Theodore C. Achilles has been appointed a deputy director of the Office of European Affairs, the State Department announced yesterday.

Chief of the Western European Division of that office since November, 1947, Achilles will assume the deputy director post held by Samuel Reber, who has been assigned as counselor at the American Embassy in Rome. Llewellyn E. Thompson continues as a deputy director in the same office.

Immediate Segregation Ban Demanded in Parks Transfer

By Chalmers M. Roberts
Post Reporter

Outright abolition of segregation in the operation of the District Recreation Board is essential to any "compromise" of the issue, Assistant Interior Secretary C. Girard Davidson declared yesterday.

The President last week talked to Davidson on the matter along with Interior Secretary J. A. Krug and the District Commissioners.

A "compromise" declaration being considered by the recreation unit, possibly to be joined in by the District Commissioners, would call for eventual end to segregation, once administrative problems involved are worked out.

Davidson said it would be difficult to comment on the "compromise" suggestion without knowing exactly what would be in it. He then added:

"I can state categorically, however, that there will be no compromise in the Department of the Interior's position, opposing segregation in the operation of recreation in the District of Columbia.

"Before we will enter into agreement with the D. C. Recreation Board on operation of areas under jurisdiction of this department, the board must abandon its present segregation policy in all its activities.

"There are no legal or practical obstacles to prevent the board taking such action at its next meeting (June 14) and the Interior Department representative will introduce such a resolution.

"Anything less than outright abolition of segregation in the operation of the D. C. Recreation Board will be not merely a compromise but a denial of the President's civil rights program."

Meanwhile, an Interior Department agency, the Park Police, disclosed three Negro policemen have been assigned to relief duty with cruiser patrols. They are Pvts. Grant Wright, Louis W. Dutch and Eugene Greenfield.

The action, by Capt. Mark Raspberry, followed complaints by a delegation of Negro policemen of racial discrimination in the force. The men were assigned to relief duty since there is now no regular vacancy.

The Catholic War Veterans Auxiliary by a unanimous vote at its first convention has gone on record as "vociferously" opposing "the inhuman practice of segregation."

The action was taken last Friday but not announced until yesterday. Attending the gathering at St. Matthew's Hall and St. Peter's Hall were 626 delegates from 32 States, including several in the South.

The resolution, a spokesman said, declared "man is made in the image of God" and that the Constitution "eliminates the idea of race, creed or color as being a qualifying factor for citizenship."

Musical Gadget Will Speed Long Distance Phone Calls

By Christmas, 1950, Washingtonians will be able to make that holiday call home in a matter of seconds and sweet-voiced long-distance operators will say it with music.

The esthetic innovation will enable Washington operators to dial numbers in other cities directly. The telephone numbers will be translated into musical tones, a different pitch for a different number or letter, and the tune will be picked up by the city being called.

The tune won't necessarily be harmonious and probably won't be heard by the customers, but it will cut down calling time at least 50 per cent, its composers, the Bell System Laboratories, say.

Called "Cross-country Operator dialing" the new setup was demonstrated yesterday in the Washington Hotel. A reporter heard a Miami drawl 29 seconds after he picked up the phone to place the call.

The system is already in use in New York, Philadelphia and Chicago. Using the New York board, Washington places about 20 per cent of its long distance the new way. Engineers expect the switchover to be completed in time for the Christmas rush of 1950.

Telephone users will also be thankful for the new set that is being used experimentally. Shaped about like the one now in use, it has the dial numbers printed outside and is equipped with a volume control to quiet down foghorn conversationalists.

More Delay On Fire Rules Is Requested

Citizens Federation And Property Owners Call for Extension To Permit Analysis

Further delays of three to six months in the enforcement of the District's new fire prevention regulations were recommended yesterday at an all-day hearing on the revised rules.

Representatives of the Washington Property Owners Association declared that since galley proofs of the new rules were made available only last Thursday, an additional half-year would be necessary to analyze the rules properly.

The Federation of Citizens Associations, through Lester H. Steinem, chairman of the safety committee, counseled a 90-day delay for the same purpose. This position was supported by Walter Wasson, president, West End Citizens Association.

The egress code covering requirements to insure safety for residents of various structures in the District has been pending since 1945, but this was postponed four times with January 1, 1949, set as the effective date. This, in turn, was extended indefinitely, until the regulations were put in final form and printed.

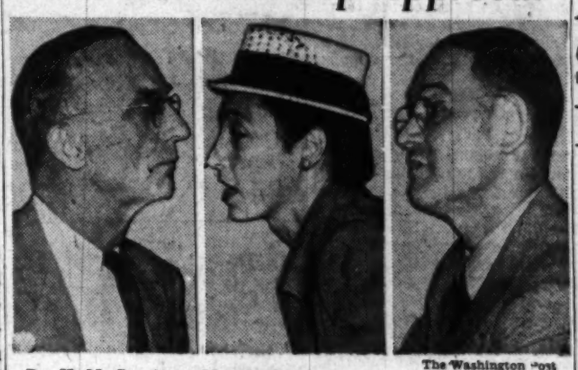
At yesterday's hearing in the District Building, numerous protests were entered by spokesmen for property owners against the code as "too severe." Some contended the required improvements would place them in bankruptcy and encourage building in nearby Maryland and Virginia instead.

Frank Weakly, president of the Hotel Association of Washington, who was in a major Chicago hotel fire, said the closing of transoms and elimination of louvres in doors were impractical. He said such openings permitted smoke to issue forth and aided early discovery of fires.

Acting Fire Marshal R. E. Warfield, however, argued that such requirements kept fires bottled up and permitted occupants of other parts of the building to escape uninjured.

The hearing will resume at 2 p. m. Friday.

Bill for Teacher Sick Leave Gains House Group Approval



The Washington Post

Dr. H. M. Corning Mrs. Leon Henderson Don B. Goodloe
. . . testify at hearing on teachers' sick leave bill

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

The House District Education Subcommittee yesterday gave swift and unanimous approval to the teachers' sick leave bill.

The action, putting the measure over its first legislative hurdle, followed a morning hearing at which 10 local school and teacher group officials voiced their unqualified backing.

The other witnesses, spokesmen for Teachers' Union Locals 8 and 27 (AFL), while favoring the sick leave principle, urged the subcommittee to broaden the bill. They urged continuation of the present widespread practice of teachers employing a substitute at part pay after sick leave runs out.

Thomas G. Abernethy (D., Miss.), subcommittee chairman, announced after the hearing that he thought the bill as drafted by the Board of Education "was fine" and that "all his committee members were in complete sympathy with it."

The Abernethy group, in a five-minute closed session, voted to report the measure to the full House District Committee.

The bill, covering Washington's public school teachers and attendance officers would:

1. Grant ten days' annual leave at full pay for "personal illness, contagious disease, or death in the family, or pressing emergency." The unused leave would be cumulative to 60 days.

2. Initially, would give each permanent teacher one day's leave for each year of service in the school system up to and including 20 years.

3. Allow teachers to "borrow" up to 20 days' additional leave at full pay when all accrued and earned leave is exhausted.

4. Entitle temporary teachers to earn 10 days' annual leave and have cumulative time up to 10 days.

School Superintendent Hobart M. Corning testified that there was "critical need" for paid sick leave. He said that, for one thing, it would protect the health of pupils by encouraging teachers to stay home when they were too ill to teach.

C. Melvin Sharpe, president of the Board of Education, also urged prompt enactment of the bill to "give teachers and children alike the break they deserve.

Don Goodloe, of Teachers' Union, Local 27, said teachers should be allowed to hire their own substitutes, arguing that the cost is "borne by the teacher, not the D. C. budget." He also recommended that the pending bill be amended to provide for automatic reinstatement after prolonged sickness and to make the additional 20 days' leave "mandatory rather than permissive."

Other witnesses included: Mrs. Leon Henderson, representing Americans for Democratic Action; Ralph Watt, president, Teachers' Union, Local 8 (AFL); Robert Evans, District Parent-Teacher Association; Miss Thelma Raymond, president Columbian Education Association; Miss Helen Samuel, president, Junior High School Teachers' Association; Miss Elizabeth Griffin, president, Elementary Classroom Teachers' Association, and Russell Coover, president, High School Teachers' Association.

Sesqui Plan Approved by Senate; Fund In Question

McGrath Explains About $3 Million U. S. Loan; Measure Sent to President

The Senate yesterday approved and sent to the White House legislation giving renewed congressional sanction to the National Capital Sesquicentennial celebration next year.

The measure was cleared by unanimous consent, but only after the questions of Senators gave warning that requests for Federal funds to underwrite the Freedom Fair will be subject to critical inspection.

Other Measures Approved

Four other District measures were approved, also by unanimous consent, and now go to the House. The bills would:

1. Authorize another year's operation of Washington's six child day-care centers through June 30, 1950. The House has approved a differing version of the plan, calling for curtailing the program to about half the present scale. The House can accept the Senate version or send the bill to conference for a compromise.

2. Permit special appointment of a judge of Juvenile Court to serve for Judge Fay Bentley. She is in St. Elizabeths Hospital as a voluntary patient, and there is no expectation she will return to the bench.

Weed-Spraying Bill

3. Let the District Government kill weeds on private property by spraying. A similar bill has been approved by the House District Health Subcommittee headed by Representative Thomas G. Abernethy (D., Miss.).

4. Permit banks and trust companies to set up common trust funds for improved investment.

On the sesquicentennial bill Senators Robert C. Hendrickson (R., N. J.) and William Langer (R., N. Dak.) raised the question whether it might lay the Federal Government open to financial loss.

Only Want Federal Loan

Senate District Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) assured the Senate that "it is anticipated there will be no loss." He pointed out that Congress is being asked to approve a three-million-dollar appropriation for the Freedom Fair, but that it is intended as a "bank loan" to be repaid to the Federal Treasury.

He said plans for the celebration call for a total budget of about nine million dollars. He said it will be a business venture, in which the Federal Government is expected to receive back more than it advances.

$2 Loan Refused, Dice Player Killed in Gun-Icepick Brawl

An argument that started in a dice game over a request for a $2 loan ended yesterday in the death of one of the players in a shotgun-revolver and ice-pick brawl.

Miree

The dead man was identified tentatively as Edward White, about 42, of 1525 Q st. nw.

Held was William D. Miree, 23, of 2226 F st. nw., who police said confessed to the killing.

The .38-caliber revolver still in his hand, Miree was arrested 20 feet away from where White's body lay sprawled on the corner of 6th and N sts. nw. He had given a passer-by a nickel to telephone police from a store.

The crap game started, police said Miree told them, because the road on which he and White were to work yesterday as construction laborers on a Southeast project was wet. The workers, including Miree and White, came back in a bunch and the game got started at 5th and N sts. nw.

The argument, according to Miree's account, developed when he refused to lend White and another man $2. He then left, police quoted him. He told police he was standing in a restaurant at 5th and N sts. nw. when somebody came up and told him White was outside with a shotgun.

Miree said he went outside and asked White, "Are you looking for me?"

"Yes, I'm looking for you," he said White replied—and, according to Miree, wheeled around with a gun.

According to the version police said Miree gave them the following then happened:

Miree fired the revolver wounding White in the leg. Miree and White both started to walk off—but Miree turned over his shoulder and saw White coming at him with an icepick. He fired again, hitting White in the stomach and crumpling him on the street corner.

A 12-gauge shotgun—the barrel and stock separated—by White's right hand when they arrived, police said. His left hand clutched a fistful of shells.

Miree was held for action of the coroner's jury at 11:30 a. m. today.

Cannon Recovered, Believed 1812 Relic

A cannon believed to be a relic of the War of 1812 has been recovered from a junk yard by the National Capital Parks office.

The cannon, according to Irving C. Root, National Capital Parks superintendent, will be placed on display this summer in the Great Falls museum.

The cannon was one of a pair found by workmen in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal at the foot of 34th st., in Georgetown, in 1929. The other cannon was so badly corroded as to be historically valueless.

The better-preserved cannon, which weighs about 1200 pounds, was sent to Fort Washington about two years ago for storage. Recently it was inadvertently disposed of, with other scrap iron, to a Washington dealer. It was located by Stanley McClure, historian of the Lincoln Memorial. Superintendent Root exchanged an equivalent amount of scrap iron for it.

According to McClure, it is conjectured that the cannon were used in the Battle of Bladensburg, and then were moved to Washington to protect the White House from the British. When it was decided not to make a stand there, the cannon were removed to Georgetown, McClure believes.

Condition of the salvaged cannon suggests that it was damaged to prevent its being of use to an enemy. The hole where the powder charge was set off has been spiked, and parts of the weapon broken off.

Broke Into Stores

MP Receives Suspended 5-Year Term

An Arlington military policeman convicted of breaking into five county business places was given a five-year suspended sentence in Alexandria Circuit Court yesterday.

Judge Walter T. McCarthy, in passing sentence, said Pvt. John Maxwell Havens, 19, might be placed on probation when the court finds what action the Army will take against him.

Havens was given five years on each of five counts of breaking and entering, but the sentences were set to run concurrently. He was arrested by police on February 13, 1948, while breaking into a radio store at 254 N. Glebe rd.

Police said all five business places were within a nine-block area of Glebe rd. Havens, who pleaded guilty to the counts, has a 17-year-old wife and a young child. He was stationed at Arlington Hall.

Judge McCarthy ordered Havens recommitted to jail until it could be determined whether the Army would discharge him or try him. The judge pointed out that Havens had been in no previous "serious trouble."

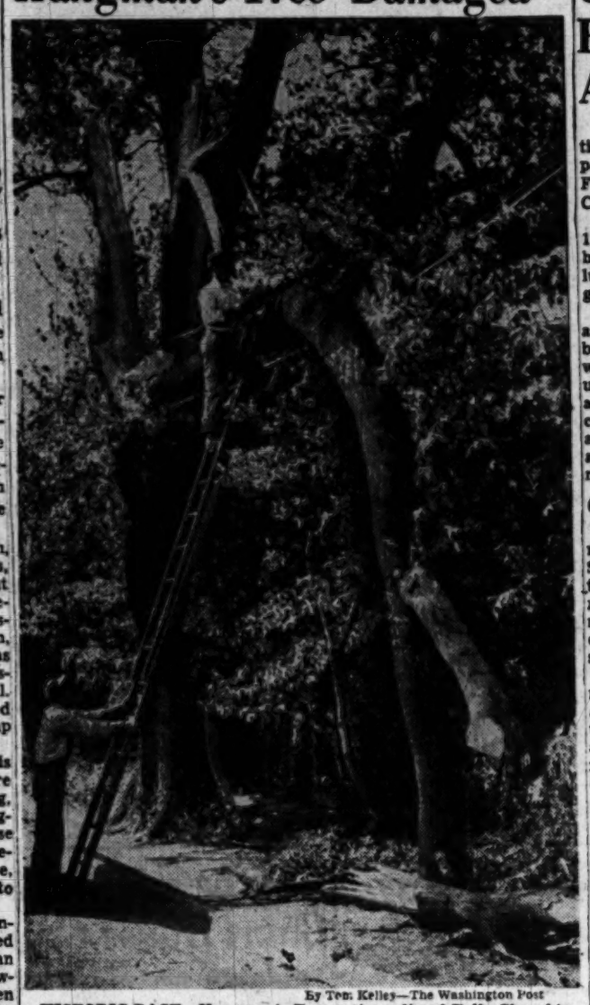
According to court officials, Army regulations require the discharge of a man convicted of a felony.

Tall Cedars Set Convention Here

The Supreme Forest of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon have selected Washington, as their convention city in 1950, it was announced yesterday by Elmer F. Stein of Capitol Forest No. 104, Washington, general chairman of the convention committee.

Stein also announced new officers as Arthur E. Farmer of Trenton, N. J., Supreme Tall Cedar; William F. Schmidt of Staten Island, N. Y., Senior Deputy Supreme Tall Cedar, John H. McFaul, jr., of Baltimore, Junior Deputy Supreme Tall Cedar.

'Hangman's Tree' Damaged



By Tom Kelley—The Washington Post

HISTORIC PAST—Hangman's Tree, grim relic of Falls Church's past where Confederate raider Mosby is said to have hanged Union spies, was casualty of Sunday night's storm. Two big limbs nearly 2 feet across were snapped off. One forked limb straddled a telephone cable which is shown being cleared away yesterday. The big oak stands beside W. Broad st., across from Tyler Gardens. Not more than one fourth of the tree was damaged

Girl, 2, Hurt in Fall

Two-year-old Cassandra A. Grant was admitted to Children's Hospital with head injuries yesterday morning after she tumbled from a second-story window at her home, 801 P st. nw. She crawled up on the chair and pushed the screen, apparently losing her balance, police said.

Fines in Alexandria

Alexandria Civil and Police Court disposed of 13,266 cases in 1948 taking in $77,421.83 in fines and fees, a Virginia State audit disclosed yesterday. The auditors commended Judge James R. Duncan and Clerk W. Stanton, jr., for "the excellent manner" in which they kept records.

Babich Pleads Not Guilty

Milwaukee, May 23 (AP).—Pleas of not guilty and not guilty by reason of temporary insanity were entered today for Milton Babich, accused slayer of his young wife's 16-year-old sister, Patricia Birmingham. The trial date was set tentatively for June 8.

Clergy Urged to Aid Doctors In Solving Health Problems

Clergymen can and should play an important part in prevention of disease and in the community's health in general, three speakers told about 40 members of the Washington Ministerial Union yesterday.

The Union, which has a membership of some 400 local Protestant ministers, met at the National Presbyterian Church, 18th and N sts. nw., in a program arranged with the D. C. Tuberculosis Association.

The program was described by the Union's outgoing president, Gerhart E. Lenski, pastor of the Grace Lutheran Church, as "only the first step, we hope, in bringing the services of the church and the medical profession closer in solving community health problems."

The speakers were Miss Edith M. Gates, health education director for the TB Association, Dr. Howard M. Payne, professor at the School of Medicine, Howard University, and Miss Mildred M. Kilinski, executive director of the Family Service Association.

In an election of officers the Rev. Lenski was succeeded as president by the Rev. Orris G. Robinson of Calvary Methodist Church.

Arthur J. Hazes, executive director of the Displaced Persons Commission, was the luncheon speaker, the Union went on record in favor of reducing certain restrictions against DPs.

Citizenship Lost by Living Abroad 5 Years

A naturalized American loses his citizenship by living abroad for five years or more, the Court of Appeals ruled yesterday in a split decision.

The ruling was made in the case of Louis Bernard Lapides, a naturalized American who lived in Palestine from 1934 to 1947.

Lapides contended that the law which provides that "a person who becomes a national by naturalization shall lose his nationality by . . . residing continuously for five years in any other foreign state" is unconstitutional. He argued that the law discriminates between naturalized and native-born citizens.

For the majority, Judges James M. Proctor and Bennett Champ Clark held that the law, part of the Nationality Act of 1940, was constitutional. They ruled that the act was not discriminatory, pointing out that Lapides remained voluntarily in Palestine more than five years and advanced no excuse for not returning within the permitted time. Lapides was born in Austria and was naturalized in 1928.

In dissent, Judge Henry W. Edgerton called the law unconstitutional on two counts: "Congress may not discriminate against naturalized citizens" and "arbitrary discrimination is not due process of law."

The power of naturalization, vested in Congress by the Constitution, is a power to confer citizenship, not a power to take it away, Judge Edgerton found.

The pertinent reaction of the Nationality Act takes liberty from all naturalized citizens, regardless of their devotion to America, he said.

The American Civil Liberties Union, the American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress filed briefs urging reversal of the original District Court decision.

U. S. Employes Union Adopts Loyalty Oath

The two-months old American Federation of Government Employes, Lodge 248, AFL, last night adopted a set of by-laws which called for loyalty oaths for prospective members.

About 50 members attended the special meeting in the board room of the District Building. The union which was formed for employees of the Municipal Center and the District Building, has a membership of about 150.

Dr. Kerekes to Speak

Dr. Tibor Kerekes of the Georgetown University history department will speak on "A Cardinal on Trial," at a meeting of the Study Guild Catholic Library at 1726 Rhode Island ave. nw., at 8:30 p. m. today.

Citizens Back Flanagan for Another Term

The Mid-City Citizens Association last night indorsed the reappointment of Chairman James H. Flanagan of the Public Utilities Commission.

Meeting at the Thomson School, 12th and L sts. nw., the 25 members attending also adopted a resolution for continuation of segregation on District playgrounds.

In other actions, the group asked the PUC to reroute Benning buses from I st. to New York ave., where the Benning streetcars ran until buses replaced them; voted against the proposed permanent child day-care center in favor of a temporary setup; and voted against a proposal to change the name of Eastern ave. to Ohio ave.

Oldest Inhabitants

The Oldest Inhabitants, Inc., last night authorized a letter to the Senate District Committee asking that the upcoming hearings on the reappointment nomination of Commissioner John Russell Young be open, so that citizens could also submit questions.

About 85 members attended the meeting at Odd Fellows Hall, 9th and T sts. nw. They also authorized a letter to congressional appropriations committees asking for appropriations for construction of the proposed Spingarn School and for a new school to replace Dunbar High School.

Twenty-five members responded to an appeal for members by Mrs. Charles Thompson who spoke for the Consolidated Parents Organization. Mrs. Thompson's group is working for the relief of overcrowded conditions in the schools.

Ivy City

The Ivy City Civic Association last night authorized a letter of protest to the Commissioners against the proposed establishment of a supply dump on residential property near the Alexander Crummell School.

The action was taken at a special meeting called by President Louis W. Crowe at the Crummell School, Gallaudet st. and Central pl. ne.

The letter stated that the dump for electrical supplies on the city-owned lot would create a hazard for school children since it is located along the main approach to the school; asked why the dump is planned in a residential area, and asked that no use be made of the lot which is contrary to the regulations governing residential-zoned property.

Georgetown

Lieut. Col. C. H. Whitesell, jr., assistant engineer commissioner, outlined proposed public improvements and the status of improvements now under construction last night at the meeting of he Georgetown Citizens Association at St. John's Parish Hall, Potomac and O sts. nw.

The association continued its present slate of officers by a unanimous vote in its annual elections.

Named for another year were Teunis Collier, builder, of 3001 Dent pl. nw., president; Brig. Gen. Karl S. Bradford, first vice president; Col. Milo H. Brinkley, second vice president; Miss Emily Brown, secretary, and C. Wendell Shoemaker, treasurer.

North Capitol

At its final meeting of the season last night the North Capitol Citizens' Association indorsed the renomination of J. Russell Young as District Commissioner, elected Thomas L. Bigham as delegate to the Northeast Council of Citizens' Associations, and reiterated its stand in support of segregated playgrounds.

The association met in the Atonement Lutheran Church at North Capitol st. and Rhode Island ave. Twenty-two members were present.

Group Favors Bill to Extend Fire Area

The Silver Spring Allied Civic Group, representing 20 civic organizations, last night indorsed a Montgomery County bill to transfer several sections in the Silver Spring area from the Kensington to the Silver Spring fire department route.

The Montgomery County Council, in legislative session, at 9 a. m. today in the Rockville Court House will hold a hearing on the proposal.

Robert Sherwin, of Forest Grove Citizens Association, proposed last night's resolution.

Opposition was voiced by O. E. Way, of Capital View Park and a member of the Kensington Fire Board. Way claimed Kensington Fire Department, with modern equipment, could reach fires in the area involved, east of Georgia ave., as quickly as the Silver Spring brigade.

Axis 'Sally Abused By Other Inmate, Her Sister Charges

Mildred E. "Axis Sally" Gillars is being "spat on" and "generally mistreated" by her fellow prisoners in District Jail, the convicted traitor's sister charged yesterday.

The sister, Mrs. Edna Herrick, said the jail superintendent, Col. Curtis Reid, had "promised an investigation."

Mrs. Herrick would not give her current address or say when she had last seen her sister, who was sentenced to serve from 10 to 30 years in jail for treason.

Colonel Reid could not be reached for comment, but other jail officials said Axis Sally was being treated "no different from other prisoners" and that prison rules forbade spitting.

Charles Gordon Booth

Beverly Hills, Calif., May 23 (AP). Death has taken Charles Gordon Booth, 51, author of such novels as "The General Died at Dawn," and "Johnny Angel."

Henry T. Harrison Dies at 81; Long a Maryland U. Professor

Professor Henry T. Harrison, for 25 years a mathematics professor at the University of Maryland, died at 81 yesterday in his home, 4704 Calvert rd., College Park, Md.

Although he resigned from the university faculty in 1917 to spend the next 15 years of his life managing a Massachusetts steel concern, Professor Harrison returned to College Park to live in 1932, after he retired.

He was one of the teachers of the current president of the university, Dr. H. C. Byrd, during the years 1905 to 1908. Professor Harrison was also a member of the athletic board which brought Dr. Byrd back to College Park as a football coach.

Surviving is his widow, the former Georgia Shallenberger, a native of Washington. They would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary next year.

Other surivors are a daughter, Mrs. Theodore Gibson, of Salem Va.; a son, Henry T. Harrison jr. of Denver, Col.; a sister, Mrs. R. H. Sothron, of Charlotte Hall, Va., and three brothers, Ferguson Harrison, of Bethesda, Md., Rowland Harrison, of Arlington, Va., and George Harrison of Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow from Gasch's Funeral Home, Hyattsville, Md.

Burial will be in the cemetery of All Faiths' Church, Charlotte Hall.

Moses Stern, Ex-Grocer, Dies at 80

Moses Stern, 80, retired grocer, died yesterday at his home, 767 Princeton pl. nw., after a long illness.

Mr. Stern had lived in Washington for 53 years. During that time, he had been in the grocery business in various sections of the city.

A native of Russia, he came to this country as a young man, settling first in Baltimore for a short time before coming here in 1896.

Services will be held at 11 a. m. today at the Danzansky funeral home, 3501 14th st. nw. Burial will be in the Northeast Congregational Cemetery.

Mr. Stern is survived by his wife, Mrs. Rebecca Stern of the Princeton pl. address, and seven children, Charles Stern of Baltimore; Sol Stern of 1412 Spring rd. nw.; Adolph Stern of San Bernardino, Calif., Leon Stern of Cleveland; Mrs. Frances Hecht of the Princeton pl. address; Herman Stern of 422 Fifteenth st. ne. and Harry Stern of Cumberland, Md.

Trustees Plan 2 Auctions at Restaurant

Two auction sales on the furnishings of Brownie's Restaurant, 501 12th st. nw., will probably be held Wednesday morning as a result of actions against the establishment by the District Government and holders of a mortgage.

The restaurant, operated by Endres Co., Inc., was seized and padlocked two weeks ago by Collector of Taxes Guy W. Pearson for non payment of personal property taxes amounting to $1508.

A few hours later, the trustees for R. H. Tushek, retired restauranteur, who holds a $21,600 chattel mortgage on the furnishings, foreclosed. At their request, Pearson permitted the restaurant to reopen pending the auction sale Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Jack L. Friedlander, attorney for the trustees, said it is doubtful that the Adam A. Weschler & Son auction firm will realize enough at the sale to cover both the tax and mortgage claims, and therefore the trustees will probably hold a second sale a few minutes after.

He said the District sale would have to be subject to the chattel mortgage claim. Present indications are that if a "reasonable" amount is not realized in the second sale, Tushek will take over the restaurant and run it himself.

Arrest 'Bares' Culprit Who Stole Undergarments

Arrest of a 17-year-old boy yesterday uncovered the fate of about 150 women's undergarments stolen from clothes lines in the vicinity of the 2500 block of 17th st. nw. since Christmas.

Detective Vernon Culpepper of the Tenth Precinct, who had been assigned to unravel the mystery, said the youth admitted the thefts in weekly forays.

Yesterday morning, the boy's labors awakened Vincent Hobday, resident manager of an apartment house at 2518 17th st. nw. He tried to flee, but gave up quietly when Hobday fired one shot from his Italian automatic into the air.

At his home, police found 25 pairs of panties. Asked to explain his peculiar penchant, the boy told police, "I have no explanation, I don't know why I did it."

Prince Georges Chamber Elects Nicholas Orem, Jr.

Nicholas Orem, jr., attorney for the city of Hyattsville, Md., last night was elected president of the Prince Georges County Chamber of Commerce at the chamber's annual dinner at the Prince Georges Golf and Country Club.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, Alfred H. Smith, president of the Citizens Bank of Riverdale, Md.; second vice president, Charles E. Callow, who has served as secretary of the organization for the past five years, and treasurer, William Bowie, vice president of the Prince Georges Bank and Trust Co.

Elected as members of the board of directors for three year terms are: Jack Norman, Harry McFarlin, Bernard F. Shields and Herbert W. Wells.

Body of Cadet Air Crash Victim Found

Williams Air Force Base, May 23 (AP).—A ground rescue party today found the body of Aviation Cadet Robert G. Jones, 21, of Baltimore, Md.

He had been missing since Friday night when his Shooting Star jet plane collided with another craft during a night training flight.

The body of First Lieut. William H. Driskill, 27, of San Angelo, Tex., pilot of the other plane, was found Saturday, still in the cockpit of the plane.

Cathedral Rites Today For Mrs. Suter

Funeral services for Mrs. Margaret Sturgis Suter, 55, wife of the Very Rev. John Wallace Suter, dean of the Washington Cathedral, will be conducted today at 2 p. m. by the Right Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of Washington, at the cathedral. Burial will be private.

Bishop Dun will be assisted in the services by the Right Rev. Malcolm Peabody, Bishop of Central New York, and the Rev. Hugh D. McCandless, rector of the Church of the Epiphany, New York City. The full choir of men and boys of the cathedral will sing music specially selected by Dean Suter.

Mrs. Suter died Saturday in George Washington Hospital after a short illness. A native of New Haven, Conn., she came to Washington from New York in 1944 when her husband was made cathedral dean. She was a member of All Hallow's Guild and of the Cosmopolitan Club of New York.

Surviving, in addition to her husband, are a daugher, Mrs. Margaret Rood, of Washington; two sons, Richard S. Suter, of Alexandria, and John W. Suter, jr., of Grosse Point, Mich.; two brothers, Alanson H. Sturgis, of Milton, Mass., and Norman R. Sturgis, of Boston; a sister, Miss Julie Sturgis, of Boston, and five grandchildren.

Capt. George Stackhouse

Funeral services for Capt. George M. Stackhouse, 76, retired Navy Supply Corps officer, were held yesterday at his home, Lee hwy. and North Powhatan st., Arlington. Burial will be in Marion, S. C., today.

Capt. Stackhouse

Captain Stackhouse died Saturday in Bethesda Naval Hospital. He had been hospitalized for several weeks.

He entered the Navy as a pay officer in 1899, after graduating from The Citadel. He was retired for physical disability in 1913 with the rank of lieutenant commander. He was recalled to active duty in 1918 and subsequently retired in 1937.

Harry E. Collins

Harry Ellis Collins, 66, former Navy captain and vice president of Bell Aircraft Co., died Sunday after a long illness in the University of California Hospital at San Francisco.

A native of Washington, he resigned in 1930 after 24 years in the Navy to join the Curtiss-Wright Aviation Corp. In 1940 he joined Bell Aircraft and built the company's plant at Marietta, Ga. He retired from business in 1945.

In 1939 and 1940, Captain Collins served as director of the procurement division of the Treasury Department in Washington, where he supervised all but War and Navy Department purchases.

On graduation from Columbia University, he entered the Navy as an ensign in the Pay Corps. He served in the Pacific during the first World War.

He was a member of the Capital City Club and the Army and Navy Country Club of Atlanta, Ga., and the Army and Navy Club of Washington.

Captain Collins is survived by his wife, the former Hester Borden; a sister, Miss Isabel Collins, 3708 Military rd. nw., and a brother, Philip L. Collins, manager of the Veterans Administration Hospital at Kecoughtan, Va.

Funeral and burial services will be held in San Francisco today.

Col. Garber Dies; Once on General Staff

Col. Max B. Garber, USA., ret., former member of the War Department's General Staff, died Sunday at Walter Reed Hospital of a heart attack.

Col. Garber

Colonel Garber, who was 71, had suffered a heart ailment since 1944.

A native of Marble Rock, Iowa, Colonel Garber was graduated in 1903 from West Point, in the same class as Gen. Douglas MacArthur. His home here was at 3049 Ordway st. nw.

He served in the Philippines early in his career and received the Silver Star in 1904 for "gallantry in action against hostile Moros."

In World War I he served in the Fourth Division and commanded the Fifty-ninth Infantry in France, later receiving the Distinguished Service Medal.

In 1923 he was graduated from the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kans., and in 1926 from the War College. He served on the War Department General Staff in Washington from 1927 until his retirement in 1931 for physical disability.

From about 1935 to 1943 he operated an investment and insurance firm with William Canby here. He is the author of "The Modern Military Dictionary." He was a member of the Army and Navy Club and of Kenwood Golf and Country Club.

Colonel Garber leaves his wife, the former Etelka Williar, whom he married in 1907, and a daughter, Miss Genevieve W. Garber, both of the Ordway st. address.

Funeral services will be held with full military honors at 11 a. m. Thursday in the chapel at Arlington Cemetery, with burial following there.

Dr. William Hansen

Palo Alto, Calif., May 23 (AP).—Dr. William W. Hansen, young scientist who pioneered the development of radar, died today.

The professor of physics at Stanford University, died just before his fortieth birthday. Death was attributed to chronic bronchitis after an attack of pneumonia.

As early as 1937 Dr. Hansen was working on radar for military purposes. He recently was elected to the National Academy of Sciences, and was awarded the Liebmann memorial prize for outstanding work as a radio engineer.

Scientists considered Dr. Hansen a war casualty. He became ill while commuting, during the war, between Massachusetts Institute of Technology and his important military job in the Sperry Gyroscope Laboratory on Long Island. A subsequent trip to England for a conference on atomic particle accelerators aggravated his condition.

Correction

An item in The Washington Post last Saturday concerning a suit brought against the New York Avenue Motor Company, the Hudson Motor Car Company and the Hudson Sales Corporation, identified William Manuel as sales manager of the Hudson Motor Car Company.

Actually Manuel is sales manager of the New York Avenue Motor Company. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Johnson Asks Fleet Of Passenger Ships

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.), chairman of the Senate Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, described the American Merchant Marine last night as "unbalanced" due to the lack of passenger ships.

Johnson spoke at the annual dinner of the Propeller Club of the United States, Port of Washington, at the Mayflower Hotel.

Approximately 375 persons, including about 25 members of Congress, high officials of the Armed Forces and the Maritime management and labor leaders attended.

"Although we have a bigger fleet today than prewar, we have an unbalanced fleet, due to the fact that during the war we built thousands of cargo ships but no passenger ships," Johnson declared.

Our present fleet of 1566 active units consists of 1036 cargo ships, 468 tankers and only 62 passenger-carrying vessels having accommodations for 19,370 passengers which, for the most part, are the so-called 'austerity' type."

Sees Competitive Disadvantage

Terming this a "most serious defect," Johnson said, "this situation has put us at a serious competitive disadvantage in the international travel field and constitutes a grave danger should an emergency arise suddenly."

Johnson described a 70 million dollar, 2000-passenger, 48,000-ton superliner, for which he said contracts recently were signed, "the largest commercial vessel ever built in this country."

"This superliner will go a long way toward putting the American flag back into a competitive position in North Atlantic passenger service," he said. He added that "should we ever be so unfortunate as to need her for a troopship, she will carry 14,000 men at high speed."

Johnson said five other passenger vessels are under contract.

Tribute Paid To Forrestal

Guests at the dinner were welcomed by Capt. John S. Delano, president of the American Pilots' Association. Winder R. Harris, president of the club and vice president of the Shipbuilders' Council of America, presided.

Harris paid tribute to the late James Forrestal, former Secretary of Defense, as a "friend of the Merchant Marine." Those present stood for a moment in silent tribute to the secretary who was killed early Sunday when he plunged from a 16th-floor window at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Later, Harris presented Representative Bland (D., Va.) with an honorary membership in the club for his "vigorous and effective" championship of the American Merchant Marine.

Bland, chairman of the House Merchant Marine Committee, is recognized as the "father" of the Merchant Marine Act of 1936.

Hearing Delayed

ABC Cites Occidental on Credit Sales

The Occidental Restaurant and Hotel, 1411-1413 Pennsylvania ave. nw., has been cited on a charge of selling alcoholic beverages on credit to a nonregistered guest.

A hearing on the charge, originally set for Thursday by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, has been postponed for 30 days, the board announced yesterday, at the request of the Occidental.

The delay was asked pending action on a proposed amendment of the law banning such sales.

The Statler Hotel, previously found guilty on the same charge, was dry from 8 a. m. yesterday to 8 a. m. this morning. A third hotel, the Hamilton, was warned recently against such sales.

The ABC yesterday heard protests against proposed transfer of a Retail Class A license from Liggett's Drugstore, 1301 F st. nw., to Sav-On Liquor, Inc., 1416 14th st. nw. Those objecting to the action—Abraham S. Ekuler, president of Barrel House, 1341 14th st. nw., and Samuel Tranen, manager of Bassin's Liquor Store, 1450 P st. nw.—contended the area already had enough liquor stores.

Protests will be heard at 10 a. m. today by the ABC on proposed transfer of a Class A package-store license by Henry Ridge from 87 Florida ave. nw. to 1013 Kenilworth ave. ne.

Groups From 11 Nations to See Lee War Games

Camp Lee, Va., May 23 (AP).—Officers and military attaches representing several foreign embassies at Washington arrived at Camp Lee today to study and participate in Exercise Log Lee, largest administrative and technical maneuver ever initiated by the Department of the Army.

Eleven nations, including England, France, Turkey, Mexico, Venezuela, Argentina, Netherlands, Brazil, Bolivia, Canada and the Philippines, are represented. The officers will take part in the logistical exercise as "players" and observers.

Getting under way today, which has been designated D Plus 35, Exercise Log Lee is the Army's first experiment in unifying all services of supply, communications and transportation under a "logistical division." Members of the Marine Corps, Navy and Air Force are also participating as observers.

300,000 Welcome President Dutra In New York

New York, May 23 (U.P.).—President Eurico Gaspar Dutra of Brazil was accorded the traditional "ticker tape" welcome today in a procession down Broadway to City Hall, led by six bands and witnessed by 300,000 persons.

As cheers of "Viva Dutra" rang out, Mayor William O'Dwyer greeted Dutra as the "first Brazilian Chief of State to visit us since 1876."

"We ask that on your return you tell all Brazil that we stand with you and with all the democracies of the Americas for a free world," O'Dwyer said.

Dutra replied that there was an "unbreakable friendship between our two nations in war and peace."

Course of Love By Mail Runs Into Los Angeles Jail

Los Angeles, May 23 (U.P.).—Ethel Couto, 30, arrived today from New Bedford, Mass., planning to marry, but instead had her mail-order fiance jailed.

She said she was surprised to learn the man, Clarence Lee Weir, 37, San Bernardino, Calif, is a Negro. The picture he had sent her was that of a white man, she said. It turned out he also had a wife already.

The charge filed against Weir is known as "grand theft bunco marriage."

Lewis to Open Southern Coal Talks Wednesday

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis disclosed yesterday he will open negotiations personally on Wednesday with Southern coal operators at Bluefield, W. Va.

Lewis announced after an all-day meeting with aides his decision to go to Bluefield for the beginning of contract talks with representatives of one-third of the Nation's soft coal producers.

The United Mine Workers chief conferred with the presidents of the 30 anthracite and bituminous coal-producing districts.

Postlude

Cerwonka Recital Full Of Flaws

By Paul Hume

Josef Cerwonka, who sang last night at the Phillips Gallery, has a beautiful voice and much to learn about singing.

His program ranged standard literature from 18th century Italians to modern England. American composers didn't get a foot in the door, which is unfair and ungrateful of any native singer.

Enunciation in Italian, German, French, and English was accurate, and for the most part, very clear. Cerwonka's voice is a natural lyric tenor, of appealing quality, capable of considerable emotional expressiveness. This last quality is overworked to the disadvantage of the real beauties of singing.

The young tenor tries to substitute personal feeling for the disciplines of music. Rhythm, precision in attacks, and breathing at proper places fell by the way to allow the singer to do his will instead of the composer's.

True, there were many moments of loveliness during the recital. The quiet voice has a velvety sound that lures the ear. Full voice in certain vowels is also solid and ringing. But a rigid method of producing every tone keeps the voice from ever being heard completely. The tension is so great that every note is released by a marked snap of the jaw.

Cerwonka, who is only 24, has put his cart before his horse. He has done no irreparable damage to the wonderful gift that is his. But it will take him several years to eliminate flaws in his system of tone production. During those years, he should also study the art of music.

Difference in style between Torelli and Chausson must be more apparant than it was last night. Schubert's "Impatient" was a disgrace, though it should have been a natural for the singer. French songs cannot at any point be exploded, and they require long sustained lines which Cerwonka's lack of breath made impossible.

Breathing, relaxation, and real insight into music together with his excellent voice will make Cerwonka a fine singer. Edwin Davis provided him with smooth well proportioned accompaniments.

Junior League Provisional Bids Go to 47

The Junior League of Washington has invited 47 young Washington women to become provisional members. After completing a short intensive course in civic, educational and cultural problems of the community, they will become active members of the Junior League.

The provisional members are Miss Margaret Adair, Miss Katharyn Joanne Alvord, Miss Patricia Appel, Miss Elizabeth Bassett, Miss Elizabeth Beach, Mrs. Edward A. Beard, Miss Jeanne Beauregard, Mrs. William Liscum Borden, Miss Carolyn Bradley, Miss Mabel Cunningham, Miss Frances Dear, Miss Claire Delattre-Seguy, Miss Anne Dickinson, Mrs. John English, Mrs. John Ewan, Mrs. David Gaillard 2d, Miss Monica Gaillard, Mrs. Wilbur Garrett, jr., Mis Juliet Gill and Miss Mary Alice Goodrich.

Also, Mrs. Eugene Gott 3d, Mrs. Arthur Hanson, Miss Louise Hoover, Miss Jacqueline Lee, Mrs. Eugene Liipfert, Miss Beatrice MacArthur, Miss Anne Maguire, Mrs. Harold Marsh, Miss Caroline McCleskey, Mrs. William McClure, Mrs. Malvern Morse, Mrs. Harold Moseley, Miss Dudley Nicolson, Mrs. Crosby Noyes, Mrs. Courts Oulahan, Mrs. George Rand, Mrs. Alvin Richardson, Mrs. Michael Q. Shaughnessy, Mrs. Harper Sibley, jr., Mrs. Philip Sigleton, Mrs. George Skinner, Miss Nancy Thomas, Mrs. John Vance, Miss Edwina Pou Wadden, Miss Helen Willard, Mrs. Frank Williams and Mrs. James Wyper.

Mrs. Truman Attends Opening Of St. Lo Benefit Rooms Exhibit

MRS. TRUMAN attended the opening yesterday of the miniature rooms exhibit at the World Affairs Center. Among the first to arrive at the benefit, she was met at the door by Mrs. Charles Dewey, honorary president of American Aid to France. The First Lady was costumed in tailored grey suit, with a natural straw sailor trimmed in cornflower blue ribbon.

Details of the miniature rooms, which were created by Mrs. James Ward Thorne, were examined with interest by Mrs. Truman. Mrs. Dewey and her daughter, Mrs. Byron Smith of Lake Forest, Ill., accompanied her around the exhibit. In one drawing room, a needlepoint fire screen, 1 inch square, drew attention; and in a Georgian library, admiration was expressed for a shelf of leather-bound books. Each book, about three-fourths inch high, it was explained, could be opened and read.

One of the grightest rooms in the exhibit is a "summer kitchen," complete with cat, hand pump and hook rug. A screen door leads out to an old-fashioned flower garden filled with sunshine. There is also a miniature colonial bedroom, with crisp white ruffles at the window, a canopy bed and a Sheraton powder table.

Other miniature rooms include a Louis XVI drawing room, a Directoire drawing room, an Italian dining room with fireplace aglow, a Spanish bedroom, and a modern hallway. Each exhibit is unique, and a marvel in authenticity and study of detail. And all the work is done with great taste and charm.

A number of luncheon parties preceded yesterday's preview. Mrs. Gilpin Ervin and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss entertained at a luncheon with Gen. and Mrs. Omar N. Bradley the guests of honor. General Bradley is especially interested in the exhibit, which is a benefit for the American Hospital at St. Lo, as he was commanding officer at St. Lo at the time of the invasion.

Others in attendance at the exhibit were Mrs. Clarence Norton Goodwin, Mme. Raymond Tartiere, Mrs. M. Robert Guggenheim, Mrs. William Mann, Mrs. Lewis Clark, Mrs. John T. Remey, Mrs. Harold Burton, Mrs. John Cabot, and Col. and Mrs. Curt C. Schiffeler.

The benefit for St. Lo hospital will last through June 18. Hours of the exhibit are from 10 to 5:30 daily except Sunday. Tickets may be obtained at the Washington World Affairs Center, 1712 H st. nw.

Mrs. Dominick Again Heads Symphony Unit

The National Symphony Orchestra Women's Committee held its annual luncheon meeting yesterday and elected new officers.

Mrs. Theodore Dominick, chairman of the committee, presided at the meeting, held at 12:30 in the Chinese Room of the Mayflower Hotel.

On her right sat the guest of honor, Mrs. Howard Mitchell, wife of the National Symphony conductor. Others at the speakers' table were Mrs. Edward R. Finkenstaedt, Mrs. E. C. B. Danforth, Mrs. De Forest Van Slyck, Mrs. H. Russell Bishop and Mrs. Hans A. Klagsbrann.

Officers elected to serve the coming season are Mrs. Dominick, reelected chairman; Mrs. Finkenstaedt, reelected vice chairman; Mrs. Danforth, reelected vice chairman; Mrs. Clinton Raynor, vice chairman; Mrs. Warren Ege, reelected recording secretary; Mrs. H. Russell Bishop, reelected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Gordon Young, treasurer.

Mrs. Dominick announced that Latin American ladies of the Diplomatic Corps, who have generously supported the symphony every year with some form of benefit entertainment, would again entertain for the symphony. Under the chairmanship of Mrs. Thomas Burke, a party will be held on Tuesday, May 31, at the Mexican Embassy at 9 o'clock. There will be guest artists and a selection of Latin American folk dances. After the entertainment a buffet supper will be served.

Mrs. Klagsbrann announced the results of the sustaining fund drive. The goal was $190,000, $15,000 of which was underwritten by Frank Jelleff for the Watergate concerts. That left a goal of $175,000, and the symphony now has $161,012. Last year, contributions were made by 7655, this year by 9025, which shows an increase of 17.8 per cent in the backing of the people of Washington.

Arab Refugee Camps Pitiful, Democrats Told

Between 800,000 and 900,000 refugee Arabs from Palestine are living in camps worse than any of the refugee or Displaced Persons camps in Eastern Europe, declared Mrs. Lydia Van Zandt, author, lecturer and traveler, in a luncheon address yesterday before members of the Women's National Democratic Club.

Mrs. Van Zandt, member of the speaker's bureau of the United Nations, recently returned from a trip to the Middle East where she attended the conference of the U. N. Commission on the Status of Women, held in Beirut, Lebanon.

She said that she saw 15 to 30 people—men, women and children—living in one small tent without any sanitation facilities. Other refugees lived in unheated caves throughout the long, cold winter, she said.

"While there are 17 Arab refugee relief organizations, little can be done for the refugees because of lack of funds," she explained. "And unless tardy U. N. contributions are forthcoming even these camps in their deplorable condition can't be maintained."

Mrs. Van Zandt said that she found the Arab people bitter against the United States because of this country's active support of the partition of Palestine. "The United States will have to inaugurate some program similar to ECA before it can come back into favor with the Arabs," she emphasized.

Mrs. Van Zandt said the Syrian delegation attempted to introduce the Arab refugee problem during the U. N. conference of the Commission on the Status of Women, held in March, 1949, in Lebanon.

Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, wife of the Secretary of Agriculture, program chairman of the club, introduced the speaker.

AAUW Group Hears Wallace McClure

Wallace McClure yesterday gave members of the Washington branch of the American Association of University Women a brief history of the reciprocal trade agreements of the United States.

Mr. McClure, divisional assistant of the Division of Commercial Policy of the Department of State, spoke at a meeting of the legislative group at the clubhouse.

Miss Ethel M. Johnson, chairman of the legislative committee, AAUW, introduced the speaker. Preceding the meeting Mrs. Frank A. Linzel was tea hostess, assisted by Miss Grace Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Lewis and Mrs. Gertrude Albert.

On Friday, the literature section of the club will drive out to the home of Mrs. John Collins at Manassas, Va. The program will feature current plays and original poems.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Athletic Girl Had Real Fight With Man She Loves When He Mentioned Dreaming Of Another Girl; How Control Jealousy?

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl 17, very athletic, and get along much better with boys than with girls; but I have a jealous nature and that is my problem.

I have a steady boy friend, Tom; we are very much in love and I am very jealous of him; so much so than I am afraid I may get into serious trouble some day.

For instance, just today I fought with Tom, and I mean fought, because he dreamt about another girl. He tried to explain to me that he can't control his dreams, but I wouldn't listen. I don't want to hurt him, but when I get jealous I am very hurt and then want to hurt other people.

The above incident is just one of many that occur often, over girls, due to my insane jealousy, which has truly gone to extremes. I want very much to control it and am writing to you in great urgency, so please answer soon. F. R.

Rampant Jealousy Issues From Fear

DEAR F. R.: You are placing a very large order in calling on me to teach you how to control insane jealousy. The problem goes very deep. It has to do with profound anxiety about oneself. The cure consists in exploring the whole tangle of fear-feelings that "hurt" so much,—all of which go back to panic-sensations first experienced in infancy or early childhood.

Jealousy is a symptom, or by-product, or advertisement of emotional insecurity that took hold of the personality in babyhood, in a frantic conviction that "nobody cares what becomes of me when I'm totally helpless to take care of myself."

Infants who don't get a systematic satisfying amount of comforting mother-care, either as to feeding, diapering or playful coddling,—say infants who are orphaned, or who have several brothers and sisters closely spaced,—often are gripped by this dread conviction, if their howls for attention don't bring prompt response from a patient tender familiar person.

Insecurity Feelings Permeate Unconscious

ASSUMING that such was your infant experience, probably you were equally slighted in childhood, too; thus the acorn of hysterical anxiety planted in your unconscious in babyhood might be expected to have grown into a "spreading oak" of insecurity-feelings by now. And you can see it's quite a job to get that false growth, shall we call it, out of your system.

You say you're very athletic and get along better with boys than girls. This may mean that your principal childhood rivals were brothers, in the sense that they got the best part of your mother's love; so you got a notion that girls—or you as a girl—were despicable; and therefore you became a tomboy in an unconscious attempt to ape masculinity, in the hope of acquiring more favor thereby.

These suggestions may not literally apply to your case; but at least they're illustrative of the origins of insane jealousy; and whatever the story, you need firsthand psychological help to bring it out in the open—which is the first step in purging your system of residual anxieties that poison your present-day relationships. Ask Anne — About Old-Fashioned Rose Jars

We have many roses all in full bloom now, and I should like to know how to make those old-fashioned rose jars. How to do you bring out the perfume without the petals molding? Is there any way of making them up into gifts? Do you need anything besides the rose petals?

R. F.

The American Home magazine carried a full discussion of rose jars in its July (1948) issue, and W.B.B. has thoughtfully forwarded it to us. Here is a condensation of it:

Rose petals—from the garden or florist—will produce a fascinating scent. If roses grow in your garden, gather the flowers early in the mornin; and spread the petals lightly on a table in a cool place until the dew on them has dried. If you live in a town apartment and must use roses from the florist, let the flowers become full-blowm before you pluck off the petals. Incidentally, you can secure flowers quite reasonably if you ask your florist for day-old roses and tell him how you plan to use them.

Have ready a 1-gallon jar, which may be of stone or china, but must have a lid. Into it goes a layer of rose petals, about half an inch in depth, then a sprinkling of salt sufficient to form a very thin layer. Continue in this manner, alternating a layer of rose petals with a thin layer of salt, until the jar is half-filled. Store the jar in a cool, dark place for 10 days and stir the mixture once each morning.

When 10 days have passed, transfer the rose-petal mixture from the jar to another container. Grind and mix together an ounce each of cloves, allspice, and stick cinnamon. Scatter some of the spices in the bottom of the jar from which you removed the petals, then put in a layer of the rose-petal mixture. Continue in alternating layers until the spices and petal mixture are used up, and set the jar in a cool, dark place for three weeks. The mixture is the stock.

At the end of three weeks, the stock will be properly aged and ready for the final step. Assemble and mix together ¼ pound each of mace, allspice, and cloves, all coarsely ground; half a nutmeg, grated; ½ ounce cinnamon; 1 ounce powdered orrisroot; 4 ounces dried lavender flowers.

Fill the jar or jars selected for the potpourri with alternate layers of the stock and this last mixture and pack rather firmly. If rose geranium leaves are available, add a few. If not, purchase a tiny vial of rose oil from your druggist and place a few drops on the layers as you arrange them. Finally, add an ounce of good cologne to the whole mixture, or in proper proportions to the sizes of the individual jars you are using. A gallon crock half-filled with salted petals seems to produce a quantity of mixture sufficient to fill two one-quart jars, allowing a space of about an inch at the top of each jar. Always leave a space at the top, no matter what the size of the jar.

The small amount of effort you put into making a rose jar is repaid a thousand times over, says the American Home article by Hal Marquette. If you leave the jar uncovered for half an hour at regular intervals, your house or apartment will always be delightfully scented. Through the years, you will be fascinated by the changes that occur in the aroma due to variations in temperature and atmospheric pressure.

F. T. made inquiry in your column last Sunday regarding a "glass bell or dome that fits over the top decorations of a wedding cake." If the party will call Chestnut 8500 between 1 and 6 p. m. she will be given information about a place where it can be purchased, including the base.

District Liner Warns of Another Speed Trap

"Speaking of cops who run speed traps," writes Jim Crowley of 2509 Queen's Chapel rd. ne., "how about the one on Rhode Island ave. ne.?

"This fellow has regular spots, and has been hiding in them for years. You'll find him behind the wall on 14th, in the gas station at 16th, Dr. Bowen's wall at 20th, the gas station at 24th, the war memorial sign at Central ave., and the gas station at Eastern ave. Is this what they call patrolling?"

ADD SIGNS

B. Robertson of 413 6th st. sw. reports that a recent twin bill at the Stanton theater was:

"Unfaithfully Yours," "I Surrender Dear."

MODERN MATHEMATICS

Henry Steck (age 13) of 6428 31st pl. nw. tells me that his "kid sister" brought home a pretty good story from school. It goes like this:

Miss Rose gave the class a problem. If Sue's father gives her a dollar a week to buy food for her dog, how much does she spend on the pup each day?

Little Bobby was called on for the answer, and came up with: "Twenty cents."

"How did you get that?" asked Miss Rose.

"Five into 100 goes 20 times," replied Bobby.

"But, Bobby," protested Miss Rose, "how many days are there in a week?"

"Five," ruled Bobby. "You never count Saturdays and Sundays."

GIVE-AWAYS

"Black mother cat and black and white kitten. Housebroken, cute, playful." (Ordway 8940.)

"Affectionate shepherd dog, less than 2 years old." (Falls Church 1863.)

"Mother cat, three 2-month-old kittens, and an all-black cat from a previous litter; they're all sweet-tempered and loving, but we're leaving for Japan." (Chestnut 2671.)

"Beautifully marked year-old mother cat and two 6-week-old kittens." (Shepherd 0946.)

"Maltese mother cat and six little kittens." (Decatur 1649.)

"Affectionate, housebroken kitten, Persian mother." (Michigan 3329.)

PRESS AGENT STUNT?

When the make-up man clips stories in the wrong place, District Liners often find curious results.

Currently, Bob Teague of Presidential Gardens, Alexandria, Va. and Malton Boyce of 1731 N st. nw. point out that one of this newspaper's recent editions combined a news story and an advertisement to read:

"State police said they found this note on a match pad: NOW, NATIONAL, MR. SMITH GOES TO WASHINGTON."

o+o

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Eugenia S. Reed of 216 Moncure dr., Alexandria, Va., lost her wallet recently.

She was worried about the loss, because the wallet contained the usual identification cards, driver's permit, house key, key ring and money.

The other day, District Liner Reed received a letter containing her driver's permit and her house key.

The other valuables and the money were kept by the sender—to "teach her a lesson."

o+o

OVERHEARD

"What did they take Eddie in for? He didn't do nothin.' If I'da know'd they was going to take him in, I'da let him slug the guy."

o+o

LEARN & LOIN

Amy B. Goldstein of 3800 Massachusetts ave. nw. tells me that her 9-year-old daughter, Joan, is currently learning about the Belgian Congo in school.

The other day, when Joan read a newspaper story about a civic leader who was described as "a native Washingtonian," she exclaimed:

"Is that man a native, too? You'd never know it, because he dresses just like everybody else."

Investigation revealed that Joan's scholastic pursuits had caused her to believe that all natives, like those in the Belgian Congo, wear loin cloths.

o+o

WHY, INDEED?

Dick Ballard of 2644 S. Veitch st., Arlington, Va., poses an excellent question.

He points out that in most major league cities (especially when the local baseball team is putting up a good fight) many merchants put out "scoreboards," which are posted in store windows.

Passersby can see at a glance how the home nine is doing—and if they take two glances, they also get a look at the merchant's advertising message.

"But," asks Dick, "Why don't we see scoreboards like that all over Washington?"

Vaughan's Medal Almost Put Over

By Drew Pearson

The Army almost slipped the famed Argentine medal for Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan past the House Armed Services Committee the other day.

Gen. Vaughan

The diamond-studded order of San Mar , given to the President's military aide by Dictator Per was handed to the State Department after it was presented to Vaughan at a gala Argentine Embassy reception.

But Vaughan now wants the right to wear his medal, and to that end his name was buried in a list of 87 Army officers also decorated by foreign governments, all of whom must be ok'd by Congress. The list came before the House Armed Services Committee as a routine matter, and the hearing droned on all morning without incident. Then, just before the vote, Oregon's alert young Congressman, Walter Norblad, spied Vaughan's name.

"Wait," he broke in. "This legislation would authorize Harry Vaughan to get the famous Argentine medal, I take it?"

Lieut. Col. Philip Hooper, who was presenting the Army's case, flushed like a little boy caught in a naughty act.

"It would," he admitted.

"I see the name," Norblad directed, "on page 2, line 5."

"That's correct," agreed Colonel Hooper, counting the lines.

Chairman Carl Vinson of Georgia suddenly took more interest in the proceedings. He could see no rush, he said, in approving these medals.

Louisiana's Congressman Overton Brooks, who introduced the bill for the Army, objected, since the committee had already approved 37 foreign decorations for Navy officers.

The committee voted with Vinson and Norblad, so General Vaughan will have to wait before he can wear his coveted bauble.

Note—it is significant the Army sent the House Armed Services Committee a detailed private list of officers, telling why each medal was awarded. In most cases, some act of heroism or patriotism was cited. But opposite Vaughan's name was written: "The Department of the Army has no information on this."

Secret Letter

History sometimes hinges on little things. If it had not been for a telephone call just a little more than six months ago, another man would be in Paris today representing the United States at the most important diplomatic conference since Potsdam.

That man is Lewis Douglas, Ambassador to Britain, former head of Mutual Life Insurance, and inheritor of one of the great American copper fortunes. Few people know that only a phone call prevented his becoming Secretary of State.

That phone call was placed by Louis Johnson, then chairman of the Truman finance committee and in desperate need of funds. Johnson called Douglas early in the morning in Paris where he was attending a United Nations meeting, got him out of bed and told him that the Democrats were scraping the bottom of the campaign barrel. They needed money and needed it badly. Truman had given Douglas the highest plum in the entire field of diplomacy, and now Truman needed help in return.

Ambassador Douglas listened sleepily, replied that he had no money to spare. Later, when he was fully awake and back in London, he thought it over again and wrote Johnson a letter. But he still had no money to spare.

After Truman astounded the world by winning in November, he looked around for a new Secretary of State and, knowing nothing about the money-raising phases of the campaign, hit upon Douglas. In fact, he was about to appoint Douglas—when suddenly Louie Johnson walked into the White House with a copy of Douglas' letter in his pocket.

Truman read Douglas' plea of poverty. He knew Douglas' family had developed some of the wealthiest copper mines in Arizona. He knew Douglas, Ariz., was named for his grandfather. He knew Douglas had been chairman of the wealthy Mutual Life Insurance Co. He dropped the idea of making Douglas Secretary of State.

Douglas' letter, which changed one brief chapter in history is still one of the most secret documents in the files of the Democratic Committee, but its text follows:

"Dear Louis:

"It was early in the morning, Paris time, when your telephone call came through. I am afraid my talk with you did not appear to be particularly intelligent, for it routed me out of a sound sleep.

"I can well understand how great is your need for financial assistance, and I am writing to you to tell you quite candidly precisely what my position is.

"In the first place, I am a poor man and not a wealthy man. My tour of duty here has required me to go into my meager store of capital to a very substantial amount. I therefore do not have in my possession the funds with which I can make the sort of a contribution which I expect you want. This is the unvarnished and untainted truth. Moreover, I never have made any substantial contribution to the party for the reasons which I have recited above.

"In the second place, I came to London not because I wanted to come, for the title of ambassador holds for me no allurements whatsoever—it never has. It was understood that I would be completely nonpolitical . . . For this reason, even if I had the funds, it would be a mistake for me to make a contribution to the national committee."

Douglas went on to say that he would give a "modest contribution" to the Democratic State Committee in Arizona—which, incidentally, did not arrive until the election was over.

All of which is why Lew Douglas is not in Paris today as Secretary of State of the United States.

Why Drink Mountain Valley Instead of Other Waters?

How does Mountain Valley differ from other waters?

CARBONATED WATERS—In certain conditions, and after steady use, carbonated waters work adversely on the system. Mountain Valley is soothing, absolutely safe under all conditions.

SPRING, WELL, SURFACE WATERS—Surface waters always face pollution danger. There is no such danger with Mountain Valley.

DISTILLED WATER—Distilled water robs the system of vital minerals because it contains none, and dilutes and depletes the mineral reserves of the body. Only in rare cases is distilled water preferable even to faucet water.

LAXATIVE WATERS—Laxative waters should not be consumed regularly. Besides their harsh action, the minerals of most laxative waters are of no value to the system. Mountain Valley, not a laxative, has no harsh action on the system; its mineral content is in a form which can be utilized profitably by the body.

The soundest investment you can make is to drink Mountain Valley regularly—one of the world's distinctive Waters, from America's most popular spa—Hot Springs, Arkansas.
